

Alleges Wife Refuses to Follow Him to America
Joseph Vobejda, suing Katerina Vobejda for divorce in district court, says that his wife induced him to come to America from Austria seven years ago and then refused to follow with their five children.

is mentioned. The husband alleges the last he heard from her was that she "had a buyer for her property." He says "she evidently cares more for the buyer of her property than for me." The Vobejdas were married in Zabor, Bohemia, Austria, November 15, 1898. Since coming to the United States pleadings made by him to his wife to follow him have been in vain, he says. He alleges he has sent her money for living expenses and for transportation. He asks permission of the court to serve her in a foreign jurisdiction. Persistent Advertising is the Road to Success.

Craig Says Felton is Ready to Go to France
General Passenger Craig of the Great Western is spending the day in the city, having come over from Chicago. He says that taking into consideration the relative size of the cities, the spirit of patriotism is as much in evidence in Omaha as in Chicago or any other city. Mr. Craig asserts that President Felton of the Great Western, to whom has been assigned the work of rebuilding the railroads of France, is busy working out plans and getting his forces together. No date for the sailing of the railroad division of the National Council for Defense has been announced and it is not likely that the date will be made public. According to Mr. Craig, railroad business is holding up better than was expected, especially the freight end. And while the car shortage has been relieved, an immense amount of tonnage is being moved.
