PERJURY CASE IS TAKEN FROM JURY

Federal Judge Woodrugh Stops Butler Hearing in Midst of Trial Friday Evening.

Federal Judge Woodrugh ordered the prosecution of Dr. F. A. Butler of Harvard, Neb., for perjury, dismissed in the midst of the trial in federal court late Friday evening. He stated that the government had failed to prove by corroborative evidence that Dr. Butler had committed perjury.

The action against Dr. Butler grew out of an attack of epilepsy before he secured a verdict for $68,500. Dr. Butler was a witness in that case and testified that Moore had had epileptic attacks in his presence long before the accident on the Union Pacific, which accident, Moore claimed, was responsible for his being subject to epilepsy.

Introduces Checks.

The prosecution in the perjury case introduced checks written by Moore in the afternoon of the day when Butler alleged he had seen him in a spasm. The writing on these checks was in a firm hand and expert testimony was introduced regarding the length of time after a man has suffered an attack of epilepsy before he is able to act normally again. Dr. Coulter stated that this time was from two to four hours.

Upon this evidence the court held that it was possible that Butler had seen Moore in a seizure and that, later in the same day, Moore might have written the checks exhibited in a firm hand. The court held that the government had failed to produce the corroborative testimony necessary to sustain the charge against Dr. Butler and ordered the jury to return a verdict in favor of the defendant.

Five others were indicted with Dr. Butler, and the next case to come up is that of J. B. Wohlfort. This will not be heard until the first week in December. Telegrams were sent to twenty-six additional jurymen who had been summoned for next Monday, telling them not to report.
