THE OMAHA BEE

DAILY (MORNING)-EVENING-SUNDAY

FOUNDED BY EDWARD ROSEWATER VICTOR ROSEWATER, EDITOR THE BEE PUBLISHING COMPANY, PROPRIETOR.

Entered at Omaha postoffice as second-class matter. TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. mange of address or tr Department REMITTANCE Omana-2018 N St. Bluffs-14 N. Main St. Chinago-Puople's Una Bullding. New York-188 Pifth Ave. St. Louis-New B'k. of Commerce Washington-725 14th St. N. W.

CORRESPONDENCE

MAY CIRCULATION 56,469 Daily-Sunday, 51,308

Average circulation for the months subscribed and sworp to be Dwig Williams, Circulation Manager, Subscribers leaving the city should have The Bee mailed a them. Address changed as often as requested.

Register!

Every true American must do his duty.

Kronstadt may yet come to realize the feelings of the fly that rode the wheel.

Youths; Register! Elders: Shoulder Liberty bonds! All together: Forward, march! Intimations that dollars bring less now than year ago falls far short of a news scoop. still a question for chemical analysis which side drew the most blood at Chadron.

The world war marks progress. Human lives on steamships are now insurable as well as the cargo. Every little rain storm helps the crops along, but they'd be more popular if they spaced a little farther apart. The home-coming of Benson and Florence bear the essentials of a family reunion. A nice batch of bills, as usual, comes home to dad, Ambassador Elkus is a lucky man. Traveling from Turkey to Switzerland with the loss of only his passport is a notable war-time incident.

A general demand in Petrograd workshops for wages equaling $147 a month serves as a reminder of the comparative modesty of Uncle Sam's

The waning fortunes of the U-boat campaign mocks the February promises of assured Teutonic victory. Results prove as visionary as world dominion.

The mere handing down of indictments against egg speculators at Chicago caused instant suspension of the Kansas City board. The action implies great respect for the efficiency of the grand jury gun.

Let us hope the investigating professors will tell us exactly what is needed for our public schools to make them the best possible. Omaha wants nothing less and will be disappointed if the survey does not produce real results.

Hints of amnesty for Sinn Feiners are current in London. Such action is probable as a prelude to the coming Irish constitutional conrention. Unfortunately for the cause, amnesty comes too late to carry a message of genuine Oracles of fashion announce greater economy in the wearables of men and women during war time. Some reductions may be effected in men's duds, doubtless, but further moves toward economy on the other side of the house challenges the fate of "September Morn."

It is inferred from Secretary Daniels' remark that if his "brother editors" could do at the front as much execution as they do at home the war phus might try out the idea by sending the staff of the Raleigh News and Observer to the firing

From the cove of Cork to Dublin bay the water road is a rocky one. Submarines lurk in the turbulent waters and smash Irish fishing fleets as cheerily as they send British craft to the bottom. Yet the Irish were assured by trusted agents that "Germany loved them, so it would not do a Division and discord marks the democracy of China as well as Russia. Conflicting interests take advantage of divided counsels to attain its ends. Selfishness, no doubt, is at the bottom of the confusion in both countries, and democracy is ound to be the sufferer. Division invariably forges the chains of tyranny.

Via Dolorosa

History is making so fast these days that it is more than usually difficult to get the true perspective of events. Looking back to the revolution and to the diverse parts which England and France played in it, there was a peculiar significance in the tributes paid by Mr. Balfour and M. Viviana at Mount Vernon to the memory of Washington. No more impressive illustration of the common purpose which now moves the allies could have been imagined. Yet the visit of the Italian commissioners to lay a wreath upon the could have been imagined. Yet the visit of the Italian commissioners to lay a wreath upon the tomb of our national hero is in one sense a fitter symbol of the course which destiny has marked out for us. With Italy, too, we must hereafter have the closest ites. Nothing could have been more felicitous than the address of the Principe di Udine on this occasion. It has a sustained note if noble feeling and high resolve. This is indeed it is dolorosa upon which the champions of humanity have entered. Great sacrifices have been made; greater sacrifices may be to come. In what Washington did and dared we find our best example. "We come to his tomb," said the prince, "to seek purification," to dedicate ourselves anew what Washington did and dares we fill the prince, example. "We come to his tomb," said the prince, "to seek purification," to dedicate ourselves anew to a holy cause. It is a cause in which Italy has already won great triumphs. Its representatives tells the latest of the allies that it will never falter in its service. "We shall never lay down our arms." he declared, "until our liberties and the liberties of the peoples who are suffering with us shall be rendered safe against all surprises and all violence?"

