Hawaiian Maid and Volcano

Many were the adventures which befell Sessue Hayakawa and his company, who will be seen at the Muse Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in the Lasky-Paramount production of Robert Louis Stevenson's famous story, "The Bottle Imp," when they were in Hawaii. Mr. Hayakawa, his director, Marshall Neilan, and the camera man, with a corps of assistants and several American members of the company, journeyed over to the islands expecting to engage a Hawaiian cast there. The leading woman, Lehua Wainahu, is a member of a very high Hawaiian family, and while she is a talented amateur actress, it was with great difficulty that they secured her parents' consent for her appearance in moving pictures. Nearly a week was consumed before this consent could be obtained, but Mr. Hayakawa and Mr. Neilan soon won over her parents that they permitted many of the scenes to be photographed on their estate. The company journeyed to Kilauea, the famous volcano, and a number of scenes were taken in its depths. Mr. Hayakawa and Mr. Neilan were nearly overcome with sulphur fumes, so great was their excitement in getting some of the views.

Kirk to Manage Fontenelle

Film Company's Affairs
J. E. Kirk is one of the "old heads" in the movie business and was for quite a while manager of the Pathe exchange. Previous to this he was on the road as a salesman for both the concern and the General Film company. His latest move is with the Fontenelle Feature Film company of this city, of which concern he has assumed the management. This company operates in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri in the state-rights field and only buys the best the market affords in high-grade features, and most of all of them have stars that are recognized as having great drawing power. Mr. Kirk is well and favorably known to practically everyone connected with the film business in this and the immediate territory, and there is no doubt but that a splendid success will be his.

Favorite—A Biograph Photoplay

Favorite—A Biograph photoplay will hold forth at this theater today. "The Mysterious Mrs. M." is the title, and lovely Louise Lovely is the star. It is a pleasing comedy-drama of a man that is told by a fortune teller that on a certain hour and day he will die. Ham and Bud furnish one of "Hes' unsteady" comedies to the bill, and Helen Gibson will be shown in "The Death Siding."

Ideal—Mr. and Mrs. Dostal

Ideal—Mr. and Mrs. Dostal announce the reopening of this theater, which has been closed for a short time in order that some repairs and improvements could be made. They are to be complimented on the opening picture, which is Margarita Fischer in "The Butterfly Girl." The California exposition forms most of the settings for this dainty picture and the story is of a little girl who only wishes in life to see the exposition. Monday, Ruth Roland in a comedy-drama, "The Sultana," in natural colors, from the studio of Pathe.

Lothrop—Manager Jensen

Lothrop—Manager Jensen announces that he will present today and tomorrow E. H. Sothern, star in the latest Lasky Blue Ribbon feature, "The Man of Mystery." Mr. Sothern is seen to the best of his ability in this offering and he is one of the few great actors of the stage who loses none of his personality on the screen. The usual "W" comedy will also be shown on the same bill.

Monroe—Robert Warwick

Monroe—Robert Warwick will hold forth at this theater today in a World "Brady-made" feature, "All Man." There is a splendid story to this play that is told in a somewhat different way and in which he will no doubt add many more admirers to his already long list of followers. Monday will present a splendid picture that will be announced later.

Magic—Stuart Holmes

Magic—Stuart Holmes will be the attraction at this theater today only in "The Scarlet Letter." This is the screen adaptation of Hawthorne's immortal classic, and William Fox has expended a great amount of money to make the entire presentation correct as to settings and detail. Special attention is called to the Wednesday offering, "The Eagle's Wings," one of the greatest preparatory pictures that has ever been produced. This picture has been endorsed personally by President Wilson and members of the cabinet. A copy of this picture will always be preserved at Washington, and it is said that it possibly might be used in getting recruits.

