Mrs. Harry P. Deuel Buried With Simple And Private Service

The funeral of Mrs. Frelove J. Deuel Sunday afternoon was in keeping with the noble life of this pioneer Omaha woman. To those who have lived here many years and remember the Deuel family as members of the early residents, Mrs. Deuel's life stands out in beautiful relief. She was always ready to lend an assisting hand to a neighbor in time of need, and she accounted such service as in the line of duty, and it was for these high-minded qualities that she won friendships which were as long as life should last.

The services were held privately at the family residence, 1906 Dodge street, Rector T. J. Mackey of All Saints' church read the Episcopal service. There was no music. Many floral tokens bore silent evidence of the love and esteem in which Mrs. Deuel was held. The flowers were distributed to hospitals. The pallbearers were: J. D. Foster, J. Sharp, Victor Rosewater, John Guld, Frank B. Kennard and Andrew Rose.

Police Find Toilet Goods Stolen From Drug Firm

The arrest of Andy Bryant, 5616 North Twenty-fourth street, led to the recovery of a room full of toilet articles missing from the Goodrich Drug company. When questioned at the station Andy "passed the buck" to a woman, who he alleged had given him the spoil. The woman referred to was found at the county jail, where she has resided since last Friday. But she proved to be only a link in the chain of mischief. She referred Detectives Unger and Anderson to Charles K. Anderson, 522 North Thirty-second street, who is an A. D. T. watchman. The detectives brought him to the station at 9 o'clock last night, and since Anderson did not commit himself or anybody else of the charge the police booked him for investigation.

CORN REMEDY IS LADEN WITH GERMS

Woman's Foot Badly Swollen After Using It; Police Believe Omaha Center of Plot.

"There is no question in my mind an organized effort is being made to spread germs into the homes of Omaha," remarked Acting Captain of Detectives John Dunn, after seeing the effect of a bottle of corn remedy used by Sadie Smith.

The entire police force of Omaha is on the lookout for what is believed to be an organized plot to distribute deadly disease bacilli over the entire United States. From reports coming in it is believed that the perpetrators of the organized effort have their headquarters in this city.

Not only is court plaster being sold in the homes by itinerant peddlers, but reports are now coming in that corn remedies are being distributed in the homes. City physicians have a sample of the corn remedy sold which they are analyzing.

Sadie Smith, who is employed in the O'Brien Quick Lunch at 216 South Thirteenth street, called on police surgeons yesterday to have them examine her foot, upon which she had used corn remedy sold her. The foot was swollen until it was impossible for her to wear a shoe. They are unable to tell as yet the nature of the disease.

She describes the man who sold her the medicine as a man about 45 years old and five feet six inches tall, weighing 170 pounds. He was dark complexioned wearing a dark suit and straw hat. He was wearing goggles at the time.

Police officials are doing all in their power to locate the place from which these men operate and desire that any persons solicited to buy remedies of this nature, inform them at once in order that they may investigate.

Unidentified Man Falls Into The River and Is Drowned

Sunday afternoon an unidentified man rolled into the river at the foot of Jones street and was drowned before help could reach him. Dr. Shook and Officers Coffee and Bowen dragged the river with grappling hooks, but the current carried the body away.

E. C. Moore, special deputy sheriff at the Omaha Electric Light and Power company plant, said a man staggered down the street and lay down. He later took off his coat for a pillow. About 3:30 in the afternoon E. H. Pendley and James J. King, who were in their boat house heard the splash of a body in the water and looking out saw the man in the water and then disappear.

In the pocket of the man's coat, found on the bank, was a scrap of paper upon which was written the following signed by N. A. Mulford, Ashland: "Mr. Let this man have anything he wants. He is all right." In the pocket of the coat appeared the name, Chas. H. J. Anderson. The man wore a light blue suit and light soft hat. He was 30 to 35 years of age, light complexion, weighing about 165 pounds.

Youthful, Beautiful Skin Easy to Have

You may be as healthy as a bird in the air and still have a poor complexion. Changing seasons and temperatures, winds, dust and dirt, are apt to injure any skin, even though the general health be good. When these external influences spoil the complexion, nature's way is to remove the spoil by external means. Ordinary mercerized wash will do this. It will actually absorb the weather-soiled film-skin, a little each day. In a week or two you'll have a brand new complexion, a new skin, a new complexion, beautiful and youthful complexion thus acquired, comes so easily, without harm or discomfort, when no reason why any woman should not adopt this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercerized wash at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off morning. This will not fail in any case. To quickly remove wrinkles, signs of care and age, bathe the face occasionally in a solution of powdered azoxolin, one ounce, dissolved in a half pint of witch hazel. The result, which is instantaneous, will surprise you greatly. The ingredients are of course perfectly harmless.—Adv.

