

U. S. WAR VOTE NEVER WAS UNANIMOUS

Always Some Group of National Congressmen Have Tried to Avoid Hostilities.

PRESENT NO EXCEPTION

By A. R. GROH.

A man remarked the other day that he would "feel better about this war if congress had voted unanimously in favor of it."

Good sir, your ignorance of history is as great as your ignorance of human nature.

If you will look back through the history of this peerless and highly-respected land of the free you will find that congress never voted unanimously for any war into which we entered. Yet every war has proven to be a just war and a war for liberty and the high things of national and individual life.

Just nineteen years ago this month the halls of congress reverberated with oratory and hot debate over the question of freeing Cuba from the Spanish oppressor. There was no doubt that the people of the little island were being outrageously persecuted. That was admitted.

That Cuban Wrangle. But did all the congressmen and senators vote in favor of freeing the little island? Not so you could notice it. Upon the final resolution declaring that the Cubans were and of a right ought to be free and bidding Spain get her soldiers out of Cuba and her battleships out of Cuban waters, the vote in the senate was 42 for and 35 against. In the house 310 voted for the resolution and 6 against it.

How does that compare with the louse vote of 373 to 50 and the senate vote of 82 to 6 in favor of the resolution last week?

Perhaps you imagine the north went into the civil war unanimously. Far from it. There was a great deal of opposition all through the north and in congress to President Lincoln's war policies in 1861.

More Peace Advocates. The Mexican war had the same history back in 1846. In spite of a long series of outrages against American citizens, President Polk had a hard time getting congress in line for war. Calhoun, the most powerful democrat of the time, was against it. The final vote in the senate was 42 to 2, and in the house 173 to 14.

Well, let's go back to the American revolution. Perhaps you think the Declaration of Independence was adopted and signed without a dissenting voice. It was, in fact, adopted unanimously, July 4, 1776. But this was only after long debate.

War With England. The war of 1812 was launched only after much opposition in congress. President Madison himself was not heartily in favor of it. It is said that Henry Clay forced him into it.

And on the final vote, after much debate, congress voted for that war by only a very narrow margin. The vote in the house was 79 to 49 and in the senate, after the declaration had been held up for two weeks, the vote was 19 to 13.

So you see, my dear sir, you can feel just as good as you want to over the way the declaration for human liberty passed congress last week, for it passed by a very respectable majority, indeed.

Butter Boosted Again by Elgin Butter Board

Butter has gone up another 2 cents a pound. It rose 3 cents on the pound in the last week and now, on a sale of twenty-five tubs, the wholesale price has gone up another 2 cents, sale being made at 46 cents a pound.

The butter price fixers in Elgin met Saturday as usual and ordered another advance; this, too, in spite of the fact that pastures are green and the yield of milk and therefore of butter is increasing rapidly the last few weeks.

This same week three years ago the wholesale price of butter was 25 cents a pound.

It Costs Money Now When Speeder Breaks the Law

R. Booth was fined $5 and costs in police court by Magistrate Madden on a charge of speeding. J. C. Logan, 3132 South Fifteenth street, and Dr. Barnes, 518 Rose building, were each fined $1 and costs for violating the parking ordinance, while C. L. Sykes, 412 City National building, and F. H. Hatch, 638 Paxton block, were each taxed $1 and costs for obstructing fire hydrants with their cars.

Her Skill with the Violin Makes Her Feature in a Great Show

Miriam, Glover, talented and beautiful young violinist of "The Passing Show of 1916," is a former resident of Omaha.

She was born in the prairie town of Valentine. Her parents soon after moved to Omaha, where the father entered the real estate business which is still being conducted by her brother, C. D. Glover, under the name of the Glover Realty syndicate. Max Baumeister is responsible for teaching Miriam to play on that instrument.

Beginning at the age of 7 she studied under his tutelage until her mother, who was in ill health, was ordered by her physician to Havana, Cuba, to live in the open. The remedy was effective and the children, Miriam being one of three, were also benefited greatly by sharing in the mother's out-of-doors life. Miriam became an adept horsewoman and broncho buster. During the two years spent in Cuba the children secured their schooling from their mother, besides learning Spanish from the natives, while Miriam did not neglect her violin studies.

The balmy evenings usually found her singing and playing, and the violin became a necessary part of her. The Glovers—mother and children—were quite often guests at the home of the president of the Cuban republic, and Miriam frequently played the violin at the executive mansion. Miss Glover later was sent to a convent school in the British island of Jamaica, but did not remain there long. Returning to the states, the Glovers settled down in New York City, and Miriam, a girl of 16, began her concert career. Being acquainted with a lady harpist, she also sang while playing the harp. Miss Glover formed a partnership with her, and they toured the country in vaudeville. Then Miss Glover learned to dance, and her present act, in which she sings, dances and plays the violin, she sings, dances and plays

WEALTHY MAN WILLS BODY TO THE MEDICS

Folks Bury Frank Hibbard's Corpse, Thereby Violating Strange Document.

