STOLEN GOLD ORE SOLD TO U.S. MINT

Several Men Charged With Conspiracy to Rob Rich Mines in Colorado.

ARRESTS IN FIVE CITIES

Cheyenne, Wyo., May 3 .- Five mer were arrested here tonight by federal officers on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government of $200,000 through the sale of stolen high-grade gold ore. Tony Cuaz, another member of the alleged conspiracy, was arrested in San Francisco, according to word received by officials here.

Secret service operatives who made the arrests here said the men here are alleged to have received the gold from Cochran, who obtained it from miners in the Cripple Creek district.

The local men, it is alleged, sent the gold to Cuaz in San Francisco and to agents in other cities where there are mints or federal assay of-

Bail was fixed at $10,000 each and was furnished by Carl Muelhausen and John Cusack. Cusack formerly was a saloon keeper in Denver and now is engaged in the liquor business here.

Secret service operatives who made the arrests said the conspirators had been engaged in their operations for more than a year. Government agents, they said, had been investigating the case for eight months and waited until Cusz was arrested while delivering gold to the mint at San Francisco before closing it on the other members of the alleged conspirators.

ber being the same in each direction.

To operate a passenger train on a round trip from Omaha to Chicago requires the services of six locomotivees, or 150 in the aggregate, whereas the business could be handled by half this number and with a rearrangement of the schedules, the efficiency of the service would not be greatly impaired.

The general rule is twelve men to each through train each way, or 600 on the twenty-five round-trip trains. Added to these are nearly half as many more men employed in stations, round houses, switch yards and coaling stations.

Aid Food rPoduction.

With the train service reduced one-half, more than 900 able-bodied men, nearly all in the prime of life, would be released to go onto the farms, or be released to go onto the farms, or engage in pursuits whereby they would be adding to the producing of food supplies of the country.

Locally, the railroad officials are of the opinion that when the committee in Washington concludes its work, it will have worked out a scheme by which instead of twelve passenger trains leaving Omaha for Chicago between early evening and 1 o'clock the following morning, there will be not to exceed six. Just how the schedules of these trains will be arranged is a matter that has not been given serious consideration. That will come when the order to cut to the bone is issued.

It is certain, however, that an equitable distribution of the business will be made. This arrangement will take into consideration through traffic and the best possible accommodation and convenience for the local business along the respective lines.

Cutting out ten trains each way daily between Omaha and the Pacific coast will release more than 200 locomotives and enable close to 2,000 men to take up other lines of work.

Reductions in the train service between Omaha and St. Paul and Minneapolis and between Omaha and Kansas City will take fifty locomotives out of service and at the same time enable about 300 men to go out and till the soil or engage in other lines of work.

Reductions on Branches.

The reductions of paraches.

The reductions referred to have to do with only the main lines. Under the schedules as it is proposed to work them out there will be a corresponding reduction on all branches of all the roads. In Nebraska, on the branches, there is at least one passenger train each way daily. On many of them there are two. There are also two to four freight trains each way daily.

Under the provisions of the con-templated plans, on all except the most important branches, exclusive passenger trains will be the excep-tion instead of the rule. Generally there will be one to two trains each way daily. They will be freights, with again, one could easily handle their passengers.

Between midnight and 1-o'clock in the morning there are two more eastbound trains, and all their passengers could be put onto one train without it helps over the could be put onto one train without it helps over the could be put onto one train without it helps over the content of the rear end. This radical reduction in train service and whe change in schedules to meet the requirements and conveniences of the public is by no means a local matter. It is to be applied in every state in the union and in every wook and corner of every state.

When the change comes it will be general. The schedules will be worked out so that on the same date they will be applied on every road from coast to coast and from the Canadian line to the Gulf of Mexico.

When in working order, say the railroad officials, the service will be equally as good. The schedules will be so arranged that if a party desires to travel from Omaha to New York, or to New Orleans, or in fact to any other point, he will board the train the same as now, arrive at the transfer points the same as now and reach destination the same as now. The only difference will be that the trains fer points the same as now and reach destination the same as now. The only difference will be that the trains will not make as high a rate of speed and will not run as frequently.

"During the continuance of the war, at least, there is to be an interchange of railroad equipment," says Frank Walters, general manager of the Northwestern, just back from Chicago, where he attended a meeting of operating officials of the leading lines centering, there.

According to Mr. Walters the scope of the plan provides that if there is to be a big troop or munition movement, or in the event large quantities of foodstuffs or supplies are to be moved in any direction and the road over which the movement would naturally go lacks equipment, it can call upon any of the other roads in the territory to supply engines, cars and men.

Balk at Buying Furniture For Phil Hall's Quarters

(From a Staff Correspondent.) Lincoln, Neb., May 3.—(Special.)— Can a department of the state be considered inside the state house when it is outside? This is a proposition which Adjutant General Phil Hall is facing in an effort to get the State Board of Public Lands and Funs, which has charge of the state house and assignment of offices, to pur-chase some needed furniture and other fixings for the adjutant general's office.

When the legislature convened last

When the legislature convened last January it became necessary for General Hall to give up his offices on the third floor of the state house for the use of the state legislature reference bureau. The guard headquarters were moved down town. Before the session was over it became necessary to have more room for the headquarters and a committee from the legislature authorized General Hall to rent his present quarters. The board is his present quarters. The board is said to hold that it has no right to buy equipment for an office outside of the state house.
