

WAR BREAKS OUT IN COUNCIL CHAMBER

Butler and Dahlgren Fire a Few Verbal Shots, but Small Loss Reported.

DAHLMAN WINS THE DAY

Desultory firing between Mayor Dahlgren and City Commissioner Butler broke into a sharp engagement at the morning's council meeting when these officials exchanged a withering fire of rhetorical bombs.

The Board of Public Welfare was the casus belli. Butler led the opposition to granting the board an appropriation for a separate annual report for 1916.

"Unless you do it nothing can be done right," was the first projectile hurled by the mayor.

"I think the Welfare board is a joke," was the retort discourteous.

"The members of the board are equal in ability to any branch of the city government and they are equal to the city commissioners. This board was created by the legislature and is efficient," rejoined the mayor with much heat.

Votes as He Wants To.
"Well, you can't scare or bulldoze anybody. I am going to vote as I see fit," retorted Butler.

"It is you who are trying to bulldoze," replied his honor.

"You just play your own game and I'll play mine," was the next Butlerism.

On the first vote the mayor had only Withnell with him, but after he made his strong appeal Parks and Kugel changed their votes, leaving Hummel and Jardine with Butler.

The Welfare board will have its own annual report.
After the meeting some discerning citizen remarked that evidently the mayor and Commissioner Butler do not love each other with any degree of fervor.

Work On State Hospital Is Delayed by the Strike

Work on the completion of the Nebraska State hospital on the campus of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, is somewhat delayed on account of the painters' strike. Although officials of the painters' union announced a few days ago that most of the men are getting the demanded scale, a majority of the union painters are still out.

Contractors say it is not so much the increased wage painters are asking as some of the other demands they are making which are holding up a settlement. The painters are asking that their business agents shall have access to the books of the master painters to check up and see what the master is paying the painters.

Railroads May Refuse To Transport Beer

Chicago, April 10.—Among several decisions handed down today by the United States court of appeals was one finding that the receiver of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway was justified in refusing shipments of beer for delivery to individuals for their private use in the dry territory of Iowa. The decision reversed the lower court, which held that the receiver should accept the shipments. The suit to compel the receiver to carry business of this sort was prosecuted by a number of brewers.

All Wireless Stations Must Be Dismantled

The order sent out by the government, providing for the dismantling of public and private wireless stations, refers to those of the listening as well as to those of the sending and receiving kind. Here there was but one sending station, that on the Union Pacific building, and it was dismantled several weeks ago.
In and around the city there are something like thirty listening and receiving stations, but they are all of the amateur kind. It is expected that they will come down at once and the apparatus be packed away.

Old Bill Divorce Finds Going Rough These Days

While business is brisk in the marriage license department at the court house Old Bill Divorce is gnashing his teeth at Dan Cupid and wondering why he has been neglected the last couple of days. Two decrees were granted on the second day of the week, as follows:
Fred Phelps from Elsie E. Phelps. Mr. Phelps is secretary of the Omaha Musicians' association.
Ralph W. McManama from Pearl A. McManama.

Joseph Sorenson, U. of N., Honor Student, Dies Here

Joseph Sorenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sorenson, died at his home, 2114 Spencer street, Monday morning at 4 o'clock. He was a premed student at the University of Nebraska and was an honor student. Funeral from St. Mark's Lutheran church, Twentieth and Burdette streets, Wednesday at 2 p. m. The pallbearers will be his classmates at the university.

The Busy Recruiting Officer

M. C. Peters Gives His Services and Use of Plant to U. S.

M. C. Peters, president of the mill company bearing his name, sent to the adjutant general at Washington a letter offering his personal services to the government in any capacity he could efficiently fill; also the output of the M. C. Peters Mill company's plant without profit.

Mr. Peters is 53 years of age and the plant has a daily capacity of fifty carloads.
"I believe that the older men who are successful in business should inspire the younger men by offering their services at this time. The young men can not do it all," said Mr. Peters.

According to his physical and mental abilities, he is willing to answer his country's call and will do whatever may be assigned to him.
"I want to show my loyalty to my country and do not want any publicity or advertising advantage out of this. I have offered the government to put the plant at its disposal, to furnish feed for animals or other materials quickly and as near to actual cost as it is possible to figure it," he added.

