Bellevue College.

Prof. E. L. Pulk, extension department of Bellevue college, will spend his vacation at Bellevue this summer. Prof. Pulk will conduct classes in expression for Omaha Business men during the summer at his studio in the T. M. C. A. Building, Omaha. The Bellevue Red Cross unit has been doing splendid work in preparing hospital supplies. Every meeting is attended by every one of the thirty members. Plans are now on foot for taking up food canning as a conservation measure. One of the members of the unit, Miss A. A. Jackson, who has had charge of canning classes in Omaha will direct the work.

Prof. J. Edward Erickson left Saturday morning for Moorhead, Minn., where he expects to spend three weeks.

Among the alumni visitors on the college hill for the commencement exercises Monday were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Halderman and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Webb, who moved to Bellevue from Pawnee City. Mr. Webb was toastmaster at the Alumni Banquet Monday evening, and Mr. Halderman who was prominent in athletic circles while in college, organized a ball team of alumni for an Alumni-Varsity base ball game which was played Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Charles E. Holley, head of the Education Department, Bellevue College, left Saturday evening for the University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois, where he will teach in the University Summer School.

John D. Haskell, Wakefield, Neb., was a visitor at Bellevue College Tuesday morning, June 12, at the annual commencement exercises of the college.

The Vacation Bureau.

Inasmuch as 85 per cent of the children of the United States leave school before the age of 16, it follows that a large per cent become wage earners without any specific preparation and without means of ascertaining for what they are fitted. The result is wasteful to the individual, to his family, to his employer and to society. The vocational guidance movement throughout the United States has arisen to meet this problem.

The present war situation intensifies the need for vocational guidance. It is imperative that a greater number than ever go on to college because the educational work and the reconstruction of Europe devolve upon the United States. We will need double the number of trained people in the next few years.

The vacation bureau stimulates interest in continued schooling by showing the increased personal power and earning capacity of the better educated. It supplies information concerning places where the various Kearney State Normal School.

The rural school department has a very large attendance and is receiving wonderful help from the rural school organization of eighteen pupils from the Collins school for demonstration work in the classes under Miss Twetten.

Two special departments under Mr. Worlock and the piano under Mrs. Niron are receiving a large patronage during this summer term.

Miss Effie Abbott is attending the Wesleyan university for the summer term, completing the work for her degree.

Miss Florence DeWaele, who completes the four years of voice training under Montague Worlock gives her public recital next Friday evening.

Plans are being made for a special meeting of interest for county superintendents and rural school people for the three days, June 24, 25 and 26, when leading educators will be present.

Miss Julia E. Wirt and Miss Evelyn Dilly are planning to attend Columbia university during the summer term.

A very successful meeting of fifty-nine women took place in the domestic science department on Friday and Saturday of last week, where they had special training in canning vegetables and fruits.

Mr. J. A. Clark and wife of Kirkville, Mo., but formerly of this institution, where Mr. Clark was head of the department of education, were given a hearty welcome at chapel hour last Friday morning. They were accompanied by his sister, Miss Esther Clark, head of the Latin department of Park State Normal school.

University of Omaha.

The University of Omaha has just closed its most prosperous year and preparations now are being made for the opening of the next semester September 10.

There were eighteen graduates this year, thirteen of whom received first class city state teachers' certificates. The enrollment for the year was 354.

A new building, Joslyn hall, a three-story brick structure, was added during the year. The new structure was made possible by the library of Omaha business men and women.

Headed Joslyn hall the university has a large, spacious, brick gymnasium building. The structure was named after John Jacobson, of Mrs. M. O. Maul, who contributed largely to its erection.

The splendid equipment enables the student to take up most any subject and either complete his course there or prepare for work at other schools.

Summer school starts Monday and will continue for a period of eight weeks. It is expected that at least 250 will enroll for the courses. Besides college work, courses are offered to fill the demand of high school and preparatory students. A new evening school has been made in the teaching staff to care for the expected large attendance.

Y. M. C. A. Summer School.

With a registration of fifty students Saturday noon, the Young Men's Christian association vacation school, which opens in the morning, expects no difficulty in enrolling 150 students before the term gets under way. Teachers from Central high school will be in the main have charge of the studies. E. E. McMillan, second vice principal at Central high school, will act as principal. He also will teach mathematics and science.

May Somers, dean of women at Central high school, will teach German; Susan Paxson, Latin; Jeannette McDonald and Kathleen, French.

