SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN NEBRASKA GAIN DURING THE YEAR

(Continued From Page One.) attended ninety-four county conventions during the year, eight district and ten special meetings. He traveled 6,256 miles doing Sunday school work and delivered 444 addresses.

Three Necessary Requisites. Owing to the reports taking so much of the time of the afternoon, the addresses were cut short. Marion Lawrence, Chicago, spoke on "Organization, Efficiency and Preparedness," contending that these three things are the necessary requisites in the conduct of successful business and that the application is equally as necessary in church and Sunday school work.

Mrs. Maud Junkin Baldwin spoke on "Emperance Education in the Sunday School," expressing the opinion that if temperance is taught in these schools and impressions made upon the young minds, there will be little danger of the boys going wrong later in life.

Ralph N. McEntire speaking to the topic, "Why Eight Boys Left Sunday School," blamed the fact to the Sunday schools not having been made interesting.

Immediately following adjournment of the general session of the convention, members of the Teachers' Training Alumni association, to the number of fifty, gathered at the Hotel Castle, where they sat at their annual banquet. There they were addressed by Rev. W. E. Rafferty of Philadelphia.

At the early meeting Mrs. Margaret Ellen Brown presided. Richardson, Brown, Gosper, Oteo, Nemaha and Pawnee counties were awarded banners in the cradle roll contest. In these four counties there is not a Sunday school that does not have a cradle roll class. The banners are of green and white, representing growth and purity, respectively.

Mrs. Maud Junkin Baldwin, Chicago, spoke on the "Church and the Home Working," using charts in her illustrations. Mrs. E. H. Tipton explained the methods employed in teaching, and "Warner, Lincoln, cnducted the cradle roll memorial service, illustrating the importance of holding funeral services without frightening children who attend them.

Free Course in War Time Food Problems

Miss Ione Duffy of the Vant Sant school will do her bit for Uncle Sam by offering a course in war time food problems to Omaha housewives and heads of public institutions free of charge. Miss Irma Gross, domestic science instructor at the Central High school and home economic contributor to The Bee, will give ninety-minute lectures to the classes which will meet twice a week at the Van Vant school.

One course will be given on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 to 12 a. m. and the other on Wednesdays and Fridays from 10:30 to 12.

The school was first planned as a five-day course with a tuition fee of 25 cents a lecture. "Owing to the fact that there were no other agencies in the city during the summer for the scientific study of food values, and the immediate need of co-operation with Herbert Hoover's food conservation campaign, I felt patriotic to eliminate some people who might not come," said Miss Duffy. "I only ask that those who attend will be willing to impart their knowledge to others," she added.

All reservations must be made by Saturday of this week at the Van Sant school, 220 Omaha National Bank building, or by telephoning Douglas 5890.

Pageant Scenes Are Taken From Bible

A pageant of religious education, depicting the whole history of religious teaching from the time of the patriarchs through all the series of graded work to the present day, will be given at the Auditorium Thursday evening as one of the features of the state Sunday school convention.

Dramatic scenes, taken from the old and new testaments, will be presented. One of the scenes will be "Ezra Teaching at the Water-Gate." The Woman's Christian Temperance union will present a scene in which boys and girls, dressed in white, will be grouped about Joan of Arc mounted on a white horse.

In the picture are shown three of the characters, Queen Bernice Festus and Agrippa, in the scene called "Paul's Triumph."

Another scene of especial significance is "Opportunities for Service," in which a Christian youth in Sir Galahad costume and a Christian maiden appear in tableau with all lines of business and the professions grouped about them.

There is a beautiful drill of eighteen young ladies, symbolizing spirit, mind and body, representing the parents' department. While the drill is in progress the parents enter with little children scattering flowers before them.

This is one of the most comprehensive pageants ever written. The characters of the Old Testament scenes give a vivid understanding of the cussedness in costumes of the Orient toms and life of our forefathers.

Dr. A. H. Hippie, dean of the Creighton dental college, has been appointed preliminary dental examiner of applicants to the dental reserve corps, United States army. The dental corps is part of the medical department of the army, there being one dental surgeon for each 1,000 enlisted men. Dental surgeons have the rank of first lieutenant. Red Cross Activities

The Little Women's club, composed of little girls living in Dundee, gave $15.15 to the Red Cross hospital supply department at the army building, where the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Daughters of 1812 work. The amount represents the proceeds of an entertainment given by the club members. Saturday the club will have a candy booth at Thompson-Belden's, where they will sell candy of their own make for the benefit of the Red Cross supply department. Miss Greta Leslie is president of the club, Miss Dorothy Jones vice president and Miss Harriet Binder treasurer. The other members are the Misses Marjorie Pancoast, Frances Wilson and Jeanne and Bess Trumble.

Need Experienced Men—Special inducement is offered by the Omaha ambulance company to men who have had experience as sergeants in hospital corps of the army or who have had experience as sergeants in the regular army. The company needs at once a first sergeant, a quartermaster sergeant and a commissary sergeant.

Mrs. McCague Heads Auxiliary—Mrs. John L. McCague is chairman of a new Red Cross auxiliary composed of fifteen women from the United Presbyterian church. They will meet June 27 to organize.

EDITORS GUESTS IN AN AUTO RIDE

Are Taken to Bellevue and Fort Crook, With Luncheon at the Live Stock Exchange.

A caravan of automobiles this morning carried 104 editors of Nebraska, Iowa and parts of South Dakota through the streets of Omaha and over the high drive to Bellevue and Fort Crook. Many of the editors had their wives and daughters with them, so that the entire auto party made a chain of some thirty or forty automobiles.

This was part of Omaha's entertainment of the delegates now attending the social meeting of the Nebraska Press association in Omaha. The high line drive to Bellevue and Fort Crook was chosen because of its scenic features, as the drive winds along the ridge of the bluffs on the west side of the Missouri river for some fifteen miles and affords some sweeping views of the river and the distant bluffs in Iowa. Besides it leads to Fort Crook, where many thousands of troops in training are now stationed.

The Union Stock Yards company and the live stock commission men were hosts at noon, when the editors were entertained at the Live Stock Exchange building for luncheon.

A short session for unfinished business is to be held in the afternoon and a theater party is planned for those who will remain this evening.