and all violence."

No war has ever been quite like this war.

Whatever its immediate or ultimate causes, whatever ambifions or resentments may have been involved in its beginnings, it has become a mion of the great nations of the world against a peril that threatens all they hold most dear.

Partisanship in the Senate

A deplorable spectacle is presented in the United States senate just now, where certain democratic senators are playing party politics in a way that will really hamper the government. Leslie Woolsey, long connected with the State department of the United States government, has been nominated by the president to be solicitor for the department. His confirmation is opposed and may be defeated by a group of democrats in the senate, who conceal their real purpose behind trivial pretexts. No question is made of Mr. Woolsey's ability; his work has won high praise from those who are in position to judge of its character.

Since the relations of the United States and the European countries became critical Mr. Woolsey has been of invaluable service in gathering the data, arranging the points and in some instances drafting the notes that have been sen from this country. He is credited with having written the note to Austria in reply to the protest from that country on the exportation of munitions, a statement of the case so clear and convincing it will stand as a precedent.

He was recommended to the president by Secretary Lansing and by Attorney General Gregory, who vouches for his qualifications as a law The president nominated him, but his name is objected to because he is not a practicing Incidentally, Mr. Woolsey told inquiring senators that he is a republican in politics. Also, as a bit of light on the situation, several "deserving democrats" have sought the place, and one of them may get it, should the nomination of Mr. Woolsey be rejected. While this is going on Chairman Willcox and Chairman McCormick of the national organizations are working side by side and urging members of all partes to forget their partisan affiliations at this time.

It is pretty hard to fathom the workings of the minds of some democrats. In this case only the nation can lose, and all the party can gain will be another name on the pay roll.

Poles Line Up for Liberty.

No finer example of the impulse for liberty could be had than that afforded by the young Poles of Omaha, who have so enthusiastically declared for liberty in the most effectual way pos sible-by enlisting in the army of the United States. These young men have a double inspiration in their movement; they realize far better than some of the native born just what life under Old Glory means, and they have also the present wrongs of Poland to consider. Kosciusko and Sobieski are more than names to them, and liberty is a reality in their lives. Freedom appeals to them as it did to their fathers, and, that it may not be impaired, they are willing to give all a man can give to the cause. They do not enlist as Poles, but as Americans, even though Poland will benefit by their sacrifice in the end. Amer icans may well observe this movement and take inspiration from it, for it is a splendid act in a cause that involves the future of humanity.

Future of German Commerce.

One phase of the war that has been overlooked is being forced to larger attention by reason of recent developments. It is the future of Germany's exterior commerce. Through a long and persistent effort the Germans had built up a great trade with the world. This necessitated not only cultivation of friendly relations with possible customers, but required the establishment of an elaborate system of financial and transportation facilities, which were provided with that degree of efficiency that made the nation such a power. In the beginning of the conflict it was alleged that Germany had been forced into the war in order that it might protect this commerce, on which the industrial life of the empire depended. Jealousy on the part of Great Britain and others of the competitors for world trade was said to be hampering the German, and in order to make sure of the future the present must be defended.

In two directions was it possible to extend German trade-in China and in the Americas. To these outlets for future production the Germans had given especial attention. How great the influence exerted by them is only coming to be understood now through the fact that it has been sacrificed by the pursuit of the ruthless military policy adopted by the great Prussian machine. With China estranged, the South American couns openly at war and all the great machinery for transporting and financing the commerce of the empire disrupted or destroyed, the extent of the ruin brought on Germany by the war party s apparent.

