

DYNAMITERS BLOW UP SAN DIEGO PLANT

Deliberate Effort Made to Cripple Water Supply; Two Men Seen Running After Explosion.

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 18.—More than twenty feet of the forty-inch water main connecting the San Diego city water impounding system with the distributing system was blown out by an explosion at 11 o'clock last night, according to announcement shortly before noon today by City Manager F. M. Lockwood. That a deliberate effort was made to cripple the San Diego water supply system was the announced belief of Manager Lockwood, who said that shortly after the explosion two men were seen running from the scene.

For several months a large section of the water supply system, including the dams, have been under guard and have been patrolled at night, but no guards were within a considerable distance of the scene of last night's explosion. Efforts to obtain some clue to the identity of the dynamiters have already been started by city officials, but as yet, it was said, no evidence other than that an explosive was used has been uncovered.

London Saves Sugar For Famine in Sweets

London, Aug. 14.—Diners out in London are regularly engaged just now in a practice which popularly is known as "pocketing the sugar." The idea is to lay up a supply of sweetening for a day when it may be harder to obtain or, on the part of non-sugar eating individuals, for friends who like more than they are allowed. The custom is practiced all over the city and in all classes of places where tea and food are served.

German submarines lately seem to have been especially active against ships that happened to be carrying sugar, with the result that, while there is enough to go around, the supplies for the distant future are none too large. Tea and coffee are served with just the allowed weight of sugar, usually set alongside the cups in separate containers and usually consisting of halves or thirds of lumps. It is these pieces of lumps that most often are seen disappearing into the gold, silver and leather handbags of the women and the waistcoat pockets of the men.

FOOD PROBLEM OF NORWAY NOT SERIOUS

Public Has Asked to Be Put on Rations, But Government Has Found it Un-necessary.

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
Christiania, Norway, July 31.—As far as the food problem is concerned, Norway has been in a better condition than the other two Scandinavian countries and, although the public here has been asked to be put on rations of sugar, flour and potatoes, the government has not yet found it necessary. At present everybody can obtain all he needs of food-stuff if he is able to pay the high prices. The government and the municipalities are trying to help by paying a certain part of the excess prices so that the laborer, for instance, has been able to buy milk, bread, fuel, pork and some other articles of food at prices not much higher than under normal circumstances. As his wages have been raised from 40 to 100 per cent in the last three years the high cost of living is felt less by the laborer than by people working on a fixed salary in the service of the state or cities. These public employers have not made the salaries follow the increased cost of living. The result is that it has come to a crisis for the civil service; young well fitted men resign their positions for better places with private employers and the work in the governmental departments is crippled.

All railroad employes, from station agents to the laborers, have resigned their places and will walk out September 1, declaring their wages are too low for a decent living. If the government does not yield to the demand for better salaries—a request unanimously supported by almost the whole press of the country, the railroad service over the whole country will be stopped September 1.

As Norway, except in some branches, is unable to produce food enough for the use of its own people, an embargo has been placed on most kinds of food. Hardly a pound of butter is exported now, no potatoes, nor flour. Imported articles like sugar and coffee, under an agreement with the seller, are not exported. Smuggling or the exportation of embargoed goods has been punished to the full extent of the laws. It is claimed here that very little, if any, of the groceries or provisions bought from England, France or the United States is reaching Germany through Norway.

In view of the fact that the United States has joined the belligerents, a governmental committee has been collecting information as to Norway's need of food and how to regulate the consumption of it. The committee found the country has a supply suf-

Nineteen-Dollar Hog is Here; And the East Will Pay More

Nineteen-dollar hogs have arrived. The extreme top price paid on the Omaha live stock market today was $19 a hundred. The run was light. Most of the buying, especially the early buying, was done by shippers, or, in other words, speculators who intend to ship them on and get the advantage of a still higher market in the east by Monday.

Packers held back and allowed the shippers to grab off the cream of the offerings. The packers did very little bidding. The price of hogs was fully $2.25 higher than last week.

icient for three months, even if all importation is stopped, without placing the people on rations.

Public opinion seems to be prepared for a voluntary or forced embargo on all trade or commercial relations with Germany. Germany has itself prepared the way for such a course by its treatment of Norway. Therefore, the messages from Washington regarding the America control of exports to neutral countries have created no anxiety here.

The national pride and self-respect are hurt and humiliated because Norway continues to show a friendly face to and to trade with Germany, which has treated Norway, in many ways, as a hostile country. As a whole, the Norwegian people, having lost all sympathy with Germany and needing all foodstuffs and provisions for their own use, gladly will submit to a strict embargo on all articles of food, and on any other supplies, provided it would help to shorten the war.

Hotel Furnishes Sea

Pleasure Sains Danger
(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
Amsterdam, Netherlands, July 31.—Vacations may be enjoyed in Holland on board a liner without the present day perils. This privilege is conferred by the use as a floating hotel of the 12,000-ton steamship Jan Pieterszoon Coen, one of the Netherlands Steamship company's colonial liners. In normal times this ship runs between here and the Dutch East Indies, but since the unrestricted submarine war its owners have laid it up for safety in Amsterdam harbor.

The steamer was anchored at an attractive spot on the North Sea canal, between Velsen and Ymuiden, and opened as a hotel. Remunerative patronage was easily secured at prices according with those of first-class hotels at Holland's seaside resorts, and there was a big run on this innovation in European holiday facilities.

Police to Enroll All New Zealand Men in Expeditionary Force

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
Wellington, New Zealand, July 31.—The New Zealand police hereafter will enforce that section of the New Zealand military service law which aims at the enrollment of every man of military age in the dominion in the expeditionary force reserve. Policemen may accost citizens and make inquiries accordingly. Eligible men not enrolled will be liable to a fine of $250 or three months' imprisonment. It is hoped by this step not only to insure that the name of every fit man is on the roll, but to detect men who have failed to comply with the military ballot (drafting by means of numbered marbles and card indexes). That is, every man who is not in military uniform will have to have either an enrollment certificate or a "leave pass" showing that he has been medically rejected. It is expected that the powers thus given the police will lead to many incidents.

Another change under the military service act which took effect this month is relative to the classification of the men of the second reserve division—the married men. Originally this division was to have been classified according to the men's dependents, but lately the government decided that the basis shall be children only. Thus married men without children will be called up first, those with one child next and so on. Married men without children are estimated to number about 15,000. The first of the married men will be drafted in September or October.
