MAJOR J. H. BURKE DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Associate of Late Colonel Cody Expires Suddenly in Hospital at Washington.

SEVENTY-FOUR YEARS OLD

(From a Staff Correspondent.) Washington, April 12 .- (Special Telegram.)-Major John H. Burke, for many years associate and intimate friend of Colonel W. F. Cody, died this morning at Providence hospital of acute pneumonia. He was stricken early in the week and taken imme-diately to the hospital by the Elks. He had been visiting friends here for Major Burke toured the United States and Europe with the wild west show and like Colonel Cody was honored by the ruling heads of the old world. He was 74 years old.

Well Known Here.

Well Known Here.

One of the real veterans in the publicity game, Major Burke knew more American newspaper men by their first names than any press agent who ever lived, with the possible exception of "Stuttering" Charlie Davis. He was sure of a welcome in the office of every newspaper in the land, because of his personality. The companion of presidents and kings, entertainer of the haut ton as well as pal of the humblest, he mingled freely with company of all sorts, his unfailing geniality and courteous habit marking him as especially gifted for his part. And he was dignified, too, as became a gentleman who respected as became a gentleman who respected himself and his calling. In Omaha he was very well known, as he had visited the city annually for a third of a century or longer, and was always welcomed by a group of friends who valued him because of his sterling qualities as a man. He was here last summer as usual, spend-ing about a week in the city.

"He does not know America," the premier declared.

He added that Von Hindenburg's prophesy "was as false as his famous line, which we have broken already."

The United States, the speaker continued, had the noble tradition of never having engaged in war except for liberty. He asserted the present was the greatest struggle for liberty upon which America had ever embarked. He rejoiced more in the knowledge that America was going to win the right to sit at the conference table when terms of peace were decided than at the resources it would bring to the affics.

"I can see peace coming now," the premier declared. He said it would not be a peace which would mean endless preparation for strife and bloodshed, but "a real peace such as this old world has never known."

Strange things had happened in this war, he declared, and stranger things were to come. Today a devastating war was being waged. Tomorrow—perhaps not a distant tomorrow—war might be abolished forever from the category of human crime.

Mr. Lloyd George said it would have been a tragedy for mankind if America had not placed itself in a position to take part in the peace conference, with all the influence and power for right which it was now winning for itself.

PAPER MAGNATES ARE INDICTED BY A FEDERAL JURY

Department of Justice in February "at the request of the Federal Trade commission." Subsequently the com-mission and the manufacturers reached an agreement in respect to prices.

"The Federal Trade commission in its preliminary report to congress de-clared there existed in news print a combination in restraint of trade and that while there was no actual short-age in news print paper, a very defin-ite equilibrium between the available supply and the demand had been brought about artificially in the trade," Mr. Colby said. "The grand jury, as the result of its independent investigation has, in effect, reached the same conclusion and has indicted the men whom it considers as responsible for these conditions. these conditions.

The Period Covered.

"The prices charged by members of the association are greatly in excess of prices which independent producers, even under war conditions, are content to receive. There has been a relatively slight advance in the cost of materials, but nothing comparable to the advance in prices which has been made through the concerted action of the members of this combination and under restricted competitive condi-tions brought about by the associa-tion."

The indictment states the inquiry covered the period since December, 1914. The total daily output of news print paper, chiefly used by newspapers, is put at 6,300 tons in Canada and the United States, with a value of $250,000. Of this amount, it is alleged, 5,600 tons were controlled by forty-five specified companies, whose trade the defendants are accused of empaning in a constract for restrain.

The association is described in the indictment as a voluntary trade association composed of firty-five firms and having "no constitution, by-haws, nor minutes of proceedings."

Legislative Notes

(From a Staff Correspondent.) Lincoln, April 12.—Special, 1—For some reason the attendance of house members this morning was the best it has been in a long time. On roll call, the only absentees were: Messrs. Nielsen, Lovely and Shannon of the Douglas county delegation. Nielsen and Lovely came in immediately afterward, making the total attendance of the forenoon session, ninetyaine.

A motion was adopted thanking Representative Thomas for copies of his newspaper, the Alliance Heraid, furnished every week during the legislative session to all members of the house.

The number of bills that have been signed by Governor Neville and delivered to Secretary of State Pool, is now above 100, and growing swery day. Before the end of the session, it is expected to reach 250 or more. Two years ago, the legislature passed over 100 bills and the governor signed all but a handful of them.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) Lincoln, April 12 .- (Special.) - The ouse today listened to long reports nade by the majority and minority members of the joint committee of the house and senate appointed several weeks ago to investigate the probability of securing something for the state from the old claim against the Capital National bank, which reiled twenty-four years ago, in which the state lost nearly $300,000.
