SWEDES LAY STRESS UPON PATRIOTISM

Noonday Club Listens to Speeches of This Tenor.

NOTABLE VISITORS HERE

Brave men and fair women, descendants of the Vikings, gathered last evening in the Fontenelle hotel at the eighth annual banquet of the Noonday club.

The 300 banqueters were principally Omahans of Swedish birth or ancestry, but many came also from other parts of the state and from western Iowa.

"Valhalla," the banquet hall, was decorated with festoons of American flags and a single Swedish flag.

The cover of the menu bore an embossed American flag and "America" was sung at the opening of the banquet. The keynote of the whole elaborate affair was patriotism, Americanism.

P. A. Edquist, Swedish vice consul at Omaha and president of the Noonday club, was toastmaster. He voiced the club's hearty welcome to its guests and particularly to the ladies.

"We want to thank the ladies especially," he said, "for gracing our festivities with their presence, and we want to welcome our out-of-town guests who come from distant points in Nebraska and Iowa and also from Kansas and from that 'Sweden in America,' Minneapolis."

The principal address in Swedish was delivered by Carl Edward Wallerstedt of the royal Swedish consulate, Minneapolis.

Dr. Ernst F. Philblad, president of Bethany college, Lindsborg, Kas., delivered the principal address in English, on "The Part of the Swede in American Life."

He sketched the remarkable activities of the Swedes in the building up of this country from the earliest days to the present. They were contemporary with the Dutch and English in settling the Atlantic coast states and they pushed on to the west with unflinching and making productive farms in the wilderness to add to the wealth of the country.

They have built schools and colleges, have produced great writers, inventors, statesmen, and have been a mighty factor in the building of the republic, providing a steady, sturdy, law-abiding and staunchly patriotic class of citizens.

He laid special emphasis upon the thoroughgoing Americanism of the Americans of Swedish birth or ancestry today, declaring that with them it is "America first, last and all the time."

Toastmaster Edquist called upon C. A. Abrahamson to respond to the toast of the ladies.

"God made the heavens and the earth and the noblest of all women, whom we all love and worship," said Mr. Abrahamson. "Sometimes we can't do anything with them, but we never can do anything without them. All that we have of courage, hope, purity and accomplishment we owe to woman."

Music

Patrick O'Neil in Song Recital. Rev. S. L. Dowd presented Patrick O'Neil, tenor, in song recital at the Brandeis theater last evening, assisted by Will Hetherington, violinist, and Bertha Clark, pianist.

This was Mr. O'Neil's first public appearance in Omaha since his residence here, and an audience of fair proportions greeted him. Mr. O'Neil was evidently suffering from a cold, as traces of hoarseness were frequently heard in his voice.

He enunciated well, and his tones were free and clear in the middle register. He sang his program entirely in English. In his group of Irish folksongs he won much favor with his audience and after "In Dublin's Fair City," the closing number of the group, he sang three encores, among them the "Low Back Car."

Mr. O'Neil opened the program with an aria "Una Furtiva Lagrima," by Donizetti, and sang three groups of songs besides. He responded to an encore after each group. Mr. Hetherington contributed three groups of violin numbers to the program, playing "Gavotte," by Gossen, "Rigaudon," by Monsigny, and the Zarzuela "Mazurka" with special success, and getting a broad and musical tone from the "Old Irish Melody," set by Percy Grainger, which he played as an encore.

Miss Bertha Clark followed both Mr. O'Neil and Mr. Hetherington carefully in her unobtrusive and acceptable accompaniments. H. M. R.
