M'GREW SAYS HE WAS MISQUOTED BY SLOAN

Omaha Banker Declares Nebraska Congressman Should Stand on Record and Not Baffle Voters.

C. F. McGrew, Omaha banker, defends the position he took in his communication to The Bee on "How the Kaiser Would Vote." Congressman Sloan is charged by the banker with having misquoted him in the Congressional Record. With reference to the special dispatch in The Sunday Bee from his Washington correspondent setting forth Congressman Sloan's remarks, Banker McGrew said: "It reminds me of the saying, 'It is the wounded bird that flutters.' "Mr. Sloan first flagrantly misquotes from my article and then proceeds with gusto to demolish the straw man he erected. I did not say that he voted with the kaiser on all the questions submitted, but did say, 'At times he voted as the kaiser would vote,' and that statement stands. "While I wrote the article mentioned in all seriousness, I was too modest to assume that it would ever reach the dignity of being placed in the Congressional Record, giving it the still wider publicity to which Mr. Sloan so strenuously objects. No Less Majestic in U. S. "So far as I know Mr. Sloan is the first American statesman, of any degree, to say that a citizen who criticizes the public acts of a public official may be charged with slander and libel. He evidently forgets that for the destruction of the very thing thought that gave birth to his remark, the whole civilized world is now at war. We have no law of 'lese majeste' in America. "If Mr. Sloan desires to stand on his record, let him publish it all and his constituents can judge for themselves. It is too late in the day to befool the voters by loudly declaiming that a member voted for a certain measure, which he may have done on its final passage, when it was certain to pass, having in the meantime used every effort to defeat it. "The trouble with Mr. Sloan seems to be that he is such a partisan republican (and I plead guilty of being equally as partisan a member of the same party) that he thought it would be 'good politics' to oppose any measure submitted by a democratic administration. But the time is here when local party differences must be forgotten and a united front presented to the common enemy. "Mr. Sloan further intimates that I might be better employed than in criticizing his record. Be that as it may, I will say for his benefit though I had no intention of publishing it, that some days ago I tendered my entire time and services to Herbert C. Hoover, food administrator, subject to his orders, without the expectation of any reward or hope thereof, but simply to do 'my bit' for the good of the country. "Not being personally acquainted with Mr. Hoover I took the liberty to refer him, among others, to Mr. Sloan as to my capability, and I am sure Mr. Sloan will speak very kindly of me in that direction, even if he does object to my criticism."

Mother Stands By to See Germans Shoot Daughter Geneva, May 28.—(Via Paris.)—La Suisse today prints details of a case similar to that of Miss Edith Cavelle, the English nurse, who was executed by the Germans in Brussels in October, 1915. The Germans, says the newspaper, recently arrested two women, Mme. Pfeister and her daughter, aged 22 years, on the Swiss-Italian frontier. They were charged with acting as spies. The women promptly admitted at the trial that they had smuggled letters without knowing their contents, from Alsaitian families to relatives in Switzerland. This was done simply as a friendly act and without political purposes. Both women, say La Suisse, were shot at Mulhausen. The mother was a horrified witness of the execution of her daughter before her turn came.
