

MORE MEN RETURN TO THEIR LABORS

Carpenters and Bricklayers Are Back at Work and More Teams Are Hauling Material.

Carpenters and bricklayers to some extent began working yesterday on a few of the building jobs in Omaha, but the building activities have not yet opened generally. The Reed injunctions which require the employers and employees to pursue the normal course of business as it was before the building trades strike, have not thus far effected a settlement of the strike.

Because the injunctions prevent interference with nonunion workers by the union strikers, nonunion men have been enabled to go to work in many places and it is this largely that is making possible the resumption of activities. Teamsters who have gone to work in the material yards are largely nonunion teamsters. Striking electrical workers are still holding out for their increase. Sheet metal workers are not going back to work at the old scale, and the mill workers are holding out for their 35 cents per hour wherever there is any negotiation with the employers.

Speculate On Outcome.

Much speculation is on as to whether the injunction procedures are going to be successful in stopping the strike troubles in Omaha, since the injunction is only one of the many methods that have been tried within the last few weeks.

When the State Council of Defense was created some weeks ago, a committee on labor was appointed with T. P. Reynolds of Omaha at the head of it. Soon this committee decided to take up the strike situation in Omaha and investigate it in an effort to effect a settlement.

Then came a federal man, Mr. Olson, of the conciliation department of the federal Department of Labor. He investigated the situation for a week or ten days and then little more was heard of him.

Suddenly it was recalled that the state has a board of mediation and investigation, specially created to handle such difficult cases as this. The board was called into action by Governor Neville.

Both Sides Enjoined.

No sooner had the investigation by the board begun, than Attorney General Reed, ignoring the board's activities, attempted to settle the strike by enjoining both sides from doing anything but pursuing normal lines of business.

When the board undertook to go ahead with its investigation the attorney general enjoined the board from further proceedings.

Now comes the threat of some of the labor leaders to appeal directly to the federal Department of Labor to send representatives here to investigate the legality of the injunction, and make other full investigation of the strike situation.

Kennedy and Gompers in Tilt Over Draft Exemption

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Frank Kennedy, editor of the Western Laborer of Omaha, have been carrying on through correspondence and in the columns of the Western Laborer a little tilt regarding Gompers' proposal that labor union officials should be exempted from the first military draft.

Gompers has been quoted as having formally asked that married men, widowers with children under 14, and labor union officials, be exempted from the first draft.

Kennedy, in his paper, replied by objecting to labor asking for special privileges and then protesting against other classes getting special privileges.

Gompers has written Kennedy a long letter in explanation, saying it is not to avoid the performance of military service that he asks this exemption, but merely that men who are retained by their organizations to perform a bona fide service to labor organizations might be kept at home to continue this service which he holds to be essential to the welfare of labor and the country at large.

Kennedy replied "If labor can get away with the exemption claims for certain men, then the banks, railroads, and all commercial institutions have a perfect right to ask for the same privilege."

Too Many Moriaritys Here; Wants Name Changed to Morey

That there are too many Moriaritys living in Omaha is the contention of Dr. Pierre Colon Moriarity and wife, who have filed a petition in district court to change their name to just plain Morey.

In his petition Dr. Moriarity states that he and his wife have been annoyed for years by receiving other Moriarity mail and answering wrong Moriarity calls. They reside at the Hamilton apartments.

Dr. Moriarity has been a practicing physician in Omaha for more than twenty years.

Tours Nebraska Lines On First Inspection

General Superintendent Webb of the Nebraska and Kansas lines of the Missouri Pacific is out on his first tour of inspection since coming to the company, June 15, as successor to A. D'Benardi, who resigned to go to the Orient, as general manager.

Superintendent Webb reached town late last night and left early this morning for a tour over the Nebraska lines. His headquarters will be continued in Kansas City.

Corn Receipts for Omaha In June Break All Records

Corn receipts in Omaha for the first twenty-two days of June were 2,755 cars.

This is regarded as unusual for this season of the year, as farmers ordinarily are busy in the fields and do not ship grain. The above receipts are almost double the quantity received at other markets during the same period and are double the quantity received in this market during the same period a year ago.

Austrian Premier Fails To Form New Cabinet

Amsterdam, June 22.—Count Henry Clam-Martini, premier of the Austrian cabinet which recently resigned, has failed in his attempt to reconstruct the ministry, according to a dispatch from Vienna. The count has asked Emperor Charles to invite someone else to form a cabinet.

Tallest Private Was Formerly Captain in the Nebraska Guard

"The giant of the Fourth Nebraska National Guard."

That's what soldiers at Fort Crook call Leon H. Davis, six feet four inches tall, former National Guard captain, editor, school teacher and adventurer, who recently enlisted as a private in company D.

It wasn't because the good-natured giant could not have had a higher rank when he enlisted if he desired. It was rather because he wanted to be with the "dough boys" in the trenches where he could see first line fighting.

Private Davis did not have to enlist. He is 34 years old, but when he heard the battle call he dropped his newspaper work in a town in western Colorado and hurried to Omaha. He couldn't get into Albion company, of which he was commanding officer in 1913, so he told the recruiting officer to "stick me any place where I will do the most good."

Private Davis was editor of the Albion Argus in 1913. He sold the paper the later part of the year and went to Colorado to engage in similar work. Previous to coming to Albion he was a school teacher.

The tallest Nebraska guardsman enlisted in the Colorado Guard after making that state his home and served in the Colorado strike.

He has done considerable traveling, visiting a number of foreign countries.

Private Davis has won several medals as a crack shot. He has qualified as an expert rifleman.