Bill for Current Week
Empress—A bill of exceptional merit is scheduled for the Empress during the present week. Starting today and continuing throughout the first half, Bryant Washburn is to appear in "Skinner's Dress Suit." This picture is from Henry Irving Dodge's intensely human and highly amusing story in the Saturday Evening Post. It is the story of how a dress suit leads a clerk up the ladder and lands him at the top in both society and business. The third installment of "The Battle of the Somme."

real war pictures taken in the trenches in France, also will be shown. All the machinery of the great war is shown in action on the screen and men are seen to fall as they charge from their trenches. The fact that there is nothing faked about the pictures make them the more impressive. Beginning Thursday Charlotte Walker will be seen in "Mary Lawson's Secret," a five-act human interest drama.

Strand—Three changes of program hold forth at the Strand this week, commencing today, when the offering is Wilfred Lucas in "A Love Sublime," an adaptation of "Orpheus," a short story recently appearing in Collier's Weekly. Heart interest, love, thrills and comedy constitute a very pleasing picture—one that will even please the jaded picture goer. Tuesday till Thursday the funniest Keystone in ages—Charles Murray and Louise Fazenda in "Maggie's First Fals Step." Laughs, more laughs, then still more laughs is the best possible description of this picture. Evid Bennet in "Little Brother" is the feature and it is one of those likable stories, cleverly produced and acted—the kind that appeal to most every one. Friday and Saturday comes Shirley Mason in "Passion," one of "The Seven Deadly Sins."

Sun—The Sun is showing this week three of perhaps the strongest programs since the opening off the theater. Today and Monday Ethel Clayton is starred in "Man's Woman." Miss Clayton portrays the role of a young married woman who is made but little better than a house cat by her husband and by his two maiden aunts, with whom the couple live. Though she loves her husband, the wife cannot stand the

The way of the transgressor is short as well as hard when "The American Girl" is on his trail.

The spirited part played by a beautiful girl in pioneer life and adventure in the camp and on the plains is depicted with wonderful realism in these dashing, spectacular photodramas.

is a charming, fearless, quick-witted daughter of the great West. Alert, impulsive and resourceful, she rides through these vivid pictures on her high-spirited horse—always ready for any adventure, no matter how dangerous, which will prevent a crime or redress a wrong.

See every one of these powerful, intensely interesting pictures—a new one every week—a complete story in itself. Played by Marin Sais. A Kalem production, and worthy of the high reputation of the producer.

monotony of the situation. She is about at her wit's end when fate takes a hand in her life and solves her problem in a startling manner. The latest comedy adventure of Ham and Bud and the newest work's events completes the bill. What was the secret of the first woman? This all-important question is answered in "The Secret of Eve," which will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday with the gifted Mme. Petrova as the star. Mme. Petrova has never been called upon to do a more difficult piece of work than in this production, in which she portrays four different characters. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew in "Looked Out," their latest comedy, and Bushman and Bayne in "The Great Secret" are on the same program. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday Theda Bara appears in "Her Greatest Love," a sumptuous William Fox special feature. This story is founded on Quiller's famous novel, "Moths," and in it Miss Hara portrays first a young and innocent country girl who is sacrificed on the altar of her mother's ambition and later that of a woman of the world.

Muse—Another week of stars at the Muse of exceptional popularity in the most popular photoplays Anita Stewart tops the week's bill in "The More Excellent Way," which will be shown today and tomorrow only. The lavish settings, fine photography, lighting and timing effects, combined with a story that is novel, full of heart interest and pathos and the work of a well chosen cast all deserve comment. "The Spring Idyl," one of Paula Blackton's country life stories, will also be on the program. Sessue Hayakawa in "The Bottle Imp" will be the attraction for three days, beginning Tuesday, with pictureque Hawaii for a background, an erupting volcano and a wild struggle in the Hawaiian waters. Mrs. Yarrow Castle will also be on the bill at "Patris" in the twelfth episode of the serial, "As Men Love," featuring House Peters and Myrtle Stedman, will be the attraction for the last two days of the week.