"GONE ON LONG JOURNEY"

The strange will of the late Frank P. Hibbard of Irvington, a Douglas county pioneer, who died last Tuesday, which has just been filed for probate in county court, discloses the fact that in holding funeral services for him and burying him in Mount Hope cemetery provisions of the document were violated.

Though a wealthy man, the will provides that the "body shall be given to the Creighton Medical college for the benefit of the students. The testament also stipulates that "no funeral services shall be held; think of me as having gone on a long journey." The will was made on October 30, 1915. It is said that the heirs will not disinter the body in order to comply with the request in the will as to its disposal. Funeral services for the Irvington man were held last Wednesday. Interment was in Mount Hope cemetery. Hibbard had lived in Douglas county a half century and was known to be wealthy. He owned considerable real estate.

Grandchildren Benefit. By the terms of the will two grandchildren, Ruth B. Hibbard and Dick Lee Hibbard, receive $5,000 each. A codicil to the document, however, attached at a later date, says that Dick Lee Hibbard shall receive only $3,000, instead of $5,000, "in view of conditions which have arisen since the will was made."

The mother of his grandchildren, Anna Hibbard, is cut off. The will provides that "under no condition is she to receive any part of the estate." It adds that "she deserted them when they were young." Another grandchild, Maude B. Hibbard, is also cut off without a penny from the estate. The residue of the estate goes to three children, Carl S. Hibbard, Maude B. Watson and Thaddeus M. Hibbard, provision being made that Carl S. and his daughter are to receive $2,500 more than Thaddeus.

See the 31 Features Other Cars Omit

Mitchells differ from other cars in a hundred ways, particularly in these respects:

31 unique features—24 per cent added luxury—100 per cent over-strength.

These extra attractions are due to John W. Bate, our famous efficiency expert. They are his additions, paid for by savings which his factory methods create.

Come see how much these extras add to a car you buy to keep.

Cost Us $4,000,000

Most cars omit these extras because of the added cost. The cost to us, on this year's output, is about $4,000,000.

On Mitchells we save this by factory efficiency. And we spend it on extra values.

Take our power tire pump, for instance. Everybody wants that. So with our reversible headlights, our dashboard engine primer, our ball-bearing steering gear.

So with our never-broken cantilever springs. So with our tonneau light, our locked compartment, our handles for entering. So with our added luxury and our over-strength.

Every extra in the Mitchell is something that you want.

They Are Free

If Mitchells were built in an ordinary factory, such cars at our prices would be impossible.

But John W. Bate built and equipped this plant to build this one type economically. He has spent millions of dollars on efficiency methods, to cut our factory cost in two.

This year our new body plant adds another big saving. And that pays for our added luxury.

It is this model plant, with its more than 2000 up-to-date machines, which gives you these extras free.

Our Biggest Extra

The extra features and the extra beauty are the most conspicuous attractions.

TWO SIZES

Mitchell—a roomy, 7-passenger Six, with 127-inch wheelbase and a highly-developed 48-horsepower motor. Price $1460, f. o. b. Racine.

Mitchell Junior—a 5-passenger Six on similar lines with 120-inch wheelbase and a 40-horsepower motor—1/4-inch smaller bore. Price $1150, f. o. b. Racine.

Also six styles of enclosed and convertible bodies. Also new Club Roadster.

But the greatest, in the long run, is our 100 per cent over-strength. In the past three years, John W. Bate has doubled our margins of safety. Every vital part now has twice the needed strength.

Over 440 parts are built of toughened steel. All safety parts are oversized. We use a wealth of Chrome-Vanadium.

Several Mitchells have already run over 200,000 miles each. In two years not one Bate cantilever spring has broken. Those are some results of this over-strength.

Now an $1150 Size

And now we have two sizes—Mitchell and Mitchell Junior. Both are Sixes, both are roomy and powerful. Even the smaller car has a 120-inch wheelbase.

You have never seen such values in fine cars. You have never seen cars so equipped. You have never seen, in the Mitchell class, such finish, such beauty, such luxury. You have never seen, at Mitchell prices, such vast over-strength.

Come and confirm these facts. Come now, because there is bound to be a shortage. In spring, the Mitchells are always oversold.

A GAS-LESS

GAS RANGE

Sounds like a fairy tale, but it is a fact. It cooks, bakes, roasts, stews and boils with the gas turned off two-thirds of the time. Think what that means.

DEMONSTRATION OF THIS WONDERFUL STOVE ALL THIS WEEK

Mr. Orebaugh, factory expert, wired us that he would be with us all week. He will do actual cooking on this fireless gas range with the gas turned off, and, as he says, without cooking the cook.
