

RED CROSS TEAMS ARE ALL HUSTLING

All Omaha to Be Given an Opportunity to Help the Local Red Cross Fund.

Only one Red Cross slacker was discovered by the soliciting teams, according to the report given at the luncheon of the committee this noon in the Fontenelle ball room.

Owing to a confusion of reports of the amounts pledged, the figures are misleading and will not be made known until Wednesday.

Members of teams complained that the subscription cards were not distributed equally and according to the financial standing of the business firms. Chairman Wattles announced that because of this there would be no competition between the teams, and that it was unnecessary in a big humanitarian campaign of this kind.

The United States government demands a uniform accounting system and all pledges must be in writing. As a number of captains did not know this and included in their reports money which was donated verbally, the accounts will be audited and reported tomorrow.

Teams Are Hustling.

The ten hustling Red Cross teams are waking Omaha citizens up to the fact that one of the greatest battles of the "liberty" war is being fought in the United States this week, and that Omaha must do all in its power to make it a decisive one.

Everywhere the soliciting committee and ten captains are met with the spirit that the Red Cross must be arrayed with funds and resources without limitation, and sufficient to discourage the war lords of Europe. The feeling of the public in general may be shown by quoting one remark made by a business man when the team entered his office. He had a check for $500 made out to the Red Cross and said, "If you need more come back and get another one just like it."

Challenge to Gotham.

Chairman Wattles received a wire from Seward Prosser, chairman of the executive committee, to the effect that Washington challenged New York City to raise more money than all the other cities in the United States combined. The challenge was accepted. In reply to a wire concerning Omaha's activities, Mr. Wattles replied that the city was well started and had raised $110,000.

A wire was sent to the presidents of the Union Pacific, Northwestern, Illinois Central, Milwaukee, Great Western, Wabash, Missouri Pacific and Rock Island railroads as well as to Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Cudahy Packing company, Morris & Co. and the American Smelting and Refining company soliciting a portion of their Red Cross war fund. If these great corporations comply Omaha's fund will be vastly increased.

Mr. Wattles addressed a meeting of the members of the Grain exchange at 11 o'clock to explain the Red Cross drive and ask for subscriptions. Later he met with the street railroad board of directors to determine the subscription of the company. He conferred also with the Nebraska Telephone company officials for the same purpose.

South Side Boy Scouts will meet this evening at the Young Men's Christian association hall at 8 o'clock sharp. Scout Executive English announced that matters of great importance will come before the meeting and a full attendance is desired. Two or three short talks will be given and two surprises are promised.

Twenty-seven insurance solicitors were volunteered by the Metropolitan Life insurance company to assist in the Red Cross campaign. Richard L. Metcalf, publisher of the Omaha Nebraskan, gave one full page of advertising for the Red Cross. Robert Cowell, captain of team No. 7, has resigned his position because of his duties on the State Board of Arbitration. David Cole filled the vacancy.

Cash Wheat Takes Tumble Of Twenty Cents in Omaha

The decline in cash wheat prices yesterday was as sensational as the advance of several weeks ago. This cereal dropped 20 cents a bushel from the high mark of Monday, selling at $2.48@2.61. Receipts were fourteen carloads.

The wheat market was quiet. Holders were not inclined to let go at the prices offered. The decline is due to two causes, it is said. Reports from the south indicates a bumper wheat crop in Oklahoma, southern Kansas and in the irrigated district. It also is said that the possibility of the government exercising control over the food supplies of the country, is having a bearish effect on the market.

Corn receipts were fair, seventy-three carloads. Prices were 3/4@1/2 of a cent off, the cereal selling at $1.64@1.65 a bushel. There were eighteen carloads of oats on the market, but no sales were made.

Omaha War News

Lifting a derailed street car back onto the track is the feat attributed to Company A of the Fourth regiment, Nebraska National Guard. The company was returning to camp from the Ells parade Sunday in a chartered car when the car just ahead of theirs was derailed near Sixteenth and Locust streets. The impatient to wait till the street car company's wrecking crew arrived, the sixty-four hearty fellows shouldered together and placed the car back on the track.

Another member of the guard has not injured by being run over. Sergeant Tobey of Company A, Fourth regiment, was crossing behind a street car at Twenty-fourth and Locust streets Monday night when the car backed up to switch. He was knocked down and the toes of his right foot were cut off.

Ed Lucas, the guardman who was injured, had his remaining foot amputated Monday. Reports at guard headquarters have it that he is doing well under the conditions as can be expected.