Germany's war lords staked the future of their country's commerce on a cast of the war dice, and have lost. No nation ever faced a future of greater economic difficulties than that now confronting the Germans.

Shumway's Great Discovery.

Land Commissioner Shumway has made a start ling discovery-that the State Normal board is an illegal body and that it has spent millions of dollars of the state's money without warrant. The commissioner is to be commended for his zeal, show ing a true democratic propensity for guarding the treasury, but if he gets a little further into the mysterious intricacies of the state government he will very likely discover the normal board is well within the law. One of the fictions under which the complicated machinery for Nebraska's government has been built up under constitutional restriction has been the deputizing of authority by the governor. This doesn't apply specifically to the normal board, but by a little stretching of the constitution-which already has endured some decided expansion under pull-it may be found that the principle which permits the governor to deputize his authority, and which also contemplates the continuance of appropriations by the faintest of implication, will also serve to validate expenditure of state money by the board in ques-tion. The State Normal board may be a useless appendage to the administrative machinery of the state, but it will require some argument to prove it illegal. Commissioner Shumway can readily establish a name for himself as a "strict constructionist" if he so desires, but he will not endear himself to his fellow democrats by adhering too closely to the constitution. It isn't fashionable in

A fifty-fifty split of belated plum tree fruit between governor and senators raises a starvation blockade in Pennsylvania and leaves the solons

The New Indian Bu Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, June 2.—The rumor that a unit of American Indians would be included in the first division of troops to be sent to Europe is only a rumor. Secretary of War Baker has announced himself opposed to it. He does not believe that the various nationalities and races that constitute the American people should be separated in service, but should all fight as Americans.

a matter of fact, the number of Indians available for military service is extremely small There are only 320,000 American Indians, located principally throughout the west and middle-west of these only about 40 per cent speak English. Even of this 40 per cent about half are women, while a great many more are either under or over the military age limit or for various reaincapacitated.

The War department, therefore, is not disposed The War department, therefore, is not disposed to favor any plan calling for a special mobilization of Indians. All Indians of military age will register the same as other American males. Many students in government Indian schools have already gone into training in various military or

The Bureau of Indian Affairs is also opposed to any policy which treats the Indian as a race rather than an individual. Mr. Sells' declared policy is to make citizens of all Indians who are ready for the privileges and responsibilities which citizenship involves. In determining which Indians are competent to exercise the rights of citizenship, the following facts will govern.

If an Indian is of more than one-half white blood, other than in exceptional cases, he will be given full charge of his affairs, including his money and property, and the government thereafter withdraws its supervision of him. He may stay on the reservation or go out into the world, at his pleasure. He is a free man. Now, to all Indians of one-half or more Indian blood, the same privileges will be granted when, after thorough investigation, they are determined to be as competent to manage their own affairs as the average white man, except that it will be the rule to withhold patents in fee to forty acres of land belonging to each Indian, so that he may be insured a permanent home.

In addition to declaring competent and giving patents in fee to adult Indians. Commissioner Sells has established the practice of giving patents in fee or competency certificates to graduates of non-reservation Indian schools giving the full course of study who are 21 years of age and have demonstrated competency to manage their own after withdraws its supervision of him. He may demonstrated competency to manage their ow

On being declared competent, the Indian w receive not only the entire control of all his individual Indian money and property, but his interest in tribal funds will also be paid to him. The money will be withdrawn from the treasury and their pro rata shares paid to all competent Indians, while the shares of the incompetent Indians. dians will be withdrawn and placed in banks to their individual credit to be expended for the ben-efit of the Indians under the supervision of the superintendent of their respective reservations.

