Nebraska State Exhibitors Meet at Grand Island

The Nebraska State branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' of America will hold a second annual meeting Tuesday, August 7, at the Liederkranz theater in Grand Island. Every exhibitor in the state is urgently requested to be present, whether a member of this organization or not. Several important matters are to be taken up-matters that mean money to the exhibitor.

H. M. Thomas of the Strand theater of Omaha and president of the association says: "I don't see how some exhibitors in the state can say that this association is a Lincoln-Omaha The biggest man in the business in Nebraska has no more to say than the smallest. It's certain that a few exhibitors can't bear the whole burden, but if we will all get together we can accomplish wonders,

"Look what Nebraska did at the Chicago convention. Colonel F. D. Eager of Lincoln was without a doubt the man of the hour and no doubt could have been elected president of the association if he had so desired, as any of the trade papers will verify. Then honor was given Nebraska in the appointing of one man on the executive board and one man as the third vice president. I'll tell you that Nebraska has the stuff in her to do things if all will co-operate."

A detailed report of the Chicago convention will be read by the delegates. It is expected that this convention will be the biggest yet held in Nebraska.

ARIE WALCAMP is soon to be seen by movie fans in a new serial called "The Red Ace." It is being released by the Universal Film company and from all advance reports will surpass by far any serial that has been released by this company. Miss Walcamp will be re-membered for her work in "Liberty." The first three episodes of the serial are now ompleted and some time this week a trade showing will be held.

George H. McCool, booker for the Universal company, announces that Mr. Stork was a visitor at their house last Sunday. He left a baby girl to keep the McCools company. The new ruler's name is Mona Virginia McCool. An admiring aunt, though, 'tis reported, suggested a nickname of "Red Pepper," inasmuch as the thermometer was firting with 164 degress of heat as the newcomer peeped at the Universe.

Wallace MacDonald, who will be seen op-posite Mildred Manning in a forthogning Greater Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature, was approached last week by a motor car sales-man. MacDonald cashed a check for $900, looked the car over and decided not to buy. Then, $900 strong, he took the subway for home, and on the way his pocket was picked to the last bill. This will at least dis-prove the theory that all movie stars have four or five cars, costing on the average of four or five cars, costing on the average of $10,000 each. As the pride of Omaha's ad solicitors would say, "It's a good story, even if it didn't happen."

"I don't know who laid the transatiantic cable, but I know who made it pay divi-dends," the Goldwin pictures auditor mused as he paid Mary Garden's cable bills for the David Horsley has just announced that the leading woman for Crane Wilbur, whose the leading woman for Crane Wilbur, whose features are released on the Artdrama program, will be Juainta Hansen. Shirley Huxley, the well known Australian actress, and many others of repute have also been added to the cast. The first offering Miss Hansen and Mr. Wilbur will be seen in will be a western drama, the title of which will be announced in the near future.

Ticket No. 1313 won the silver framed autographed portrait of William Russell, presented to the movie goers by the American Film company's popular man star. Likenesses of American featured players were given nightly at the Chicago movie exposition by public drawing from freely distributed tickets. The winning Russell pasteboard was held by Miss Fannie Or-letsky, 1516 Farragut street, Chicago, a Part of the plot of the King Bee's seventh comedy, "The Genius," in which Billy West is starred, concerns itself with Billy West is starred, concerns itself with an invention for combating the submarine menace now afflicting Europe. The mechanical parts of the comedy dealing with this invention are said to contain a surprise or two and lend themselves to some of the funniest situations the comedy acreen has seen.

Here's some hot weather suggestions by Douglas Fairbanks. "Wear heavy overcoats to keep the heat from the body." "Wear long sleeved underwear, so the flees and meaguitoes won't bother you." "Sleep indoors and then you won't be

The production was placed in the hands of R. A. Walsh, who was D. W. Griffiths first assistant in the producing of "The Birth of a Nation." The theme of the story is a plea for one to give the convict a chance to make good with the theory that, if he is placed on his honor, he will. The types ploked to portray the difference between the old prison systems and the new. A splendid love story runs through the entire play and taken as a whole is a decidedly worth while production. We can not say as yet where it will be shown, but not say as yet where it will be shown, but don't miss it.

Bills for Current Week

Sun—On today and Monday, Naomi Childers is shown at the Sun in "The Auction of Virtue," a story of a girl who shrinks from poverty and is willing to sell herself for luxury, but she discovers before it is too late that love and marriage before it is too late that love and marriage are more valuable than riches. Lonesome Luke is here again in his latest two-reel scream entitled, "Lonesome Luke the Messenger." Finishing the program are scenes of the world's great war and the United States army in France. On Tuesday and Wednesday, Emmy Wehlen returns in "The Trail of the Shadow," a six-act Metro Wonderplay of action and romance. The comedy end of the program is furnished by Ralph Hers, noted vaudeville comedian, in his latest comedy entitled, "Blood Will Teil." Kimpress—A drama of a twentieth century knight errant whose armor was brass is the film offering at the Empress for the first four days of this week, starting today with Alice Joyce and Harry Morey in the five-part Blue Ribbon Vitagraph foature, "Richard the Brazen." Richard Williams, which is the part taken by Harry Morey, had no idea, when he went to London, that he would see the One Girl in an English chop house, much less that she was the daughter of a business enemy of his father's. The romance of these two real Americans is full of excitement and humor and red blood. There is enough thrills and laughs to sult the most exacting. The Fox Film comedy offering is Tom Mix, in "A Soft Tenderfoot." Also a Hearst-Pathe News Weekly.

IF you have seen the first episode of "The Fatal Ring" you know it starts out as the BEST serial ever offered. Each episode is better than the preceding ones. In fact, each is the equal of a big, smashing feature. Pearl White has never done such splendid work. Warner Oland is more wonderful than in Patria. If you liked Pearl White in "The Perils of Pauline" and "The Exploits of Elaine"-if you liked Warner Oland in Patria, then there is a double treat in store for you in "The Fatal Ring."
