1 MIA opens the 1917 Western O MIA opens the 1917 Western league scasum at home Tues-day. It is up to every loyal ian to make it his business to attend. Omaha woo the Capper cup for the largest opening day attendance last year. The Rotary club won it for Omaha by buying 2000 or so tickets for distribution among school children. The cup is in for competition again this year and among school children. The cup is up for competition again this year and Omaba should win it. With the ex-ception of Denver Omaha is the larg-est city in the Western league. As Denver drew only L608 persons open-ing day, the Colorado city is out of it. Only a city of smaller population can win it from Omaha and Omaha fans headd ne to it that nothing of the which it from Ornana and Ornana faits should see to it that nothing of the kind occurs. There is another reason why all Ornana should turn out for the opening game Tuesday. The Rourkes won the Western league penhant last year. Pa Rourke spent a large sum to obtain the talent to bring the championship to Omaha and his reward was none too liberal last year. reward was none too liberal last year. A record-breaking opening day at-tendance would be a fitting expression of gratitude. So for the sake of Omaha, the best city in the Western league, it is up to the fans to see that every seat in Rourke park is occupied when Omaha and Joplin clash Tues-den day.

Three governors have now barred Les Darcy, the Ohio executive being the last to hang the taboo sign on our Australian visitor. Jess Willard has been cheated out of a $50,000 purse because Carl Morris licked Fred Fulton. Times are certainly getting hard for our fistic entertainers. It this terrible state of affairs continues the poverty-stricken mailets will have to cut the breakfast supply of eggs from six to four, cat sirloins instead of porterhouse steaks for dinner and be content with one $5,000 touring car instead of a stable of high-powered limousines and raceabouts. The Western has always been pretty much of a iree hitting league. But in the spring it must be remembered the pitcher is inclined to nurse his arm. He must do so if he is to retain his effectiveness an entire year. For that reason in the early games the batter has a little advantage over the hurler and more hits and runs are made.