Along with these new privileges, however, the Indian will encounter responsibilities. For example, he will have to pay for his children's schooling. For many years the government has been educating at its own expense Indian children who contain in some cases as much as three-fourths white blood and whose parents are wealthy. Sometimes there were adequate public school facilities in the immediate vicinity of their residences, but the parents preferred to send them to the non-reservation schools at the expense of the government. Now, according to the new ruling, "such children shall not hereafter be enrolled in government Indian schools supported superintendent of their respective reservations. ruling, "such children shall not hereafter be en-rolled in government Indian schools supported by gratuity appropriations, except on payment of actual per capita cost and transportation."

Today there are hundreds of well educated Today there are hundreds of well educated and prosperous Indians in the west who are successful farmers and ranch men. Many are engaged in the professions and business occupations. Many of the Indian women are excellent housekeepers and, as a rule, they are making rapid improvement in home economics, domestic science being one of the chief courses taught in the government schools. Two United States sensions and these courses are Indiana and one ators and three congressmen are Indians, and one nearly fullblood Indian woman has recently aston-ished eastern audiences by her highly cultured

d beautiful voice. The rapid strides of the American Indian for The rapid strides of the American Indian for the last few years are strikingly significant of his future. The competent Indian will henceforth be freed from the restrictions of guardianship and have all of the privileges of an American citizen, while the incompetent, those who need the protection of the government, and they are still the large majority, will have it in full measure.

Spirit of the State Press

Plattsmouth Journal: Economy may be a warvirtue, but say, girls, your enough now.

Hastings Tribune: Omaha banks are to buy $4,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds. That shows hose Omaha money kings have the right spirit Albion News: We are asked why it is neces-sary for the American people to eat corn so that we can send our wheat to foreign countries; why not let the foreigners eat the corn?

Kearney Hub: Nebraska farmers have given a working demonstration as to how to hold a farmers' congress. They simply flock by them-selves and let the professional gentlemen and selves and let the propositicians do likewise. York Republican: Call it a "liberty loan" is another of the cheap deceptions by which the leak traffickers in Washington seek to manage the people. It is another "the kept us out of war," good enough for election purposes.

Clay Center Sun: Our young women will be interested in a note that was found in a ream of Canadian print paper handled in this office last week. Here it is: "Please, Mr. Printer, come to Canada. Our men have all gone to war." An Adamless Eden lies on our northern border.

Autora Republican. For Comment Alfach in the Canada.

Aurora Republican: Ex-Governor Aldrich has identified himself with a highly undesirable class of citizens by declaring his opposition to the army draft and announcing his intention of making a chautauqua campaign on that issue. "Chet's" tendency to go off at half-cock has caused him some embarrassment in the past, but he will never some embarrassment in the past, but he will never know what real trouble is until he undertakes to carry out this threat. Fremont Tribune: One Dodge county farmer threatened to boycott his bank if it pushed the sale of Liberty bonds. A few other citizens with the same sort of motives have stopped the Tribune because it doesn't print enough news of German victories. A little list of such as these will come handy for the use of the Dodge County Council of Defense. There is some work yet to be done in spotting enemies here at home and giving them what they deserve.

Our Fighting Men

William M. Black.

Brigadier General William M. Black, chief of engineers of the United States army, has risen through all the grades of the service to his present rank of brigadier general, to which he was promoted last year when he succeeded General Kingman as chief of the engineer corps. General Black was born at Lancaster, Ba., in 1855 and graduated from West Point in 1877. He served as chief progresses in the Porto Rican campaign. blockade in Pennsylvania and leaves the solons free to tackle minor patriotic duties. With the political commissary fully stocked, the valiant Keystoners fear no foe.

Congressional "porkers" managed to spear a small chunk of fat for "flood control." Six millions is not so much where billions fly, but it serves to keep a grip on the bacon department.

graduated from West Point in 1877. He served as chief engineer in the Porto Rican campaign in 1898 and subsequently superintended important engineering works in Cuba during the American occupation of that island. He had charge of the work of raising the wreck of the battleship Maine from Havena harbor and also assisted in the building of the Parama canal. At other periods of his can er he has served as instructor at West Point an at the United States School of Engineering.