Strange happenings are bothering navy recruiting officials somewhat. The first man at the station Monday morning found a bullet hole in one of the big bay windows facing Sixteenth street and a hole in the ceiling. No trace could be found of the bullet, however. One of the men passing down Sixteenth street one evening last week noticed a light in the recruiting station and someone moving about there. He went upstairs at once, but found no light nor anyone around. He asked the janitor and other people who might have been around there, but found no one had been there to their knowledge. Sergeant John Rayley makes a diligent search every morning since then for internal machines, spies and other effects of these people.

Emmett Chapman will be appointed chief petty officer on his arrival at the receiving ship Philadelphia.

Alexander Deas of Florence, Neb., has been appointed boum's mate, first class. His brother Joseph enlisted in the navy last week and another brother, Frank, is now in the army.

Frederick Heiser, a young violinist of note in Sioux City, has enlisted in the navy as a musician. He is now at the training station at Norfolk, Va.

Men with the qualification of machinists are being enlisted at the Fort Omaha ballroom school. It is desired to secure about fifty men with the qualifications of lathe and drill press operators, some of them to be used in the permanent school detachment and others to send out with the field balloon companies.

Monday's activities in army circles brought the number of accepted recruits up to 4,184 for the districts of Omaha. This leaves a balance of 624. For the city of Omaha 275 are now needed to fill the quota of 744.

Walter L. Racey, captain of the Bellevue football team for the last season, has enlisted in the navy as an apprentice seaman.

YE EDITOR GIVES AN AIR OF WISDOM

City Takes On New Atmosphere When Pencil Pushers from the State Appear Here.

By A. R. GROH.

The editors are here this week, people. That is what lends this atmosphere of extraordinary wisdom to our fair city. From all over Nebraska and neighboring states they have come for their annual meeting.

The lawyer addresses his jury, the preacher his congregation, but the editor addresses his thousands or his millions every day.

The "power of the press" is no mere pleasant alliteration. Napoleon said, "Four hostile newspapers are to be feared than a thousand bayonets."

"The press," said Holmes, "is the exclusive literature of the masses. To the millions it is literature, church and college."

There are more than 600 newspapers in Nebraska. Think of the tremendous power of these papers. No other profession even approaches the editorial in the power that it wields. The American press is the free press of a free people. For only where the press is free are the people free.

At this present time there is in this country an editor who, next to Lloyd George is England's most powerful man. Lord Northcliffe is editor and owner of the London Times, the world's greatest newspaper. It began to be a great paper in the days of Napoleon. Even in those days it built up a news service so proficient that it printed the news of Nelson's victory at Trafalgar before the British government had its official report. It "scooped" the government again on the news of Wellington's victory at Waterloo. Of course, this was long before the days of the telegraph.

A hundred years ago the Times had 5,000 circulation and sold at 14 cents a copy. Even as early as 1861 it printed 105 columns of advertising in a single issue.

The editors of the Times have been the intimate friends of premiers and kings. They have wielded greater powers than England's cabinet members.

The editors of papers in this country are the intimate friends of senators, congressmen and governors. Into the editorial sanctum comes the popular political idol and, laying aside his platform manner, he humbly seeks the support of the quiet man without whom he knows he is powerless.

In the editorial sanctum the great man is just himself. For editors have a gift of seeing through any artificial personal veneer. Newspapers can make and break statesmen. Suppose all the papers would ignore some candidate for office, how far do you think that candidate would get?

Eyes in Every Scene. The London Times' news-gathering facilities are older but not greater than those of the Associated Press in this country. The Associated Press has eyes and ears in every scene of human activity. So many and so perfect are these eyes and ears that you read this evening of the things that happened in the uttermost parts of the world this morning and early afternoon.

Editors and former editors sit in the cabinets of several of the earth's greatest nations. An editor and an ex-editor are in President Wilson's cabinet. The lieutenant-governor of Nebraska, one of our United States senators and one congressman are editors.

When the peace conference in the great war comes, it is admitted that Lord Northcliffe and the Times will have more influence than any other individual or institution. You see, you should take off your hat when you meet an editor.

Campfire Girls Assemble At Y. M. C. A. Summer Camp

Under the leadership of Miss Nelle Ryan and Miss Helen Laurance, fifty Campfire girls clad in their "minute girl" uniforms started a ten-day outing at the new Young Women's Christian association summer camp Monday. Miss Clara M. Brewster is camp hostess.

Formal opening of the camp will be observed Saturday, when the public is invited. Sunday Miss Eta Pickering, head secretary of the Young Women's Christian association, will preside at the first vesper service to be held at the camp.

Omaha Couple Goes to Kansas City for Wedding Ceremony

Miss Vivienne A. Klein, daughter of Mrs. Sam Sonnenberg, and John C. Trumbull, 1314 South Twenty-fifth avenue, were married Saturday at Kansas City.
