FIELD CLUB TO LIVE, ITS MEMBERS SAY

Unanimous Decision Reached at Meeting Held at Commercial Club.

BALANCE IN TREASURY

The Omaha Field club is alive and going to be more so. This was the unanimous decision at an enthusiastic meeting of about seventy-five of the members last evening at the Commercial club.

"This meeting has been called," said President Rutherford, "to dispel an idea that has gained much headway that the Field club is going to smash. Some members have fears of a big assessment. Others are alarmed because of the talked-of sale of the grounds. The Field club is in better financial condition. All debts have been paid and there is $2,500 in the treasury." (Applause.)

A. B. Shotwell, member of the board of directors, addressed the meeting and showed how the club can make a splendid investment by buying the Field club grounds if the people of Douglas county decide to sell them.

Proposes Lot Sale.

"Suppose the property sold at $300,000," he said. "We could sell seventy-six lots on the east end of the grounds at about $2,000 each. This would take care of nearly half of the cost. And in ten years the grounds would be worth $600,000. Do you think it would be hard to sell stockholder memberships in such an investment?"

He also told how the board of directors has planned to cut down on the managers' salary. He now receives $2,400 a year. By employing him only six months of the season it is proposed to cut this to $1,200. He stated $900 could also be saved on the golf expense.

"The raw food for the dining room cost $12,000 last year," he said. "It sold for about $16,000. This allowed for no overhead expense. We actually lost money on the dining room. We propose to cut out such dishes as lobster, which, if it isn't used today, is spoiled by tomorrow."

Smith for Good Ends.

Ed P. Smith declared that the management must not attempt to save money on the dining room.

Others spoke, generally voicing the opinion that a big membership can be secured when the bugaboos are dispelled, pointing out that it has the best golf course and that, with the removal of the Happy Hollow club it will be the nearest club to the city's center.

It was decided to remain "neutral" regarding the bill now in the legislature and each present member was made a committee of one to get some other good member to diffuse optimism regarding the club.

The anniversary of the founding of the Freedman's Aid society, an organization for the establishment of schools and colleges for colored people, will be celebrated in the evening.

Dr. I. G. Penn of Cincinnati, O., will be one of the principal speakers, as well as Prof. Hayes of George R. Smith college, Sedalia, Mo.

Witnesses Tell How Men Act in Battle Under Fire

The present war will furnish new facts concerning the psychology of the battlefield. It should be remembered that, as the Encyclopedia Britannica says, in a very graphic way, "the duration of a campaign is largely affected by the deadly properties of the modern firearms. It is true that the losses in battle are relatively less than in the day of Brown Bess and the smooth-bore cannon and almost insignificant when compared with the fearful carnage wrought by the sword and spear. The reason is simple.

"A battlefield in the old days, except at close quarters, was a comparatively safe locality and the greater part of the troops engaged were seldom exposed for a long time together to a hot and continuous fire. Today death has a far wider range and the strain on the nerves is consequently far more severe. Demoralization, therefore, sets in at an earlier period and is more complete.

"When troops once realize their inferiority they can no longer be depended on. It is not the losses they have actually suffered, but those that they expect to suffer, that affect them. Unless discipline and national spirit are of superior quality, unless the soldier is animated by something higher than the mere habit of mechanical obedience, panic, shirking and wholesale surrender will be the ordinary features of a campaign.

"These phenomena made themselves apparent, though in a less degree, as long ago as the American civil war, when the weapon of the infantry was a muzzle-loading rifle, firing at most two rounds a minute, and when the projectiles of the artillery were hardly more destructive than the stone shot of Mons Meg. With the magazine rifle, machine guns, shrapnel and high explosives they have become more pronounced than even at Vionville or Plevna."

Raiders Find Secret Bar In Place That They Pinch

Sergeant Russell and his Sahara squad pounced down upon Andrew Sorenson's saloon, 1701 Cumming street, at 9:30 Tuesday evening. They didn't find anyone in the place drinking but in a small room in the rear of a pool room, next door, they say they found a specially fitted up bar around which was crowded eight men. Andrew Sorenson was charged with running a disorderly house and the eight men as inmates.

A house at 1433 North Twenty-first street was raided Tuesday afternoon. Bertha Boyd was arrested and charged with being the keeper of a disorderly house. Five persons were jailed as inmates.

PARTY BATTLE ON TO CONTROL HOUSE

Mann's Suggestion Continues to Find Little Favor on Either Side.

ONE DEMOCRAT IS FOR IT

Washington, March 26.—Preliminary conferences of house leaders today developed opposition to Republican Leader Mann's proposal that he withdraw from the speakership race in favor of Speaker Clark and that the house committees be organized on bipartisan or nonpartisan lines at the opening of the extra session next Monday.

Representative Lenroot of Wisconsin, a progressive republican leader, declared, after a conference with Representatives Longworth of Ohio and Townser of Iowa, that he could not consent to such a program because it would "constitute an admission that if the republicans organize the house, the country will suffer." Mr. Lenroot said he did not believe the plan would be approved by republicans anywhere.

One in Favor of Plan.

Speaker Clark, after discussing the Mann proposal with many democrats, said he had found only one who favored it. The speaker is advising the democrats to make the organization contest as a party unless it is fully demonstrated that one side or the other cannot win, and in this the rank and file are supporting the speaker's stand enthusiastically. They declared generally today that Mr. Mann's proposal simply was an admission of doubt of the republicans' strength.

Representative Randall of California, prohibitionist, who has been active among the little group of independents, who will have a balance of power in the house organization, declined today to add to his declaration of last night, that four of the five independents will vote for Speaker Clark and the democratic organization. He said that despite his conviction that this was true, he planned to call a meeting of the independents for Thursday.

Among republicans, democrats and independents generally the feeling appeared to be that the organization fight should be carried out on party lines and disposed of as quickly as possible.