Proverb for the Day. Bricks don't make a home nor bind

One Year Ago Today in the War

Earl Kitchener, British war minis-ter, and his staff lost when the Brit-ish cruiser Hampshire was sunk by a mine or torpedo near the Orkney islands.

German imperial chancellor, in speech before the Reichstag, declared any further suggestions of peace by Germany would be futile and evil.

In Omaha Thirty Years Ago.

In Omaha Thirty Years Ago.

Mrs. Annie Wentz, 517 North Fourteenth, being awakened by a noise, found a burgiar in the next room behind the door. The plucky woman wrested his revolver from him, whereupon the night raider broke away and jumped through a window, taking the whole sash with him and dropping a silver watch out of his pocket.

Waiter Sams, the Fifteenth street jeweler, has presented Rev. Joseph

Foy, D. D., pastor of the First Chris-

Foy, D. D., pastor of the First Christian church, with an elegant goldheaded cane.

Lewis S. Reed has been elected president of the Equitable Trust company and vice president of the Nebraska National bank.

John C. Dingman and Charles J. Emory, who have been connected with the Western Detective agency for some time, have gone into business for themselves.

F. P. Trench has left for the east with matrimonial intentions.

F. P. Trench has left for the east with matrimonial intentions. The residence of the Misses Georgia and Florence French was the scene of a charming entertainment, at which the following were present: Misses Carrie McLain, Mamie McLain, Sue King, Mollie King, Mollie King, Mollie King, Mollie King, Mollie King, Kowies and the Messrs. Bryans, Day, Craig, King, Sherman and Norwood.
Richard S. Berlin gave a theater and dianer party in honor of Miss Kinzie of Chicago, the guest of Mrs. General Wheaton.

al Wheaton. The little daughter of Richard Wilde gave a charming lawn party at the residence of her parents, Eighteenth and Jackson, at which the following and Jackson, at which the following little folks were present: Blanche, Maude and Bessie Her; Rena, Edna and Percy Jensen; Marie, Susie and Dick Welty: Ethel Geist, Mable Fulpried, Gussie Korty, Arthur Parr, Edith and Ena Burns, Love Dunn, Sadie Leisenring, Helen Drake, Grace Nichols, Katie Havens, Roy Black, Roy Dubols, Nina Shoemaker, Charlie and Mamie Koster, Laura Goetz, Tot Moores and Bessie Goetz.

This Day in History.

This Day in History.

1781—Americans took Augusta, Ga., from the British and loyalists after a siege of two weeks.

1806—Napoleon made his brother Louis king of Holland.

1848—The first state legislature of Wisconain assembled at Madison.

1854—Canada and the United States concluded a reciprocity agreement.

1867—National Brewers' congress, in session at Chicago, favored political action to stay the progress of the "fanatical" temperance movement.

1892—Dam at Spartansburg, Pa., gave way and oil from tanks bursting from the risking waters ignited on the surface of Oil creek; over 100 lives lost.

1899—Frank Thomson, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, died at Merion, Pa. Born at Chambersburg, Pa., July 5, 1841.

1916—Great loss of life and property caused by tornadoes that swept over parts of Illinois, Missouri, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Day We Celebrate.

The Day We Celebrate.

Albert Hale, employed by the gov-ernment to boost American trade in-terests in South America, born at Jonesville, Mich., fifty-seven years ago

Jonesville, Mich., fifty-seven years ago today.

Mortimer J. Schiff, prominent financier and philanthropist, born in New-York City forty years ago today.

Dr. Richard C. McLaurin, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, born in Scotiand forty-seven years ago today.

Emmet Corrigan, one of the prominent actors of the American stage, born in Amsterdam, Holland, forty-nine years ago today.

Fred Mitchell, manager of the Chicago National legaue base ball club, born at Cambridge, Mass., thirty-eight years ago today.

Battling Nelson, former champion lightweight puglist, born in Copenhagen, Denmark, thirty-five years ago.

Timely Jottings and Reminders.

