Jackies Are Learning to Save Hard-Earned Money Great Lakes, Ill., Aug. 3.—The phrase, "spends his money like a sailor," is fast becoming obsolete, for the modern bluejacket generally comes out of the service with rounder bank account than that of his civilian brother. With the recent in-crease of pay in the navy, savings in the ships' banks have increased enormously. The gospel of saving is preached continuously in the navy and with effect. At the Great Lakes Naval Training station, where 12,000 jackies are in training, representing the lowest rank and correspondingly the smallest paid body of men in the navy, nearly $25,-000 has been deposited. The amount is not surprisingly large, but considering that the average jackie has been at the station for only a little more than a month, it shows that they have caught the spirit. Civilian banks adjacent to the training station also carry considerable savings accounts for the jackies.

TERM "WAR USES" HOLDS UP TRADE

Soon as Export Council Comes to Understanding With Japan, Steel Will Be Exported.

Washington, Aug. 3.-Just as soon is the export council can come to an understanding with the Japanese government as to the meaning of the term "war uses," as applied to shipping, the quantity of American structural steel which may be exported to Japan for the purpose of building ships will be fixed.

The Japanese government, it may be authoritatively stated, has a thorough understanding of the purposes of the export council in regulating the distribution of American steel among the allied and neutral countries. It of American shipbuilders are so great that absolutely no steel can be spared or "war purposes."

Japan Willing to Help.

Recognizing the legality of this po-Sition on the part of the United States the Japanese government for its part is quite willing that a large portion of its mercantile shipping shall be utilized by the United States or the entente allies to meet the necessity created by the German submarine warfare.

The export council appears inclined to regard Japanese shipping made available for the transportation not only of munitions of war, but of foodstuffs and other things essential to the support of the allied peoples as being engaged in "war uses" as much as warships.

Under this construction the Japanese shipbuilders can continue to re-ceive American steel, but there must be a clear understanding as to the use to which the tonnage is to be applied and the freight rates to be charged therefor.