"Peter's Pence" to Be Taken Up Next Sunday Morning

"If every man on this earth were to read the bible and take his own interpretation from it, we would doubtless have as many religions as we have men," said Father D. P. Neligan in a sermon at St. Peter's Catholic church yesterday. "During His three years of public life, Christ did not explain all his doctrines, but when He left this earth He gave us someone to take His place; someone who could guide us infallibly toward the end for which we were created; He gave us the Pope of Rome," he added. The subject of his sermon was taken from the gospel for the day in which is described the miracle by which Christ filled the nets of the fishermen when an all-night attempt had brought them nothing.

Rev. Father J. F. McCarthy, pastor of St. Peter's announced the opening of a retreat for working girls and business women at the Sacred Heart academy, Thirty-sixth and Burt streets on Friday. The "Peter's Pence" collection will be taken up in all the Catholic churches next Sunday. "The burden of this collection will doubtless rest with the people of the United States," said Father Neligan. "We as yet, are not so deeply in the grip of war as are many of our European neighbors, and for that reason it is especially the part of Americans to give freely to the sustenance of the Pope."

Police Again Called On To Find Jimmy Sylvester

Jimmy, aged 6, son of Pete Sylvester, 1457 South Seventeenth street, an Italian in the employ of the city, has been missing from his home since yesterday morning. But Pete, who visited Central headquarters last night to request the aid of the police in finding his boy, exhibited more curiosity as to his whereabouts than anxiety over him. It's because Jimmy has contracted a bad case of the wanderlust in his brief existence, and goes on such excursions at stated intervals.

Pete told the police about his son, Jimmy, last night. "He no like my home, I guess. He go away one time before for two whole day and I no can find him. He come home then with himself and he so leetla boy, him no can say where he went. Two, three, four day, he come where I work for two-mile away, and his mother she no can find him till I take him home in my arm. I tell you what, I chaina him up like leetla pup nexa time he come back to me."

The police are looking for Jimmy, but his past puts off all suspicion of kidnapers, black-handers, and the like for the present.

Farmer With His Gun Takes Shot at Joseph Henderson

Army officers would do well to enlist a farmer living two miles west of Omaha, according to Joseph Henderson, who walked into the police station early Sunday morning in quest of a surgeon.

"I was walking to Fremont to get work on a farm and in order not to miss the road, started across to the railroad track," stated Henderson. "I had reached a farmer's barn when he opened fire on me with a shotgun, hitting me both times he shot." Henderson was taken to St. Joseph's hospital. He has been employed by the Fairbanks-Morse company and lived at the Salvation Army home. The shooting occurred about 3 o'clock Sunday morning after which he walked to the city. Shot were found in his knees and feet.

Big Auto Truck Plunges Over Bridge and Two Are Injured; Waiter Is Shot.

A three ton auto truck belonging to the Alamo Dairy company crashed through the railing on the Forty-fifth and Q Street viaduct, plunging thirty feet and landed upside down at the side of the Burlington tracks, Sunday morning, seriously injuring John Donovan, 13 years of age who was riding behind.

Harry Finnerty, 2618 Leavenworth street, was driving the truck, accompanied by Elwin Wright, a milk driver for the company. Three lads, Tony Hearty, Thirty-fifth and U, John Donovan, Thirty-ninth and S, and Tony Tenver, 3933 South Forty-third, were riding on the rear when the accident occurred.

The car was enroute to Ralston with a load of empty milk cans. When near the west end of the viaduct something went wrong with the steering gear, the car veered to the rail and tore out a whole section. All the passengers jumped but young Donovan, who was thrown clear of the wreck and fell into a weed patch. He sustained internal injuries and a fractured rib and was taken home by a passing auto. Dr. Beck gave him emergency attention and several physicians were called.

Funeral of Mrs. Pitloun.

Mrs. John Pitloun, who was killed by her husband Thursday night, was buried Sunday. Short services were held at Korisco's chapel, from there the funeral car was proceeded to the Bohemian hall by way of the Degree of Honor, carrying a large floral shield. At the half a hollow square was formed around the mourners and casket by the members of the lodge and the funeral services of the order observed, followed by an address by Otakar Charvat. It was a pathetic sight to see the motherless little sons, John and Joe weeping and calling "mama."

John Pitloun, the husband and father, was not at the funeral and has not expressed a desire to attend or see his wife since he was taken into custody.
