RECRUIT STATION ON LINCOLN CORNER

Spot Mayor Bryan Selected for Comfort Station Being Used for Tent of Officer Enlisting Young Men.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Lincoln, June 12.—(Special.)—When Mayor Bryan dug up the nice pavement on Lincoln's principal business corner to build a public comfort station and pierced the ground six feet deep, little did he think that instead of a public comfort station an army recruiting office would be erected there or that instead of a cement edifice an army tent would stand instead, but such is the fact.

Many people did not like the idea of a public comfort station in the locality and so after Mr. Bryan had dug the hole good and deep, Mayor Miller, his successor, filled it up again and while the pavement has not yet been laid, the bare ground made an ideal place to pitch a tent and in it recruiting station and expects to receive many names before the semi-annual celebration is over.

To Supply Guard. In connection with the enlistments Captain Crawford is especially interested in the idea of Dr. L. V. Douglas of Wymore, which is meeting with considerable approval, is the conservation of the vegetables of the gardens of the state and the saving of wood.

"Every man who has a family garden," says Dr. Douglas, who by the way is a brother of Major R. G. Douglas, commander of the Omaha battalion of the Fourth Regiment, "will have more vegetables than he can use. A Red Cross organization in every town in the state could take charge of the work of gathering the surplus vegetables and the boy scouts could take them and get them ready for shipment to the Nebraska guard, which after July 15 will be in camp at some place in the state.

The first freight which came along could carry the vegetables to the camp and by every town in the state, making a systematic effort to gather the surplus garden truck, the boys at camp could be saved the expense of buying and always have a fresh supply on hand, thus making a big saving to the nation."

To Save Fuel. "Every railroad burns up a large amount of old ties which have been taken from the track. If these old ties were piled up on the right-of-way and then loaded into cars and shipped to the training camp, it would save thousands of dollars to the fuel fund and at the same time give the boys in camp a good fuel for the use of the cooks," said the doctor.

Captain Crawford is enthusiastic over the idea and believes if the people of the state and the railroads will co-operate in this matter, that it will save the nation hundreds of thousands of dollars and help solve the problem how to get good and wholesome food for the soldiers.

Three Automobile Accidents at Kearney

Kearney, Neb., June 12.—(Special.)—Three automobile accidents were recorded here in as many days, none of them with fatal results, but all tending to a tightening up of the vehicle ordinances.

Stella Zimmerman, a 17-year-old girl, was run down Saturday night while crossing Central avenue. The wheels of a big machine passed over her body and she was unconscious for some time, but no bones were broken, and the sum total of her hurts consists of severe body bruises. She failed to use the regular crossing and the automobile driver was exempted from blame.

W. J. Atkinson, aged 17, Sunday endeavored to bump one of the fast Union Pacific passenger trains off the track. He hit the train a smart blow at the engine tender. His automobile was swung around and hit a second time by the baggage car. The train then made a regular spinning wheel of the automobile, every car giving it another bump. The steps were torn off three cars and the auto was fit for the junk pile by the time the long train passed. Atkinson was jarred considerably and bruised some, but not badly hurt.

W. B. McInroy was breezing along a country road Monday when a horse disputed the right-of-way with him. A collision followed, the horse suffering two broken legs and the car going into the automobile hospital. McInroy was uninjured.

Are You One of Them?

There are a great many people who would be very much benefited by taking Chamberlain's Tablets for a weak or disordered stomach. Are you one of them? Mrs. M. R. Searl, Baldwinville, N. Y., relates her experience in the use of these tablets: "I had a bad spell with my stomach about six months ago and was troubled for two or three weeks with gas and severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Our druggist advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. I took a bottle home and the first dose relieved me wonderfully and I kept on taking them until I was cured." These tablets do not relieve pain, but after the pain has been relieved may prevent its recurrence.—Advertisement.

large sums of money. That was at a time when George Washington, in a letter to George Mason, said, "We are without money and have been so for a great length of time; without provision and forage, except what is taken by impress; without clothes; * * * in a word, we have lived upon expedients until we can live no longer."

France to Our Aid.

"In those fateful years, France did come to our deliverance with an army and a navy, and with such financial assistance as assured our independence. Our nation, in this hour of extremity for both England and France, should regard it as a special privilege to aid them in a superlative degree by the loans of money which are being made to our allies in Europe. It is not possible to estimate in coin the immeasurable consequence that may come from the loan of money to the power and glory of the American nation.

From 1803 to 1917, what a marvelous change has come over the great nations of the earth! England and France have become republics in principle. Both have representative governments. Both are the homes of a new democracy. In both, there is as much freedom and liberty as in the United States.

"The loyalty and patriotism of this western country, springing from the spirit of loyalty and bravery of the veterans of the civil war, and which spirit courses through the veins of all their sons, and which sentiment of loyalty pervades the hearts of all the citizens of this state, are manifested by the fact that 118,000 of Nebraska's young men have registered themselves to become soldiers to battle with the allied nations of Europe—England and France—against autocracy.

Appropriate and Fitting.

"It is appropriate and fitting that our army should combine with the army of England, because both our countries belong to the same race of people, speak the same language and are of the same lineal blood. It may be appropriately said that we are the western branch of the great Anglo-Saxon race. Perhaps our joining with England, in its great struggle in Europe, will be the starting point of a new and glorious period in our own history. So, too, today we behold not only the glory, but the agony of France. Civilization is started at the colossal forces now battling to extinguish the republican institutions in that country and to tear asunder the very fabric of its liberties. We remember that, at the siege of Yorktown, there were more French troops of the line than there were of the regular army of Americans. We also recall, in that siege of Yorktown, that there were thirty-six French battle-ships under the command of the French admiral, DeGrasse. Benjamin Franklin once declared that, without Yorktown, our independence would have been set back a thousand years.

"There is, therefore, every reason why our American soldiers should unite with the army of France, and that the three great republican nations of the world—England, France and the United States—should co-op-

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Lincoln, Neb., June 12.—(Special Telegram.)—A delegation of twenty-two laboring men, representing the building laborers of Omaha, headed by T. P. Reynolds, president of the State Federation of Labor, and R. B. Donohoe, president, and Gus Lawson, secretary of the laboring men's organization of builders, called on Governor Neville today in an effort to have the executive use his efforts for a conference between the workingmen and the contractors to the end that the dispute over wages and working conditions be settled.

The governor promised the men he would do what he could to bring a conference about and the matter will be taken up by the State Defense council.

After discussing the controversy between the builders and the workingmen, the State Council of Defense referred the controversy to the State Council of Mediation, a board created by the legislature of 1913.

The board at the present time consists of Robert Cowell and T. P. Reynolds of Omaha and A. J. Sawyer of Lincoln.

The law provides that all lobbyists should file with the secretary of state within two months after the adjournment of the legislature an itemized statement under oath of all expenditures. A failure of such lobbyist to comply with the requirements of section 3709, Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1913, is considered a misdemeanor and the individual is liable to punishment by imprisonment in the penitentiary or county may be fined in any sum up to $1,000 or both in the discretion of the court.

As the legislature adjourned April 24, it will be noted that only a few days remain in which the lobbyists may make their reports.