Patriotic Organizations To Do War Relief Work

Two patriotic women's organizations expecting to do war relief work have affiliated with the National League for Woman Service. They are Garfield circle, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, headed by Mrs. F. Carmony, and Daughters of Civil War Veterans, headed by Mrs. Robert Stoddard.
In the first circle, which includes eighty women, are many older women who have seen three wars. The second is composed of daughters and granddaughters of civil war veterans.
Co-ordination of all the war relief circles in the city is one of the first aims of the League for Woman Service.
Registration of women will continue at headquarters in the First National Bank building until Saturday, when a meeting to arrange for a Boyd theater, will be held. The chairman, Mrs. William Archibald Smith; Mrs. Clement Chase and Mrs. C. M. Wilhelm are arranging the details.

Another Old Flag Found Right Here in Omaha

Mrs. Adeline Miller, 2424 Bristol street, has a large eight-foot silk flag with thirty-five stars, which was first unfurled to the breeze at the funeral of Abraham Lincoln.

Mrs. Miller also has a letter which was written by Mr. Lincoln in 1861 to her father, who was a delegate to the first republican convention and was also a delegate to the convention which nominated Lincoln.
Rev. T. J. Mackay Reported Considerably Improved
Both men and women are awaiting the Red Cross chapter charter before engaging more deeply into this work. Gould Dietz will head the local chapter and William G. Urc will be secretary. The executive committee is made up and will be announced as soon as the charter is received.

GRAIN PRICES GET QUITE A BUMPING

Cash Wheat is Off Four to Six Cents, While Option Registers 13-Cent Decline.

CORN AND OATS FALL, TOO

High prices got something of a black eye on the Omaha Grain exchange when cash wheat sold off 4 to 6; corn, 1 1/2 to 4; and oats, 1 to 1 1/2 cents per bushel. Apparently there was no cause for the decline, other than the opinion that prices in the past had been too high.

On the Omaha market wheat sold at $2.15@2.20; corn, $1.31 1/2@1.35, and oats were: Wheat, 15; corn, 20, and oats, 10 carloads.
The option market was weaker than the cash, wheat selling down 13 cents below the high of Monday, and corn close to 12 cents. However, there was a recovery of 5 to 7 cents before the end of the session and the market closed reasonably strong.

So far as Omaha men were concerned, it is asserted that few, if any, lost on the break. Most of them were sellers Monday and during the early hours of Tuesday's market continued selling, as both wheat and corn kept on going down.

Grain men generally are of the opinion that while prices have been too high they are going still higher, but they are not inclined to the belief that they will remain there. They assert that before the next harvest, if the crop gives promise of being reasonably good, there will be a heavy slump following the advance.

Reduces Fine of Speeder Who Was On Way to Church

On his way to church Easter morning, for the first time in ten years, Cornelius M. Rice, 3924 Florence boulevard, was so anxious to be on time for services, that he put a little extra "gas" into his automobile. As he was spinning along the highway, Officer Hiatt of the police motorcycle squad clocked him and found that Mr. Rice was doing things to Nebraska speed laws.

"Judge, I didn't realize that I was going so fast," pleaded Rice before Police Magistrate Madden. "I was on my way to church for the first time in ten years."
The judge said that Rice's churlish-going intentions were an extenuating circumstance in his case and fined him $2.50 and costs, just one-half the levy imposed upon two other speeders.

Parks Refuses to Remove Cans Boy Scouts Pick Up

City Commissioner Parks, superintendent of the street cleaning department, declares he will not remove tin cans which the Boy Scout officials propose to have dragged to the Strand theater as a spectacular feature of the cleanup on April 20 and 21.

"A statement that I would haul these cans away was entirely without authority. I will not move the cans, because I do not approve the idea. If the boys will place the cans in alleys and help load them into our wagons, they will do some practical service for the welfare of the city," said Mr. Parks.
The proposition announced last week was to have Boy Scouts drag tin cans through the streets on strings and place them in large heaps at Eighteenth and Douglas streets.

