The ac-tual number of cattle on sale was compara-tively small and included very few desir-able beeves. Prices were quotably just about afsady with yesterday and the gen-eral market is anywhere from 15c to 25c higher than it was at the close of last week.

The same holds true as to cows and heifers. What few were here yesterday found ready sale at good strong prices and demand was much broader than it was last week. Veal calves, buils, stags, etc., are selling at prices steady to a shade stronger than a week are stronger than a week ago. Representative sales:
