Mrs. E. G. Preston of London Tells of Part Taken in War by Aristocratic British Women.

Mrs. E. G. Preston of New York City and formerly of London, England, where she was president of the American circle of the Lyceum club, an international organization of 3,000 members, spoke at the Red Cross hospital supply department in the Baird building to 200 women. Mrs. O. C. Redick, chairman of the supply department introduced the speaker. Mrs. Preston urged Omaha women to sponsor a convalescent hospital in Paris which would house from forty to 100 patients. The English women, particularly those of the nobility, are devoting their lives to the establishment of these hospitals, for which all the large homes have been taken over by the government. Services Not in Vain.

"The Omaha society girls who are taking the first aid to the injured course need not think that their services are in vain. All the English society buds are acting in the capacity of V. A.