FRED K. DELLONE HEARS LAST CALL

Pioneer Contractor and Builder Succumbs to Bright's Disease After Long Illness.

FORMER CITY COUNCILMAN

Fred K. Dellone, a pioneer resident of Omaha and a prominent builder and contractor in the early days of the city, died at his home, 1529 Park avenue, early Tuesday morning after a three weeks' illness. He had been unconscious for several days. Mr. Dellone had been a sufferer from Bright's disease for some time.

Born in York county, Pennsylvania, on December 9, 1838, he came to Omaha with a brother, Frank Dellone, in 1860, when the city was a struggling town on the frontier. The Dellones engaged in the contracting business, building several of the older structures of the city.

Some of the buildings constructed by Mr. Dellone were the Creighton block, Fifteenth and Douglas streets; the old Union Pacific headquarter, Ninth and Farnam streets; the Karbach block, Fifteenth and Douglas streets; the old Dellone hotel, north the Lord Lister hospital, Fourteenth street and Capitol avenue; and other buildings.

Mr. Dellone was elected councilman-at-large in 1881, serving till 1883.

After financial reverses he went to Nome, Alaska, in 1900, with a party of other Omahans, returning the same year.

For the last ten years Mr. Dellone had been employed in the building inspector's office in the city hall. He was a member of the Douglas County Pioneers.

Surviving him are his wife and five daughters, Mrs. I. D. Harner and Miss Claire Dellone of Weeping Water, Neb.; Mrs. Edward J. McNamara of Beemer, Neb., and Miss Alice Dellone and Miss Leone Dellone of Omaha.

Funeral services will be held from St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, with interment in Holy Sepulcher cemetery.

Farmers Planning to Utilize Every Acre

Farmers and other citizens of Box Butte county, out in the northwestern part of Nebraska, are taking steps looking to solving the high cost of living during the next year. They are holding public meetings in all of the towns and are urging that as many

Word comes to Immigration Agent Howard of the Burlington that the people of Box Butte are responding to the call of "back to the soil," and that the indications are that the acreage into vegetables and root crop will be far in excess of that of any former year.

This Simple Laxative A Household Necessity

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Should Have a Place in Every Home

Constipation, or inaction of the bowels, a condition that nearly everyone experiences with more or less frequency, is the direct cause of much disease. When the bowels become clogged with refuse from the stomach, foul gases and poisons are generated, and unless the congestion is quickly relieved the system becomes weakened and most susceptible to attack.

Various remedies to relieve constipation are prescribed, but many of these contain cathartic or purgative agents that are harsh and violent in their action and shock the system. The most effective remedy is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

The Hon. John D. Keister of Brandywine, W. Va., who has represented his district in the State Legislature for six years, writes that he uses Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and finds it a splendid laxative, easy to take and mild, yet positive, in its action, and that it should be in every household for use when needed.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists in all parts of the United States and costs only fifty cents a bottle. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug, does not gripe, and is recommended as a family laxative, mild enough for the tiniest babe, yet sufficiently powerful to act easily on the strongest constitution.

To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure to get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

Of the Famous ACORN Gas Ranges

CALL AND SEE THIS RANGE. IT IS JUST WHAT YOU HAVE BEEN LOOKING FOR

The Omaha Gas Company

EVERY part of the range is at a convenient height. No stooping or reaching, for the cooking top, ovens and shelf are all ideally located. Deep, high oven in which one can bake two racks of break with plenty of room for rising. The flues are so arranged that even with the oven full every corner is heated quickly and evenly.

The broiler is deep and can be used as a roasting oven. Roasts cooked in this oven are juicier and shrink less in weight than those baked in the upper oven.

The range is finished in a rich, black, semi-gloss japan which is baked on at a very high temperature. It requires no blacking—a moment's work with soap and water leaves it spotless. The white enameled panels and enameled drip pan and broiler pan are as easily cleaned as dishes.

There is plenty of shelf room, for the "built-in" shelf is wide and extends over to the oven top, which is made of heavy material, so that it, too, may be used as a shelf. There is a deep warming or storage compartment below the burners.

Cooking top is equipped with five burners—three standard size, one giant and one simmering burner.
