THE BEE: OMAHA, FRIDAY, MAY 4, 1917.

F. W. Fitzpatrich, chief archi tect for the Bankers' Realty Investment company, who has but recently come to Omaha from the east and who is in particularly close touch with construction matters all over the country, says:

"Some people talk about waiting to build until normal times and prices are restored. If such people don't need their buildings for four or five years, well and good; but they must not fondly hope for such restoration in less time. I hear talk about things being on a more stable basis in four or five months. Utterly farcical. Even if war stops tomorrow it will take two years to disband the European armies while meantime, and for long after ward, there will be demands upon up for machinery, materials, even food, equal to those of the present. And at the same time our stocks have been depleted and running low, so that our own wants must be met. And those wants are not modest. Money coming into the country and prosperous times here will make those wants many New Level Certain.

"Even when normal times are re Even when hormal times are re-stored it will be a new normality. Never again will building prices be where they were two or three years ago, any more than will beei ever be as cheap as it was when vast herds of cattle roamed the free pastures of e west. "Our natural products are more

"Our natural products are more rare, harder to get; our manufactured ones more costly to produce. It is a new era. Besides, with as much gold as has come into the country, a new standard of values is established. When a commodity is abundant it is cheap; when money is plentiful, it buys less; and there you are. "No, if man needs a building at all there is absolutely no sense in waiting. Now is the time to build. Indeed, I believe that so thoroughly that we are advising our clients to that we are advising our clients to start now, not to wait until tomorrow or next week. Many materials went up yesterday, another rise is possible in a few days. True, we are protect-ing our actual and possible clients by buying great quantities of supplies and materials at lowest bulk prices, but some things it was not possible to so cover and for those our clients must suffer, as well as ourselves, for the peak in prices has not yet been reached.

Pushing its Work.

"At Grand Island, at Kearney, at Scottsbluff, at Hampton, we are dig-ging foundations and steel is on the ging foundations and steel is on the way, while brick and cement and other materials are being gathered in order to push the work at high speed. "You may say," added Mr. Fitz-patrick, "that as far as the Bankers" Realty Investment company, is con-cerned there will be no letting up in constructions, on the contrary, concontraction; on the contrary, con-struction has taken an tidded impetus. There is a tr nendous amount of it to be dogue in the middle west and now is the time to do it unless one wants to pay still more for it."

Men could hardly believe their eyes when they read the words of this un American mayor, yet he has said from a conspicuous position what many other men have said from obscure positions. Finally they discovered that in every walk of life they had been sheltering men whose business it was to give information to the enemy. They had neglected the duty of arousing their own people to the seriousness of the situation confront-ing them. The people of America need an awakening too.

Is this the language of an extremist? It is not, It is the calm and studied language of an American citizen who, impressed with the gravity of the crisis confronting his coun-try, dates speak in plain language and in protest against the sowing of every seed of treason within his community. In Omaha the duty of the hour is this: Let the official board or the members of Kountze Memorial repudiate the treasonable utterances of their pastor, or let them run the kai-ser's flag to the pinnacle of their church tower.

The very fact that their pastor boasts of the numerous congratula-tions he has received puts the burden tions he has received puts the burden upon the board and members of that church. In the name of my country I dispute the Americanism of this cler-gyman and I solemnly challenge the Americanism of his church. That church will either meet this challenge in a way to be expected of an Amer-ican institution and act in the name and for the fame of America or it und and for the fame of America or it will forever wear the brand which has now burned itself scarlet into the rep-utation of Chicago's mayor.
