AN ATTRACTIVE HOME BUILT TO LIVE IN, NOT TO

RENT. BEAUTIFULLY FINISHED AND DECORATED IN THE VERY BEST RESI-

AND DECORATED

IN THE VERY BEST RESIDENCE DISTRICT.

This is one of the best built homes in Omana. Stone foundation and basement, solid brick above; slate roof. The coal int and fruit cellar of title. Practically no cost for paintine or repairing. Library with built-in bookcases, solid cherry; halls and staircase of cast; dining joom is paneled in Venetian oak. All floors are hardwood. Large double storm windowed and screened sun porch, connected with both the library and dining room by French doors. The walls of the first floor and upper hall are covered with hand-decorated burlap, except the music room; three bath rooms. Large closets with outside windows, wardrobes and chest of drawers. There is a laundry, fruit cellar, furnace room and space which can be finished for a billiard room in the basement, which is cemented throughout. Large soft water clatera, gas, but water heater for summer use.

So well built that 15 tons of coal will heat it throughout and with solid brick walls, it is wonderfully cool in spammer. At the very creat of the hill, there is always a brees there if anywhere. It is convenient to the car line and in the choicest residence section of Omaha. The price is very reasonable and terms will be made to suit the buyer's convenience. Owner leaving the city.

SWELL TREASURY OF WOMAN'S CLUB

Twelve Hundred Dollars to the Credit of Organization at End of Winter.

OFFICERS MAKE REPORT

Twelve hundred dollars in a treasury which began the year with $500 is the record of the Omaha Woman's club for the winter. Mrs. C. L. Hempel, treasurer, made the report at the closing meeting at the Metropolitan club house Monday. Of the gross receipts, $2,141.20 came from membership fees alone; $5000 will probably be added to the club money in building and loan associations, $100 placed in short-time drafts in banks and the

Smoking Habit Is Growing Among Girls in London Among Girls in London (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
London, April 18.—Attention has been directed to the growth of the smoking habit among women by the report of the official physician of a large munitions factory that he has tound fourteen young women employes suffering from "smoker's heart." Some of them are quite young girls, "All of them," he says, "are women to be regarded naturally as potential mothers. There never was a time when babies were of such vital importance as today, yet at the very importance as today, yet at the very time we want strong and sturdy babies, children are likely to come into this world in a weak, weedy and rickety condition, paying the price for their mothers' devotion to tobacco.' # NEW PROSPERITY IN TRENCH AREA

Floating Population of Soldiers Make Profits Large for Those Who Dare.

CAFES DOT COUNTRYSIDE

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.) Behind the British Lines in France. April 27,-When the tide of German invasion swept through Belgium and into France, thousands of the inhabitants fled before it, leaving their prop-erty to the mercy of the invader. The tide was stemmed and made to ebb, tide was stemmed and made to ebb, but in its backward rush still more material damage was done, and now, after two years and more of trench warfare, the country behind the British lines consists of a broad belt of blackened and pitted fields, shattered woods and damaged buildings, where once lay a region of agricultural peace and clenty.

and plenty.

Yet it is surprising to find, amid all this apparent ruin, that the population is enjoying a prosperity as great, and in many cases greater, than in peace three.

in many cases greater, than in peace times.

Many of the old inhabitants have gone, it is true, but a large proportion have stayed behind, in spite of the perils and restrictions which proximity to the trench area involve, and, though the bustle of war has put an end to many of their wonted daily avocations, starvation is far removed from the door even of the nearest dwelling place.

The vast floating population of soldiers is the secret of the war zone's prosperity. The soldiers, men able and willing to pay good currency for services rendered, have provided the remaining population with opportunities of which the people have not been slow to avail themselves. Though at any moment death may swoop out of the skies, claiming as its victim soldiers and civilian alike, there is money to be earnd by those who care to run the risks, and work is to be had for the asking, at profits undreamed of in peace times. Moreover, the greater the risk, the greater the like was the same and the same and the profits.

Cafes Dot Country.

Cafes Dot Country.

Cafes Dot Country.

Dotted all over the country and clustering closely together in the towns and villages are numerous cafes which sell the light Flemish beer and French wines in addition to supplying food and other forms of refreahment. These cafes do a flourishing trade, and the closer to the lines the better the trade and the higher the price. It is true the trade is kept well in hand by the stringent measures of control enforced by the authorities. The sale of spirits is sternly suppressed and disobedience is punished by the suppression of the house.

Anywhere in the war zone in France a cup of coffee and an omelette can generally be obtained at a reasonable cost, and many of the houses have notices in their windows announcing "bacon and chops" at moderate prices. Almost every house contains something for sale, ranging from a modest store of chocolate and picture postcards to the full stock-intrade of a well-equipped village general store.

Heedless of Cannon's Roar.

Heedless of Cannon's Roar.

Another very profitable occupation in the war zone is lace-making. The women behind the northern part of the line make lace as good as can be bought anywhere in the world. It can be obtained either in lengths for trimming purposes or made up in the form of dainty handkerchiefs, caps or aprons. All day they work at the windows of their cottages, old women and young girls, heedless of the guns which often thunder around them. The laces are eagerly bought by British soldiers mindful of their womenfolk at home, and often orders have to be placed weeks ahead. The prices charged leave a good margin for profit.

profit.

Plenty of other means of livelihood are open to any who care to take advantage of them. Road repairing absorbs the energies of every available man or boy, and for the women there is good money in washing or mending clothes. The British soldier is inclined to be particular about his wearing apparel, and the neatness of the Frenchwomen's mending is a never-ending source of delight to him.

Then billetting brings in some good returns. Thousands of soldiers are returns. Thousands of soldiers are billeted in houses and barns belong-ing to the local population, and, though the presence of soldiers in though the presence of soldiers in their houses causes some inconvenience, the people are far from showing any resentment. In addition to the rent paid them, other emoluments accrue from the sale of dainties and the performing of little services for the guests. The mayor of each community superintends the billeting and secures fair compensation for any damage done to property in the oc-

A London newspaper says that many women workers admit smoking an average of a hundred cigarets weekly. An army surgeon who, in the last days of 1914, declared that excessive smoking among boys was the cause of so many men proving unfit for general military service, has just stated that "one of the greatest evils the work in the last days of 1914, declared that excessive smoking among boys was the day of 1914, declared that excessive smoking among boys was the form of the greatest evils the growth of the smoking habit in women."
