More Precincts Are to Be Added So Women Can Vote

Election Commissioner Moorhead submitted to the city commissioners a tentative plan for redistricting Greater Omaha into twelve wards. Mr. Moorhead's proposal is to have the wards divided by main thoroughfares, which would eliminate, for instance, the present division of some wards by Dodge street. It is proposed to have the Third ward bounded by Charles and Dodge streets, from the river to Thirteenth street.
The new ward division is necessary on account of the recent annexation of Benson and Florence.
On account of women voting at the next election it will be necessary to add thirty-five voting precincts. There are now 106 precincts. The law requires that voting precincts shall be created on the basis of the voting population, or one voting place for each 300 voters.

Sergeant Burnside Will Drill Ambulance Company

Sergeant Burnside, United States army, has been obtained as drill master of the Omaha Ambulance company, the personnel of which will be announced in the middle of next week. Applications have been made by eighty-five men in the last two days, most of whom live in Omaha and are of unusually fine caliber," said Dr. Charles Hull, chairman of the ambulance committee.
"Arrangements now are being made to secure the Red Cross ambulances, all of which will be Ford's, so if they are up on the battlefield or a muddy road in France they can be turned right side up by the help of a few men," he added.
They are not expected to arrive for five weeks.
The committee is seeking a training field, which it hopes to have by next week.

She said she was bringing it for her personal use.

E. Luras, the 15-year-old guard, who has had both feet cut off on account of an accident sustained while crossing the railroad tracks last week, is reported to be rapidly improving.

Thursday's activities at the army recruiting station brought the total number of enlistments up to 1,517, leaving 563 to be recruited in this district before June 30. At this rate, the daily average must be at least fifty-six. When it was decided to attempt to collect enough for the full quota before June 30, it was estimated that the daily average would be fifty-five. From the city of Omaha itself 354 men are needed in order to fill the city's quota of 744.

Herman Rosall, assistant chemist at the gas plant, 1111 Broadway street, has enlisted in the Sixth Nebraska National guards, the new regiment which is being raised.

Printer's "Devil" on The Bee Now One of Uncle Sam's Fighting Tars

From printer's devil to a bluejacket has proven such a transformation to George Shaw that he has written his brother, Earl Shaw, 4708 North Twenty-ninth street, that he "wouldn't change back to his old life for the world."

GEORGE SHAW.

"We have so many good things to eat we can't hardly wait from one mess call to another. They treat us fine. We drill hard, but that's all forgotten when we take a plunge in the evening and listen to a band concert."

George Shaw enlisted as an apprentice seaman at the Omaha navy recruiting station May 7 and was sent to Newport News training station May 28. With him went William Conkling, 3036 Meredith avenue, a boyhood chum.
The former "printer's devil" had a hankering to join the navy since he was 15 years old. His brother refused to give his consent until recently, when the lad became insistent. His parents have been dead for a number of years. He is 19 years old. Before enlisting George Shaw was employed in the composing room of The Omaha Bee.

Harry Palmer Has an Appendicitis Operation

Harry Palmer, young Omaha attorney, was operated on for appendicitis at Immanuel hospital Wednesday. He is reported to be getting along satisfactorily. Owing to his illness the regular meeting of the Noonday club, of which he is a prominent member, was omitted Thursday.

WHIPPERMAN LAID UP BY SPIDER BITE

Cement Man Halted in His Work of Recruiting Company for the Sixth Nebraska.

A bite on the ankle by a black spider June 9 has disabled Frank Whipperman, president of the Omaha Concrete Stone company and president of the Mid-West Cement Users' association, so that he has been unable to be at his plant for a number of days. He is still confined to his home, with his ankle and leg badly swollen, and within the last few days the swelling has moved into the arms, so that his arms and hands are swollen to double their normal size. Mr. Whipperman's physician says he is making some headway, however, and that he will probably make a steady recovery now.
Mr. Whipperman did not know when he was bitten. He noticed a growing pain in the ankle after he had been mowing the lawn. When this grew so severe that it was very annoying he consulted the doctor.
"There is a hole here where something bit you," said the doctor. "Have you been bitten by a black spider?" Whipperman did not know that he had. The doctor told him there is a large black spider with two red spots on it, which is about the only spider really poisonous in this section.
The next day one of Whipperman's sons killed two black spiders as big as the end of a man's thumb. Each had two red spots on it. They had gained entrance to the house some way, and Mr. Whipperman believes they came in with the bedding and mattresses which had been put on the grass for an airing during the recent housecleaning activities at the Whipperman home.
Mr. Whipperman, who is a Spanish war veteran, was organizing a company for the Sixth Nebraska regiment of infantry. His present misfortune has greatly delayed his activities in this line, as he has been unable to hustle for more recruits. Instead of hustling recruits he is compelled to spend whole days in the doctor's office swathed in hot packs to eliminate the poison from his system.
