Federal Official Says Story Boy-Ed In America Is False

Philadelphia, March 13.—Stories published here today that Captain Karl Boy-Ed, former naval attaché at the German embassy at Washington, was in this city as recently as a week ago and linking his name with the alleged smuggling plot involving the two interned German commerce raiders at the Philadelphia navy yard, were declared tonight to be without foundation by Frank Garbarino, head of the local bureau of investigation of the federal Department of Justice. Agents of the department were given as authority for the stories, which were to the effect that Captain Boy-Ed had come here, presumably to visit a young woman prominent in social circles in Philadelphia and Washington, to whom he had been reported engaged prior to his dismissal from this country in December, 1915.

Garbarino said there was absolutely nothing on which to base such statements and denied emphatically that either he or his assistants had given out such information, either privately or for publication. "The stories are ridiculous on their face," declared Garbarino.

Joint Committee Dry Bill Emerges From Committee

Lincoln, March 13.—(Special.)—The senate prohibition committee this morning reported out the joint committee dry bill, House Roll 793, without amendments. This decision was reached at a meeting of the senate committee at the Lindell hotel Monday evening. The bill as it now stands is considerably amended and modified by house committee of the whole amendments, which make many alterations in minor provisions as compared with the original bill drafted by the joint committee.

At the same time the committee reported out Senate File No. 208, the bill of the committee minority—Moriarty, Mattes, Kohl and Albert—which places a fine of from $10 to $100 on druggists who advertise remedies containing more than 2 per cent alcohol and on newspapers which accept this advertising. "How does this happen?" said Senator Moriarty, indicating that it might have been his preference to have it killed.

Issue Developing Between Britain and Holland

London, March 13.—The experience of the defensively armed British steamer Princess Melita, which was forced by the Dutch government to leave the Hook of Holland because of its armament has raised an issue which, it is believed, will assume the nature of a test case. It is stated that the British government will insist upon defensively armed ships being permitted to enter Dutch ports.

Negotiations between Great Britain and Holland regarding the retention of ships in Dutch harbors are still proceeding. The British government is unbending in its determination not to acquiesce in the policy of the Dutch in keeping their ships in their harbors because of the German submarine threat. It is hoped that a compromise may be reached, under which Holland can procure guarantees from both belligerents for a safe route for its vessels.

Huggins Will Shine Under New Owners

MILLER HUGGINS.

National league men are tickled to death with the passing of the St. Louis Cardinals from the hands of Mrs. Helen Hathaway Britton into the hands of a syndicate of St. Louis business men. It is said that the change means that Miller Huggins will now be empowered to secure new players and that in due time the Browns will experience some real competition. There is no doubt of Huggins' ability to manage a base ball team, but he has been handicapped in the past. He is one of the best posted base ball men in the profession.

Definite Orders to "Armed Guards" on U. S. Merchant Ships

Washington, March 13.—Complete and definite instructions to the "armed guards" to be placed aboard American merchant craft bound through the German submarine zones have been completed by the Navy department and approved by Secretary Lansing. They will be forwarded to the navy personnel aboard the merchant craft whenever the ships which are to be armed are ready to sail.

The nature of the instructions will not be made public. They were carefully prepared by navy officials and then submitted to Secretary Lansing at whose suggestion some amendments was made. It is planned not to broadcast the orders merely through the naval service, but to furnish the officer in command of the armed guard on each ship with a copy when his vessel is ready to sail.

The Navy department is making every effort to suppress all information regarding armed ships, such as sailing dates, the equipment put aboard by the navy, the personnel applied to handle the guns or anything that might be of the slightest value to an enemy. It was said officially, however, that no conflict of jurisdiction between the ship master and the gun crews would arise.

GERMANS RETIRE ON 3-MILE FRONT

Abandon Their Main Defensive System West of Bapaume, British Report Says.

VILLAGE AND WOOD TAKEN

London, March 13.—The official report from British headquarters in France announces the abandonment by the Germans of their main defensive system west of Bapaume, on a front of three and one-half miles. The British troops drove back the German rear guard to a depth of a mile and occupied Greveliers and Loupart wood.

The report reads: "In consequence of our bombardment of positions yesterday the enemy abandoned his main defensive system along the forward crest of the ridge west of Bapaume on a front of three and one-half miles. During the day our advancing troops have driven back the enemy's rear guard in this area for a depth of a mile and have occupied the village of Greveliers and Loupart wood."

A further retirement of the Germans on a front of between 4,000 and 5,000 yards and to an unknown depth is reported by a Reuter dispatch from the British front in France. The movement was still in progress when the dispatch was sent. The British have gone right through strong German positions in Loupart wood and seized the village of Greveliers (west of Bapaume). The retirement followed a heavy British bombardment and was made under cover of hazy weather.
