LOOK FORWARD TO ANNUAL HOG SHOW

Arrangements for the National Swine Exposition Rapidly Being Perfected; Many New Features.

Arrangements for the second annual National Swine show, to be held in the new horse and mule barn at the stock yards, are rapidly being perfected. The premium list offering over $15,000 in cash and trophies is going to the printer, and over 10,000 of the lists will be mailed to interested hog raisers throughout the United States.

Exceptional interest is being manifested by a great number of thoroughbred hog raisers who have decidedly good herds, but who did not exhibit at the National Swine show last year. Early reports indicate the second show will far surpass last year's show in both numbers shown and in quality.

It was a distinctive feature of the 1916 show that never before was so great an amount of hog value ever gotten together under one roof, and from present prospects, the 1917 National Swine show bids fair to distance the former show in this respect.

Breeders Are Enthusiastic. Additional interest in the show is being shown by hog raisers throughout the country, due to their desire to produce the greatest amount of pork per animal possible to meet the greatly increased demand, account of war conditions. Farmers, who through experience have learned that the quality blood in hogs has the tendency toward producing a larger marketable animal in less time than the ordinary every day stock, will be in attendance at the swine show in increased numbers, to secure additional first-hand knowledge of "quality hog," as well as adding new stock to their established herds.

A new feature will be added to the 1917 show in the way of a hog judging contest between various state agricultural college student teams in the corn belt. Already six colleges have signified their intention of entering the contest. Cash prizes will be offered. The prize fund is being subscribed by the various breed and agricultural papers throughout the country.

In order to accommodate the people of Omaha who are unable to attend the show during the day, a number of evening shows will be held, for which some added attractions are being arranged.

The label on the bottle says that the contents contain 25 per cent alcohol.

He was fined $10 and costs. Detectives Lemski and Sullivan arrested Robert Perkins, colored, who gave his address as Perry, Ia., at Twenty-sixth and O streets this morning. He had a quart bottle of whiskey wrapped in some overalls. He said he paid $1 for it. Police officers say that it is cheap compared with most "cut bottle prices."

"No, sir, I didn't get this in this town. I got it in Chicago," insisted one negro who was picked up on the street with a flask of whiskey "on him."

FINISH TESTING BOYS OF "DANDY SIXTH"

Work of Examining Guardsmen Before Drafting Into Federal Service is Concluded at Midnight.

Forty members of Company A of the "Dandy Sixth," who have been sleeping at the Hotel Castle, have at last found a place to "lay their heads." The cots requisitioned for the company by Sergeant McHugh arrived yesterday and members of the company who wished had a cot and two blankets, likewise cot-room, in the Auditorium.

Probably a finer or more worthwhile bunch of men than the "Dandy Sixth" has never been gotten together in the guards. Here are a few taken at random from just one company.

Captain Clinton Brome is an Omaha lawyer. His father, H. C. Brome, is a former president of the Barristers' club. Captain Brome saw service in the old Second Nebraska. Lieutenant McHugh of Company A attended Culver Military academy for two years and there he got his first liking for military affairs. He saw service last year on the border and became interested, with other Omaha men, this year, in the organizing of an Omaha battalion for the new Sixth regiment. He is the son of Judge McHugh of Omaha.

Sergeant O. Farrand, of A, is a veteran army man, having served nine years in the regular army. He was in the Philippines some years before returning to civil life. He resigned a position as motorcycle policeman in South Omaha to get back into the harness again.

Martin Brown, the quartermaster sergeant of company A, was for years chief clerk of the Burlington freight depot. He had 150 men under his

See Nebraska's Own Tractor at the Fremont Show

Don't fail to see the "Square Turn" Tractor at the Fremont Show. See it in the tent where continuous demonstrations are given. See it give the most remarkable exhibition of flexibility in handling ever made by any tractor. See it in the fields where it will pull 3 plows in full view of the operator. See it make the famous "Square Turn" at the corners of the field in less than five seconds. Follow the crowd and you will see the

SQUARE TURN

NO CLUTCH TO SLIP NO GEARS TO STRIP

With this tractor you can go anywhere and do anything you can with horses. It is as easily driven as a team, goes ahead, backs or turns at the touch of the hand. There is no foot work to do, no clutch to throw in or out, no gears to shift, no bother at all. Two levers conveniently located, one for each hand, control the machine and perform every operation desired. It has fewer working parts than any other tractor.

Steers by Its Own Power. Turns in Its Own Length

With the Square Turn Tractor you can plow as close to the fence corners as you can with a team, and you can clean up at the finish just as well. The plows are lifted by power to turn corners and to back instantly to clear out trash. The plows and other tools are in plain view of the operator. It is easier to run both Square Turn Tractor and plows than it is to drive an ordinary gang plow with team. It will work in any kind of soil and in wet places and on side hills too steep for a binder without danger of tipping over.

Burns Kerosene or Gasoline

The Square Turn Tractor has a two-fuel burning carburetor for using either kerosene or gasoline, and carries two 15-gallon fuel tanks. It is the only tractor that is permitted to use the patented Giant Grip Drive—the greatest improvement made in the tractor industry.

We guarantee the Square Turn Tractor to operate successfully on your farm or there is no sale. Write for free catalog if you can't come to the Fremont show.