Timely Jottings and Reminders.

Army registration day.
Colonel Roosevelt is scheduled to speak today at the registration day celebration at Atlantic City.
James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, is to deliver the commencement day address today at the University of Chattanooga.
Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo mencement day address today at the University of Chattanooga.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo is scheduled to speak-in Boston tonight in behalf of the Liberty loan. President Wilson is expected to be among the speakers today at the formal opening of the confederate veterans' reunion in Washington.

The dedication of the $300,000 McKinley Memorial at Nilea, O., originally fixed for today, has been postponed until September, when it is expected the memorial will be completed.

Nearly 1,000 graduates, the largest class in the history of the institution will receive degrees today at the com-mencement of Ohio State university.

Storvette of the Day.

Well," said the far west mayor to the English tourist, "I dunn how you manage these affairs over there, but out here when some of our boys got tied up in that thar bankrupt tele-phone company I was tellin' yer about, they became mighty crusty."

"Yus; they didn't like the way the receiver was handlin' the business no-how."

ow."
"Indeed!" commented the earnest istener. "Then, may I ask, what they listener. "Then, may I ask, what they did?"
"Sartinly. I woz goin' ter tell yer. They just hung up the receiver."—Puck.

AMERICA.

From weary hearts on land and sea Resounds a yearning call to Thee To guard securely and not fail Thy trust, the Hope that must prevail. America!

By weapon keener than thy steel In Thee was bruised Oppression's heel And wrought, in love of liberty. A state whose aim is equity. America! Thy sure foundation. Human Right, is blazened by Thy banner bright: Thy subtle, all-pervading force is His who shaped and guides Thy course. Americal

Oh, Herald of the Golden Age, Hope's promise, peerless heritage! My heart is thus; thins is my hand, My Land, my Land, my Fatherland, America!

ALBIN N. OSTERHOLM

The Bee's

Italy Also Our Ally.

Omaha, June 4.—To the Editor of The Bee: I notice many people of our city are displaying the Union Jack and the French Tri-Colors. It is nice to thus compliment our aillies, but why not also favor the others? For instance, why not display the flag of Italy? We have many citizens among us of Italian lineage and they are loyal. They are an intensely emotional people and may feel somewhat slighted by our oversight in not displaying the Italian colors along with those of France and England. A few years ago a splendid demonstration was held by Omaha Italians to honor Christopher Columbus. It seems the least we might do would be to honor the nation of which the discoverer of America was a representative. was a representative. FAIR-MINDED.

Memorable In American History.

Omaha, June 4.—To the Editor of The Bee: Tuesday, June 5, 1917, will go down as one of the most memorable in our history. It is a day of mingled pride and joy, of pain and tears. Pains and tears that the aspiring youth of our land, just ripening into life, having hoped to equip themselves for the more glorious pursuits of peace, must set aside their ambitions, their loves, their hopes, and take upon themselves the arduous, wretched business of war. Pride and joy that the great anchor of human liberty our fathers fixed secure to bedrock in the ocean of life, still holds. Pride in a nation that believes in the majesty of man against the majesty of kings; joy in the hope that its ideals Memorable In American History. majesty of man against the majesty of kings; joy in the hope that its ideals shall spread through the world—not by means of force, but by its precept and example. Pride and joy emobined that the youth of this land today, whether they fully realize it or not, have their radiant faces set toward the dawn of a brighter day for the world when kings, kaisers and czars shall be no more, when democracy shall be the order of the world and over every land shall spread the jeweled wings of

We are facing a foe that has spent We are facing a 100 that has speak a half century preparing for this con-est, while most of the rest of the civ-ilized world has been devoted to the arts of peace. I misst that this foe is not Germany, but a cruel autocracy that has undermined the spirit of Ger-is not Germany, but a cruel autocracy that has undermined the spirit of Germany itself.