High School students will be allowed two credits at the close of the term, provided they pass the examinations. It is desired that students who are contemplating to enroll, sign up at once so that they may not be delayed in starting their work.

Hastings College.

Commencement exercises were held in the Presbyterian church, Dr. E. A. Steiner of the Chair of Applied Christianity of Grinnell college, delivered a powerful address on the subject "Nationalizing America." A better choice of speakers could not have been made on account of Dr. Steiner's peculiar knowledge of American and European conditions.

The members of the graduating class received the following degrees: Bachelor of Science - Dorothy Vincent Buck, Helen Keith, Lucille Keith, Glenn T. Kennedy, James L. Purdy and Fern L. Warren. Bachelor of Arts - Minnie M. Duchs, Helen J. Hallock, Victoria H. Jones, Ada Marie Keer, Bliss Schmitt, Mildred E. Van Every and Carl R. Kessler.

Mr. Purdy and Mr. Kessler received their degrees "in absentia." They are members of the United States coast artillery and are now stationed in Hawaii. Miss Ada Keer and Miss Helen Hallock received "cum laude" honors.

The Currents' literary prize was won by Miss Esther Schmitt, '15; second, Miss Margery Lively, '15.

The temperance prize, home contest, was won by Miss Inella Bowen, '15, and second, Elwood Murray, '15. Miss Bowen also won first place in the state contest with a paper on "The Temperance Movement." It was won by Miss Frances Wilson, '15.

Forensic '15 was awarded to L. Wendell Taylor, Albert Thomsen, Luther Stein, Lee Middleton for debate, and to Miss Della Bowen for oratory. Glenn T. Kennedy and George Bowen participated in forensic work, but had won their first prize.

Hammill College.

In 1912 Hammill college was started in Council Bluffs, Iowa, on West Broadway with one pupil. Today it occupies a large floor space in the True building, Eighth street and Broadway and enrolls hundreds of students each year.

These young people come not only from Council Bluffs, but from Iowa, Nebraska and as far distant as Illinois. Many come from Omaha each day to take advantage of the excellent training given there.

There are many special features at this school that attract young people. The president of the college, W. J. Hammill, never employs salaried teachers. The results in the better quality of students enrolling. The instruction is entirely individual; this results in thorough personal training. The DeMeritte Military School.

The DeMeritte Military school, conducted by Edwin De Meritte, A. B., Jackson Springs, N. C. is an open air school for boys. This institution is particularly well qualified to develop boys from 10 years of age up into clean, manly men. Boys who have been fortunate to secure their preparatory work at this school have been well grounded in the fundamentals of all subjects necessary for the successful prosecution of their studies in the high institutions of learning in the country. The mental development of these men of tomorrow is thorough in every detail, but equally important is the care and attention given their physical requirements. The military character of the school gives the public plenty of drilling and outside exercise. The drilling is mild, yet complete.

Located about 100 feet above sea level, in the sand hills of North Carolina, where the winters are mild and the summers never excessively hot, it is possible to continue the outdoor work of the boys the year around. Golf, tennis, tennis courts, rifle ranges, swimming pools and a small lake for canoeing and boating are some of the features the boys have access to at all times.

School Notes.

Miss Lucilla Allen has just closed her most successful year of violin teaching. She will remain in the city until the list of August and will accept pupils wishing instruction on the violin, mandolin or guitar until that time.

Academy of Visitation.

The Academy of the Visitation at St. Louis, Mo., commences its eighty-fourth year with the opening of the school term next fall. Its long life tells better of its success and usefulness than anything that may be said of this institution. The academy is conducted by the Order of the Sisters of the Visitation.

Nebraska Business College.

The casual observer little realizes the serious problem that has confronted the employer of "commercial help" during the last several months. Not only is desirable help scarce and sometimes even impossible to obtain, but salaries are in many instances nearly double what they were twenty-four months ago.

The liability of being called to the colors, through the selective draft or otherwise, has had a decided influence on male enrollments in the school. This is amply illustrated by the June, 1917, enrollment at Nebraska Business college which, while far above the normal June enrollment, was marked by a very small percentage of boys, 90 per cent of those seeking admission to the school being of the gentler sex.

Already the enrollment in this bustling school exceeds that of a year ago, and the managers are busy putting their house in order, installing the latest and most approved equipment, adding to the faculty and otherwise preparing for a record-breaking attendance when the autumn term opens, September 2.
