Boy Killed as He Steals Ride On a Big Auto Truck

George Siegel, 15 years old, was run over and instantly killed by an auto truck at Sixteenth and Francis streets yesterday. He was on his way down town to see the circus parade, when he met George Pfeiffer, 1724 Dorcas street. The two boys decided to wait on the corner of Francis street for a "hop." An automobile truck of the Krittenbrink & Son Brick company, operated by Al Krittenbrink, swung into Sixteenth street at Dorcas, a block south. When it passed the two boys they attempted to "hook a ride." Pfeiffer succeeded, but Siegel was thrown under the wheels and killed. Siegel lives at 1928 South Eighteenth street. He is a son of E. Siegel, a grocer at 1724 Dorcas. Young Siegel was graduated from the Castelar Street school in June.

Child Falls from Second Floor Without Even Scratch

Omaha is certainly the place to take care of children. There is not a chance of a child being hurt here unless something more than a miracle should happen. Mrs. H. Goldman of New York City is in Omaha visiting with her sister, Mrs. A. Kaiman, 2211 Clark street. Her little daughter is with her. Sunday the family went upstairs and the baby was sitting in the window. Suddenly the screen gave way and the little girl plunged to the ground. The mother immediately ran down stairs and picked up the screaming child. Dr. Philip Sher was called but not even a scratch was found on the child's body. Less than two weeks ago a similar accident occurred when a child plunged three stories to the ground but upon examination not a bone was found broken.

CITY ADOPTS NEW RULES FOR POLICE

Commissioners Declare Police Are Not to Be Hampered in Their Work by Outside Influence.

The city council adopted a set of special rules prepared by Mayor Dahlman and Commissioners Jardine and Butler, for the guidance of the police department and being, as explained by the city attorney, "a culmination of the police investigation." An abstract of the special rules follows: Officers and members of the police department must take orders only from those empowered to give such orders; no outside influence will be permitted in police affairs and members of the department will be protected by the city council if they refuse to recognize outside influence; policemen must be diligent in enforcement of all laws and particular attention is directed to bootlegging, prostitution and gambling; officers must report to superiors all places where violations of law are believed to be practiced and also report names of persons suspected of violations; the chief of police will be held responsible for enforcement of laws and ordinances and he is assured of the support and backing of the city council in performance of his duty. Must be Civil. The fourth special rule reads: "Each member of the department in his conduct and deportment must be quiet, dignified and orderly. In the performance of his duty he must maintain decorum and attention, and command his temper. He must be patient and use discretion at all times. He must at all times refrain from harsh, violent, coarse, profane or insolent language, and at the same time, when required, act with firmness and sufficient energy to perform his duty." Policemen must refrain from unnecessary violence and officers in charge of the jail must permit prisoners to communicate with legal counsel or friends, for the purpose of obtaining bail, except in instances of nonresidents whose investigation must follow arrest to best serve the ends of justice. The resolution embodying the special rules contains a series of whereases referring to alleged bickering and jealousies in the departments, rumors of outside influence and a need to place the department upon an efficient working basis.

FURTHER HEARING BY THE MEDIATORS

Chairman Cowell Says Taking of Statements to Be Resumed in the Omaha Strike Matter.

"In my opinion the state board of mediation and investigation has the power to compel the employers to come before it and testify in the strike hearing," said Robert Cowell, chairman of the board. "But we have not done it, since the employers have taken the ground that they need not testify while the injunction against them and the laborers is in effect. "There is no opinion on record that warrants them in taking the ground that they need not testify in a case like this. They have only the advice of their attorney on the matter. If it were a violation of the injunction for them to testify, then it would be a violation of the injunction for the strikers to testify, yet they testified freely, and no trouble resulted." Tentatively the board had set Monday as the date for reopening the hearing at the city hall, but because a temporary restraining order has not yet been disposed of in the courts the meeting of the board has been postponed until Wednesday of this week. At that time, 10:30 in the morning, Chairman Cowell indicated, the hearing will be reopened whether the court has by that time finally ruled on the restraining order or not. The full report of the proceedings cannot be made to the governor until both sides are heard from. There are 1,500 pages of transcript in the testimony given by the strikers. Only a verbal report was made by the board to Governor Neville of this week. The Bee's Free Milk and Ice Fund

"This fearful heat!" we exclaim. But think of the helpless babies of the poor, panting for breath in the heat, without milk, without ice, hovering between life and death. The Bee's fund is supplying pure milk and cooling ice to dozens of these little ones. It is the only public means of caring for them. It means life to them during the extremely critical period of summer's heat. What better use could be made of a dollar than to buy ten quarts of pure milk for such babies? The visiting nurses administer the fund, so that not a cent is wasted. Bring or send any sum from 10 cents to $5 to The Bee office. You will gain a blessing from it, too. To Lengthen Hours at Central High School

Superintendent Beveridge of the public schools will recommend to the Board of Education an increase of the school day at Central High school, to begin with the opening in September. The proposed plan is to add one "hour" to the school day by beginning at 8:45 a. m. and "calling it a day" at 2:38 p. m. The superintendent believes that increased school study will yield results and decrease the number of slackers.

BLUFFS POLICE AFTER AUTOISTS

Arrest Every Automobilst that Even Looks Like He Wanted to Speed; Especially the Omahans.

"If a man desires to go to Council Bluffs by automobile, the proper way for him to do is to ship his car to the first station beyond the Bluffs, unload it and come through the town from the east. Otherwise, he is going to be arrested," said C. J. Lane, general freight agent of the Union Pacific, after paying a fine assessed up by the police judge of Council Bluffs and balancing his cash account. "Still, I suppose they need the money and that is why, over in Council Bluffs, they arrest every Omaha man they see driving an automobile. It is like this: "From the east end of the wagon bridge all the way up town the Bluffs authorities have been stationed, whose sole business seems to be to arrest Omaha automobilists. These officers are disguised as farmers, tramps, laborers and duds. Secreted in the high grass and in the bushes, they have motorcycles, Fords and all kind of contraptions. If they see a car pass east, regardless of the speed at which the machine is going, they start out on the driver and run him down. They work in relays and by the time an Omaha driver reaches Pearl street he is being trailed by all the way from six to a dozen of these officers. He is taken to police court and sworn into paying a fine, regardless of the speed at which he has been going."

During the last week, Mr. Lane has made two automobile trips to Council Bluffs. During this period he has been called before the police judge twice and each time he has paid a fine for speeding. Now he says he is through going to the Iowa town in an automobile.
