

Society Notes

June 22

Society Watches Boy Scouts.

Omaha is touched to the heart by the activity of its young Boy Scouts in patriotic affairs. Almost every home among society people has at least one young man clad in khaki who is interested in studying work and mothers tell with pride, "My Willie took over twenty subscriptions in one day."

Some one remarked that the old-fashioned boy who broke windows, ate "all day suckers" and kicked the family cat is gone forever. The boys of today are helping their country and working and drilling like men.

The Boy Scouts of France are said to be "perfect wonders." They are seen in the mornings in great numbers in the Bois in Paris, little, black-eyed, curly-headed chaps, ranging from 7 to 10 years. Some of the older Scouts have even done service inside the battle lines.

A little boy in Chicago won the hearts of the workers at one of the base hospital units the other day. The women were working away at making bandages, studying for Red Cross exams and the like when a woman entered the rooms with her tiny son, not so tall as an ordinary baby. The mother inquired whether Red Cross memberships were for sale there and when told that they were, the youngster on tiptoe reached up to empty on the table a pocketful of pennies which he had earned by running errands, scrubbing steps, wiping dishes, sweeping walks, anything that would bring him Red Cross pennies. The women were so touched with his patriotism that they stood the little man on a table in their midst and gave three hearty feminine cheers for the little hero before he walked modestly away.

Birth Announcement.

A daughter, Marian Franklin, was born Thursday morning to Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wilsey of Idaho Falls, Idaho. Mrs. Wilsey was formerly Miss Mildred Funkhouser, daughter of the late Millard F. Funkhouser of this city.

Marriages of the Week.

The wedding of Miss Irene Cecelia Messersmith, daughter of Mrs. C. Messersmith, and Mr. Frank Agnew was solemnized Wednesday morning at St. Cecilia's church, the Rev. Father O'Sullivan officiating.

The bride, given away by her eldest brother, Mr. N. R. Richardson, was attired in white crepe de chine, trimmed in real lace and pearls. She wore a veil of white tulle and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a pearl brooch, gift of her niece.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Gertrude Messersmith, who was gowned in Nile green crepe de chine, draped with the same color georgette crepe. She wore a large picture hat of white satin and tulle and carried pink Killarney roses.

Mrs. J. S. Eaton, niece of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Marie Bennewitz. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Charles Agnew.

After July 1 Mr. and Mrs. Agnew will be at home to their friends at 4623 Isard street. A reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. N. R. Richardson, following the ceremony.

At the residence of Rev. E. L. Reese, Miss Lenora Sweeney was united in marriage with Mr. Alec Anderson Wednesday at noon. The bridal pair left immediately for Colorado and other points, after which they will be at home at 2611 North Twentieth street, this city.

Travel Into Inland China.

Word has been received by Mr. O. W. Eldridge from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Eldridge, who are spending the year in the Orient, that they will leave Yokohama June 18 for a journey which will undoubtedly be the most interesting, though hazardous one they have ever attempted on their many visits to the land of the heathen Chinese. The trip, which will be made almost entirely by water, will take them into a part of the interior country of China as yet unexplored. Only a few missionaries have ever had the courage to venture into that vast land of the unknown. From Nanking they will sail up the Yangtze-Kiang river to Chingtu and from there will travel far up into the snowy mountains. Mr. Eldridge's mission is to seek the makers of a peculiar kind of curtain, only one of which has been seen in this country.

At the Country Clubs.

Reservations for the Saturday night dinner-dance at the Country club have been made by L. F. Crofoot for twenty-two and by Mrs. James Love Paxton for twelve. Mrs. J. T. Stewart had five luncheon guests today.

dozens of artificial butterflies hovering over bouquets of peonies, begonias and geraniolas. Flags were placed on the plates of each little guest and flags were used with red, white and blue colors on the big birthday cake. Mrs. Doane Keller and Miss Frances Cleland assisted the hostess.

A color scheme of pink and white will be carried out in summer flowers. The other guests will be Misses Elizabeth Wright of Fairmount, Neb., and Dorothy Davies of Utica, who came the first of the week to attend Miss Alice Rushton's wedding; Mrs. E. Taylor and daughter, Helen, of Columbus, O., who are visiting Mrs. Taylor's daughter; Mrs. George Howard Rushton, who, with Mr. Rushton and Mr. Lyell Rushton completed the party.

The young people were married in Lincoln, where they both attended the state university. They started overland by automobile and were followed by the party of friends for whom they gave the dinner. They will make the entire trip in their car.

J., which took place last night, was a luncheon Tuesday at the home of Miss Dorothy Record, followed by a bridge given by Mrs. Jesse Gilbert Burton of New Orleans. Children of Creche Enjoy Third Annual Picnic Party

Quarts of lemonade and gallons of ice cream with other picnic goodies gladdened the hearts of the children at the Creche on the third annual picnic given them by the Omaha North Side and Dundee circles of the Child Conservation league at Hanscom park Thursday. Thirty-two children and their attendants attended the picnic, which lasted from 10 in the morning until after supper. After the picnic dinner the children were given small American flags and, standing around the table, they waved their flags and sang America.

Enter the Fall Fashions

NO, we haven't had a chance to wear our new organdie yet, but clever designers have already planned our winter wardrobes. What woman would fail to look charming in this "wonder suit" of green velours de laine, quaintly collared in youthifying gray squirrel? The stitching of green brings a curve or two to the garment, whose smartness lies partly in its sweep of straight line. The Eton jacket effect, which the coat produces, is echoed in the little bell-top upper sleeves. The squirrel reappears at the bottom of the coat and from under it hangs a tight-hemmed plain skirt. One of the features worth noting is the flowered satin lining, beyond which there is a superlining of green chiffon. The little feather hat of soft beige produces the effect of a nesting bird.

Advice to Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

Neither of you is Acting Honorably. Dear Miss Fairfax: I have been going about with a young man for over a year, and I think a great deal of him. Another apparently respectable man, divorced and engaged to marry another girl, takes me out frequently in his auto, unknown to his betrothed. He has not told me and does not know that I am aware of his former marriage but he insists that it is perfectly proper for me to go out with him because I am not engaged as yet, even though I expect to be soon. Do you think it proper for me to go out with him and do you think his attentions honorable? ANXIOUS.

The man's previous marriage has nothing to do with the case. Eliminate it, and it remains dishonorable for you to go on secret rides with the future of another girl. Even were you not ready to announce your engagement, it would be wrong of you—as well as of the man—to go off for these clandestine auto rides. But I cannot understand how a girl who claims to be in love with another man can so conduct herself.

Where To Wear Rings. Dear Miss Fairfax: Please tell me on what finger and on what hand the engagement ring should be worn and on what one the wedding ring should be worn. BROWN EYES.

The engagement ring and the wedding ring are both worn on the same finger, the third finger of the left hand.

Railroad Uses Girls to Draft Building Plans

Chicago, June 22.—Fourteen girls have been employed in the drafting roll room of the construction department of the Atchafalaya, Lyneka & Santa Fe railroad to take the place of men, as a war measure.

Reports on their work today by officials of the company were favorable, and E. S. Rice, assistant engineer of the construction department, who is responsible for the innovation, stated that if their work continues at its present rate the road will employ fifty more girls in the same capacity. Then work is in connection with the making of plans for stations, town sites and similar working drawings.
