RACE AGAINST DEATH SAVES FARMER'S LIFE

Edward Oman, With Neck Dislocated, Suffers Paralysis; Wagon Wheel Passed Over His Body.

Gothenburg, Neb., Aug. 2.—(Special Telegram.)—Edward Oman, a farmer living near Arnold, forty miles north of here, a few days ago fell from his wagon, the wheels passing over his neck and shoulders.

Apparently his neck was broken. Part of his body was paralyzed. His head was twisted and immovable and his jaw set.

Members of the family wired to Dr. B. J. Palmer of Davenport, Ia., and to Dr. Lee W. Edwards of Omaha, who rushed here on the Overland Limited, then jumped into a high-powered automobile and rushed out to Arnold and took immediate charge of the patient.

When the doctors left Arnold Oman was much relieved, was able to turn his head from side to side freely, the blood had begun to circulate and natural feeling was returning to his arms and body.

The doctors told Oman that his neck was not broken, but that two of the vertebrae were subluxated. They expressed the opinion that he would recover. He will be brought here and placed in care of Dr. Slingsluff.

Oman is a prominent citizen and his friends are rejoiced at the success of the race against death.

U. S. TO ENFORCE THE NEW BONE DRY LAW

Several Arrests Made Where Omahans Have Brought Liquor Into State from St. Joseph.

Federal officers here are preparing to prosecute to the limit violators of the Reed amendment, the new "bone dry" booze law which is now in effect. The law makes it illegal to bring or ship alcoholic liquor into the state. It cannot be brought in for one's own use or for some other person's use. It can't be shipped in as baggage or by freight or by express. It can't be given away or sold or disposed of in any other fashion.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gard, Forty-second and Grand avenue, are in the hands of the federal authorities charged with bringing liquor here from St. Joseph. Warrants are out for three other Omahans, whose names are not given out because they have not yet been apprehended by the United States deputy marshals.

"We shall prosecute all such violations, whether the persons are prosecuted by the state or not," said Assistant United States Attorney Saxton. "The same set of facts may constitute a violation of the state law which forbids having liquor in possession and a violation of the Reed amendment which forbids bringing or shipping it into the state."

Several heavy suit cases full of whisky, brandy, etc., are in the hands of the federal prosecutors to be used as evidence in the cases.
