"The Greatest Service to the Greatest Number"

That's the slogan of this store, and it's our constant aim to live religiously up to such a standard of service and be a real helpful benefit to the community.

The store that constantly refuses to listen to the requirements of its customers is running its business in the wrong way. The store that is forever studying the best way to serve is conducting the business for customers and is building permanently for the future.

Business is a pleasure when you please others, but it is a grind when you do not satisfy those who deal with you.

The farmer who leaves the end-board out of his wagon will have but little grain to sell when he reaches town.

The kind of storekeeping we are at is not a "one day's job"; it takes all the best brains and good health we can command each day throughout the year, to dig and to dig deeply and to dig broadly—that we may be the "greatest service to the greatest number."