To meet such a foe, America has been compelled to adopt some measures, not before so universally applied. Conscription is one of these. It has had a harsh sound upon our ears. Believe me, it has its better side. It is not ant all certain that a nation has a moral right to leave its preservation wholly in the hands of those who are loyal enough to volunteer. As no one who will not work should be allowed to eat, so no one is entitled to the protection of a free government. To maintain that we should leave ourselves to be defended vy volunteers alone is to assert that we should sacrifice thousands where then might do. If it is necessary that we must strike a blow, let us make that blow as powerful and swift as human capacity can make it, that the evil business of war shall be short and as merciful as possible. We are facing a foe that never dreamed of depending upen volunteers.

I deay that conscription is undemdreamed of depending upon volun-teers.

I deny that conscription is undem-ocratic. To deny that democracy has a moral right to defend itself is absurd. When it meets a foe that has stood against disarmament and that has cul-

When it meets a foe that has stood against disarmament and that has cultivated the war spirit above every other, it has a moral right to defend itself by any means in its power.

So, while today a million homes are saddened at the necessary sacrifice, and before another year has passed thousands of these will be in gloom because of vacant chairs that never more may bear their sacred burdens, let us rejoice in the thought that never before did the sons of America enlist in a holler cause. And let us ramember that while these dvoiced boys offer their lives in defense of our ideals, thos who remain behind have a no less necessary and sacred task, which is to preserve intack America's high ideals, and not allow traitors in our halls of state to corrupt ond government at its source. Let us all, men and women of America, emulate the example of the fathers who pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor, that "this government of the people, shall not perish from the earth."

L. J. QUINBY.

Beg Your Pardon.

Beg Your Pardon.

Columbus, Neb., June 2.—To the Editor of The Bee; I notice by my morning's Bee that you have a picture of my son, Thomas, in his Boy ture of my son, Thomas, in his Boy Scout uniform and spoke of him as living in Grand Island and as blowing the busic for the old soldiers who held their state encampment in that city during the month of May.

For your information would advise that the state encampment of the Grand Army, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Woman's Relief corps, Sons of Veterans and Spanish War Veterans was held in the city of Columbus and not in Grand Island as stated in your article, and that Thomas Dickey's home is in Columbus.

bus.

I feel that Columbus should be credited with the honor of having entertained these guests instead of Grand Island and would appreciate your cor-CHARLES L. DICKEY.

Renounces Socialist Party.

Renounces Socialist Party.

Verdigree. Neb., June 1.—To the Editor of The Bee: Permit me to write a few lines about the socialists of the United States.

I have been a student of the movement for the last thirty years and have adhered to a large extent to the principles of their teachings for humanity's sake and a square deal for the common people. I have preferred this party before all other political parties. But in this world crisis I come to the conclusion that the stand the socialist party has taken is shallow-minded, unworthy of its principles in the great struggle for mankind

The reliability of this undertaking con-cern is one of its bulwarks of strength. We are courteous at all times. Our funerals are conducted in an elegant, dig-nified manner. Our beautiful, fairly pric-ed burials have caused us to be talked about in this community. We are adver-tised by our friends. N. P. SWANSON and liberty, and from the American standpoint, should be condemned by all thinking people and patriotic citistandpoint, should be condemned all thinking people and patriotic of all thinking people and parious cans.

Funeral Parlor. (Established 1889) 17th and Cuming Sts. Tel. Doug. 1060

The leaders in their conferences should be courtmartialed as they are worse than enemy spies, because they are agitating against their own platforms and adherents for the purpose of disruption of our democratic government. I want to stand with our great president and its best men behind this country in its effort to free the world from autocracy.

A. V. KOUBA.

Molasses and Animal Food.

Molasses and Animal Food.
Omaha, June 2.—To the Editor of
The Bee: I note in The Bee's Letter
Box of May 29, under the caption
"Molasses and Alcohol," a letter under Louisville, Ky., date signed by T.
M. Gilmore, president of the National Model License league, in which is quoted from a debate in the United States senate May 12, to the effect that the molasses used in the manufacture of alcohol would be thrown away if not so used.

of alcohol would be thrown away if not so used.

