Health Talks (By Dr. Burhorn)
 Lumbago is a muscular rheumatism in the small of the back, many times confused with sciatica. The primary cause of lumbago is a subluxation of one or more of the spinal segments, producing nerve pressure.
 Exposure to wet and cold, falls, jars, shocks, or anything that injures the spine or causes a misplacement of one or more of the vertebrae, producing nerve pressure, are the direct causes of lumbago and it is this nerve pressure that, if allowed to exist, produces pain to such an extent that motion is a practical impossibility. This lack of mobility is quite different from paralysis, in that a person does not dare to move these muscles, realizing that there is great pain connected with such action.
 Chiropractic adjustments free impinged nerves, allowing nature to assert herself, which consists in eliminating bodily poisons and building up resistance and putting the body in the best condition possible.
 If you have rheumatism in any form, spend a little time in making a thorough investigation of my methods.
 Dr. Burhorn is a graduate of the Palmer School of Chiropractic and has one of the finest equipped chiropractic offices in the west. Located in the Rose building, corner 16th and Farnam Sts., on the fourth floor. Phone Douglas 5347 for appointment. Consultation is free. Adjustments are $1.00. Outside calls, made by appointment, $2.

NEGRO ATTACKS SARAH EPSTEIN

Young Woman Is Dragged Into Eighteenth Street Alley—Bites Her Assailant.

HAD LONG FIGHT IN DARK

Good, sound teeth saved Miss Sarah Epstein, aged 22 years, of 3704 North Sixteenth street, from a dastardly assault by a powerful negro last night. She bit the hand which he had clamped over her mouth as a gag and screamed for help. Her assailant, who had dragged her into a dark alley, fled.
 Miss Epstein was on her way to a Jewish women's meeting at the home of Mrs. Anna Cohn, 1116 North Eighteenth street. As she was walking over Eighteenth street the negro leaped from the alley between Nicholas and Izard streets. Before she could shout he had carried her 100 feet into the darkened area. She bit his hand till the blood came. But her assailant again gagged her with his hand. She bit it again and when she shouted the second time the colored man ran down the alley and disappeared.
 Miss Epstein was verging on hysteria when she told her story to the police. She was unable to give a detailed description of the man who assaulted her because the intense darkness of the scene prevented her from getting a good look at him.

Sergeant Russell's Raiders Go After the Mickey-Promoter

Have you met the micky-promoter?
 He is the present pet peeve of Sergeant Russell and the police moral squad, and the friend of all active opponents of "bone-dry" measures. He is the most recent adornment of the front door of those saloons which would be closed after 8 p. m. He is distinctly a new development of the prohibition era and is the ogre whom Omaha police fearfully anticipate, when May flowers strew the coffin of King Boozie.
 An this is how he works.
 Suppose you, a member of the Thirty Thousand should be prompted by a certain cleaving of the tongue to seek a drink and the eight dismal bells have long since tolled, the supposed closing of all booze-emporiums. Then you may direct your steps to your favorite life saving station and speak gently to the silent sentinel at the door. Simultaneously you slip him two-bits and call your pet beer by name. He will vanish with your quarter and return with two amber bottles. These he will slip to you from beneath his coat, provided, of course, that no one is around to see.
 Simple arrangement, you say. Quite right. But it is hard to catch the wily man who is "promoting a micky." The other night Sergeant Russell and lid-lifting warriors found a saloonkeeper in his place of business. An opened beer bottle was on the bar. The proprietor said he was just about to drink the refreshment himself. There is no law against that and the officers walked out.
 There is a saloonist from harboring within his place any number of his employees. One or two "micky-promoters" may be among these guests as the police raiders swoop in. But unless the cops see actual purchases made, they are powerless to make arrests.
Three Men Are Held For Alleged Theft From Freight Train
 Arrest of three auto accessory thieves is believed by railroad and police detectives to have removed from active operation at least a portion of the alleged syndicate, which is believed to be making a regular business of stealing autos and auto goods, and then selling made-over cars.
 F. N. Cashman, assistant chief special agent of the Union Pacific, and city detectives effected the arrest of George Smith, Joe Brown and William Robertson. Friday morning they waived preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner McLaughlin and were held to the grand jury on charges of stealing $400 worth of auto accessories from an interstate Union Pacific freight shipment consigned to Paxton & Gallagher of Omaha.
