SAVIDGE GRINS WHEN PURSE-FAT PASTORS ARE HIT

Says Churches Will Be More
Godly When High Salaries
Preachers Have Pay
Checks Reduced.

Rev. Charles W. Savidge, pastor of the People's church, is cheerful over the fact that war times will knock lots of high-salaried preachers out of their jobs.

Here is what he writes to The Bee:

"We are on the eve of great and startling changes in connection with our industrial, social, business and religious life. These changes will startle the world.

"There is one class of men who are in for hard times. It is the preachers. They are called shepherds.

"God says these preachers are to howl because their pastures are spoiled—that is, their salaries are taken away.

"I think, however, that will be a good thing.

"God never intended preachers to be high-salaried men. The prophets and the apostles had no fixed salaries. They worked without promised fees or rewards and very frequently gave up their lives for a proclamation of truth which God gave them.

"I believe that the old lady hit it right when she said, 'Lord, bless our preacher. If you keep him humble, we will keep him poor.'

"I look for a better state of things, generally, and more godly churches, when high-salaried preachers are a thing of the past."

Odd Pocket Piece is

Owned by North Platte Man

N. J. Buzza, 807 Madison avenue, Council Bluffs, brought an odd pocket piece to The Bee for examination. It is the property of Sebastian Schwaiger of North Platte. It is the size of a copper cent and on one side is the impression of Old Glory, and the date, 1863, with the words: "The flag of our union." On the other it reads: "If anybody attempts to tear it down, shoot him on the spot."

Heavy Fines levied in

The Everglades Cases

Edward Van Asmus, Robert J. Martin and Joseph H. Borders were fined $5,200 each and R. E. Perkins

Training that Counts

Most of the Omaha men chosen for the Officers Reserve Corps had military training as High School Cadets

$1,300 on conviction in the Everglades land swindle in the federal court at Kansas City. Edward C. Chambers and Ernest L. Russell are serving terms in the Leavenworth penitentiary on the same charge. Sylvester R. Rusk of Omaha conducted the prosecution.

Parks Says Streets Will Not Be Sprinkled With Beer

Sheriff Clark will not sprinkle the streets with beer if Commissioner Parks of the street cleaning and maintenance department can help it. Mr. Parks contends that beer may be adapted to certain uses, but when it comes to sprinkling streets he can think of several objectionable features. The sheriff may scrub the floors of the court house or he may sprinkle the court house lawn with beer, but the city street department will have a word to say about the proposed beer street sprinkling party.

Kid Sees Wilson's Picture; "I Saw the Live One," He Says

Mrs. Cora S. Anderson, principal of Edward Rosewater school, gives patriotic talks to the children of her school. She held before the tots in the kindergarten room a picture of President Wilson. "Who is this?" she asked. "That is Wilson; I saw the live one," replied a boy in the rear row.

ALLEGED SLAYER IS REFUSED WRIT HABEAS CORPUS

Man Accused of Murdering a Minneapolis Policeman is Compelled to Go Back to Mill City for Trial.

E. J. McCool, alias Frank Curtis, alleged slayer of a Minneapolis policeman, and wanted by both the Mill City and St. Paul authorities, lost his legal fight for freedom when Judge Sears, sitting in criminal court, dismissed an application for and denied a writ of habeas corpus.

The desperate prisoner, who made a daring attempt to break out of the city jail Thursday, being captured after he had shaved his way out of his cell, will be taken back to Minneapolis tonight by Detectives James A. Weare and Frank Brunsell, who came to Omaha with extradition papers.

Benjamin S. Baker, counsel for Curtis, argued before Judge Sears that the form of indictment returned by the Minneapolis grand jury against Curtis was insufficient in Nebraska because of certain legal technicalities.

Goed to Minneapolis.

Judge Sears ruled that if the indictment was sufficient in Minnesota it was sufficient in Nebraska for extradition purposes. Curtis was remanded to the custody of the police, who will turn the heavily guarded prisoner over to the Minneapolis detectives when a midnight train leaves for the north.

Curtis, regarded by police as one of the most dangerous men they have ever had to deal with, was brought into court manacled and handcuffed to the arms of officers. Two plainclothes men guarded him constantly.

When Judge Sears denied the writ of habeas corpus and Curtis' lawyer "gave up the ship" the prisoner pressed his thin lips together and then smiled.

"I'm game to go back there," he muttered to one of the police officers guarding him.

Curtis smiled and waved a thankful "goodbye" to his attorney for his efforts as he was being taken out of the court room.

Alleged Partner Taken.

Eddie Hamilton, alleged partner of F. J. McCool in the murder of Patrolman George Conroy of Minneapolis, was arrested Friday morning in San Francisco.

He was traded half-way across the continent by information which the Omaha police, acting in conjunction with Detectives Weare and Brunsell, got in this city.

Hamilton, who is said to have no former police record, was identified by a peculiar series of pimples on his face.

It was the number of a railroad ticket found on McCool, alias Curtis, which set police on the right trail of Hamilton. Curtis had ticket numbered 20121 on train No. 19, Union Pacific line, good for passage from Omaha to Salt Lake City, Utah.

Hamilton had ticket numbered 20122. Both tickets had been sold to one man in the Omaha office, but Hamilton's ticket was the only one used.

In Salt Lake Hamilton registered at the Collins hotel. He left there with a bellboy named Woodward. Woodward wrote to the manager of the hotel from Portland, Ore., asking that his back wages be sent to San Francisco, in care of the general delivery department of the post-office.

When Woodward called for the letter at Frisco, Detectives trailed him to his room. There they arrested Hamilton.

Hamilton, Detectives Weare and Brunsell say, roomed with Curtis at 1012 Nicollet avenue, Minneapolis, on April 24, the night of the murder of Patrolman Conroy. On the next morning they hurriedly left Minneapolis.

The finding of the "murder car," with blood stains on the back seat, was the only clue Minneapolis police got of the murderers, until Curtis was picked up in North Platte. He returned to Omaha on the pretext that he wanted to stand trial here for stealing clothing.