I would like to correct your correspondent so that no false impressions may be gained by your readers.

For at least twelve years the Lousiana "blackstrap," or cane refuse molasses, as well as "refuse syrup" from the western beet sugar factories, has entered largely into the manufacture of animal feed, being combined with the by-products of grain elevators. flour mills, etc., as well as with cracked corn, oats and alfalfa meal, and is known as molasses feed.

nour mills, etc., as well as with cracked corn, oats and alfalfa meal, and is known as molasses feed.

The Omaha Alfalfa Milling company, together with other feed manufacturers. take from 4,000 to 5,000 tons of this refuse molasses annually in the conduct of their business, which it will be agreed is no small proportion of the visible supply.

Prior to August, 1914, this molasses commanded from $12 to $14 per ton. f. o. b. Louisians or western sugar factories for use in manufactured animal food. Today it commands from $25 to $30 per ton. This great advance in price is due to the competition of the southern alcohol distillers. Since this competition started feed manufacturers have had to depend largely upon the western "refuse syrup," the freight differences on the Louisians "refuse molasses" being in favor of the distilleries in the south.

"refuse molasses" being in favor of the distilleries in the south.

While it is true this "molasses" is not it for human consumption, it is a big factor in the animal food industry, and were it not for the competition of the distillers the animal feeder who is obliged to use prepared feeds comprising molasses would pay considerably less for his supplies.

B. J. DRUMMOND,
Traffic Manager, Omaha Alfalfa Milling Company.

MIRTHFUL REMARKS. "There are two phonograph records miss-ing. Bridget."
"Sure, the goat did eat 'em up teday, Pat."
"Well, he wasn't feeling first rate; per-haps they'll tone him up a bit."—Tenkers Statesman.

"These nuck lunch places are convenient, but the troncised china they use here is rather thick."
It is act.
It's a land my wife in here the other night and she couldn't lift her cup."

The children were having a review lesson in history. The teacher said, "Columbus had a compass to sail by; did Ericsson use a compass?"

"No." answered a boy, "he sailed by the tara." asked the teacher.

"And what else" asked the teacher.

After a moment the boy replied, "And the tripes."—Boston Transcript.

HATS OFF! COLLEGE BOYS!

(Philadelphia Ledger.) (Philadelphia Ledger.)
They scowled at all our pranks and jokes, the buildeness of our oats.
For all the fautts of our oats.
For all the fautts of ardent youth we were the very posts; and blasers, and our sporting lackets, too.
Came in for full derision and our socks of rainbow hue;
Our hair-cuts and our turned-up pants, our loiling dancing ways
Were subjects for their censure, not a word said in our praise—
But now that we are marching eff, amid the station's noise,
It's handclasps everywhere; "good luck!"
"hats off!" "the college boys!"

They told us we could never win our way in after life.

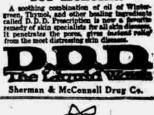

That we were too luxurious for the grim industrial strife.

They laughed at our "Commencements;"
"Commence to learn," they said,
"How little you've inside that block that passes for your head!"

And though we pointed in our pride how college men had wen college mer had wen

They said they did it 'spite the clegs of four years full of fun.
But now that we are going, gone—just hear the station noise

the station noise It's "Hernes!" "hernes!" everywhere! "Hats off—the college boys!" What Doctors Use for Eczema

Cuticura Makes the Hands Soft and White

And keeps them free from redness, roughness and chapping. Bathe them each night in a strong hot lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and rub in Cuticura Ointment and wear old gloves during the night, or wipe off surplus Ointment with soft tissue paper. These supercreamy emollients are ideal for all tollet uses. For sample each free by mail address post-card: "Cuticura, Dept. 3G, Boston." Sold everywhere.

THE OMAHA BEE INFORMATION BUREAU Washington, D. C.

Enclosed find a two-cent stamp, for which you will please send me, entirely free, a copy of the Bread Book.

| Street Address | |
|----------------|-------|
| | |
| City | State |