Who Are the Queens of May?

Who Are the Queens of May?

May day, which comes only once a year, has come to Omaha today. In some ways, as you no doubt know, this is a memorable May day. Our bibulous friends have reason to remember it, because in the language are cartoonists the camel has been crowned queen of the May.

At the state university, where young people do congregate, they are crowning a May queen today and it is said in all good faith that an Omaha girl, Miss Olive Lehmer, who recently won Phi Beta Kappa honors, has been chosen for that joyous honor.

Omaha society has been altogether too busy with its war relief work to think of choosing a May queen. Who should it be, do you think? In view of the fact that Mrs. George Brandeis has sponsored the biggest May day party, the first large Red Cross ball to be given in Omaha, let us cast our ballot for that charming matron as queen of the May.

All the little folks are planning their May baskets today. Don't you remember how in the dear dead days beyond you, too, made May baskets and at dusk ran to hang them on the doors of your dearest friends. Each young man will, figuratively speaking, crown his queen of May today, for houquets are going out from all the florists' shops to the best loved lassie of each young laddie.

Prettiest Mile Woman's Golf club gave a large May the shats at the Blackstone today, the only party which was purely and simply a May day party. Three long tables were set in the sun parlor to accommodate the fifty guests. Green and white, the club's colors, were used in the floral decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McLean will combine patriotism and the spirit of learning and the spirit of combine patriotism and the spirit of learning and the spirit of fifty guests. Green and white, the club's colors, were used in the floral decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McLean will combine patriotism and the spirit of May in a charming dinner at their home this evening. American flags and spring flowers will be used throughout the rooms. In the center of the dining table a mound of southern smilax and red roses will encircle a May pole of red, white and blue stick candy. Red, white and blue streamers will extend to a dozen little May maidens garbed in red, white and blue, who are dancing around the May pole. At the place of each feminine guest will be a tiny May basket filled with spring flowers with tiny American flags on top. Each gentleman will have at his place a candy American flag. Casts for Press Club Plays.

Rehearsals for the two prize plays to be presented by the Omaha Woman's Press club at the Blackstone May 15 are now in progress. Mrs. Grant Williams, Mr. Martin Dimery, Mrs. Martin H. Harris, who wrote the play, and Jay Burns, jr., take part in The Upper Crust." Mrs. Effic Steen Kittelson is coaching the playlet.

The cast for "A Record Romance," written by Miss Hentietta Rees, includes Hazel Smith Eldridge, Mrs. Harriet S. MacMurphy, honorary president of the Press club; Miss Madge West, Mr. Hugh Wallace and Mr. Roy Sunderland. Miss Mary Irene Wallace is coaching this playlet, during the action of which Mrs. Eldridge will sing and Miss West will play the violin.

Two Press club members, Mrs. Edith L. Wagoner and Miss Joy Higgins, will add further to the evening's entertainment, Mrs. Wagoner with a piano selection and Miss Higgins with original monologues. The Misses Eloise, Belle and Vivienne West of the West sisters' string quartet and Mrs. Louise Shadduck Zabriskie will play during the intermissions.

A month ago it was announced navy recruiters would help get men for the army and marine corps, as soon as the navy is recruited to full authorized strength. As the navy is now approaching this strength, navy recruiters expect soon to get instructions as to how they shall co-operate with the other two branches of regular service. If allotments of various navy recruiting districts are met the navy will be full within a few days. The marine corps now has secured its complement of 17,500 men, but congress is expected to raise it to 30,000. The army still needs thousands of men.

The National Consumers' League.

When the invention of machinery began to take out of our homes many ndustries, it took away from our personal contact the workers who made the things we use. It also took away from us opportunity of knowing firsthand the kind of things we use. In brief, a wall was set up between the two great world problems, the Protwo great world problems, the Fro-duction, or making of things, and the Consumption, or using of things. If one stops to think, it becomes clear that in normal times at least, the vast bulk of what is produced in the world is used in the homes of the world. Hence women are the consumers of the world in so far as they have the larger part of the administration of the homes of the world.

the world in so far as they have the larger part of the administration of the homes of the world.

Over in England some twenty-five years ago, and here in America a year later, groups of people became aware of the increasing gulf between the maker and the user. The user of purchasers tries to get her "money's worth" of what she is buying; but feels no interest in the problem beyond that point. These groups of people who were interested in the worker felt that Mrs. Smith or Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Brown, who buys a waist or a suit or a dress as cheaply as she can, has no right to buy that article if it is cheap, because the worker who made it worked in an unsanitary room with inadequate wages. In other words, our responsibility does not stop with getting value received, it goes back to the making of the garment. These interested people, headed by Mrs. Florence Kelly in the United States, united under the name of the National Consumers' league.

The Consumers' league has as its and retail trades. They have for their special ten-year program, as outlined by Mrs. Kelly two years ago, the study of the labor turnover, or changing of positions in industry, with a view to reducing the turnover; the minumum wage; the short working day, and longer education of the young worker. Most large cities have local branches which study special trade and factory conditions in the locality, for instance the Saturday half holiday in summer, sanitary conditions in NO WASTING OF WORDS Paris, April 17.—The courage, the joyousness of France, has been the aspect of the war most remarked by Jesse Benedict Carter, director of the

It is sometimes difficult to know what to do even if one has the honest desire to buy only goods from reputable firms. The range of labelled garments is so small; and there is no local branch to undertake special investigations. Certain things may be done however. wrong conditions. Saturday night closing is a reform that Omaha needs sadly; for stores open on Saturday night is a mark of provincialism that most cities of our size have sloughed off. If women would not buy on Saturday nights, the stores would not be open. Women who are not occupied outside the home should do their shopping as early as possible, early in the day, and early in the week.

Though we have no local branch of the league, we can buy labelled garments wherever possible; and one can become a member of the National League. I once heard Miss Addams say in regard to joining the league and furthering its work, that to her it was "an antidote to the feeling of discomfort in regard to labor conditions."

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once and that is to dissolve it, then once and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft and look and feel a hundred times better.—Adv.
