BRIDE GIVEN LUNCHEON BY
D. A. R. FRIENDS.

RUTH GANSON

Miss Ruth Ganson was honor guest at a luncheon given by Major Isaac Sadler chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the Fontenelle. She has been treasurer of the chapter and the luncheon was occasioned by her approaching marriage to Mr. X. W. Kynett of Council Bluffs. Flags formed the table decorations.

Mrs. English, who goes with her to Columbia, to remain with her until she is settled in the teachers' college where she will specialize in kindergarten work.

Home from Camp.

Thursday morning a group of healthy, happy girls returned to their homes in Omaha from a summer spent at Camp Michigan, in northern Michigan. There they have been tramped, done handicraft work, enjoyed water sports and any number of other entrancing things which only a group of girls living in the great outdoors have the freedom to do.

At one time the entire camp, about sixty girls in canoes, took a three-day trip to Pequaming on Lake Superior. The greater number of girls came from the middle west, one was from Kentucky, many were from Ohio, Chicago, Kansas City, and six were from Omaha. The latter two groups tented together and were especially friendly. Miss Helen Eastman has gone to the camp for a ten-day post-season stay before she resumes her art work in Chicago.

The girls who came home yesterday were:

- Misses: Margaret Eastman, Letta Smith, Helen Stenger, Virginia Barber, Marjorie Hibbel, Marie Scoville.

Women Golfers Bring Trophies.

Laden with trophies and declaring that they never in their lives had such a good time, the fifteen women, accompanied by Professional John Shearman, who went to Sioux City early Wednesday morning for a return golf match with the women of that city arrived in Omaha late Thursday night. During their short stay in Sioux City they were entertained at two luncheons, a dinner-dance and a card party at the Sioux City Boat club and the Sioux City Country club. Miss Mabel Melchior won the prize in the blind bogey contest on Wednesday at the Boat club and Thursday Miss Katherine Worley won the prize at the Country club. Mrs. W. R. Overmire won a prize in a putting contest. Mrs. Allen Dudley for low medal score and Mrs. Willis Crosby, Mrs. Frank Roberts and Mrs. H. H. Roberts won other prizes. These exchange golf contests and visits have been so pleasant that there is talk of making them annual affairs.

Wedding Plans.

The marriage of Miss Gertrude McCrann, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. McCrann, to Mr. Joseph W. Breen of Des Moines will take place Saturday at St. Cecilia's, although the hour has not been made public. The absence from the city of Father D. P. Harrington has prevented the setting of the hour. Mr. Breen arrived Thursday. The bride's sister, Mildred, will be her maid of honor.

Notes of Interest.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Holzmark of Gothenburg, Neb., are spending a few days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Voss in Dundee. John Leslie Pitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Pitt, who has attended the University of Nebraska the last three years and is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, enlisted in the aviation section of the signal corps and left Thursday night for Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Miss Norma McMillan of New York City, who has been the guest of Miss Edna Peterson since early in July, left Sunday night for her home. The Peterson home has been the scene of numerous parties during the Great Western circuit races. Each day the Peterson box is filled with a group of young people interested in the horses. Next week Miss Peterson goes to Des Moines, Ia., to attend the races there.

Lieutenant Irving W. Benolken, who has been visiting Bishop Williams and family at St. Joseph's Island, Canada, will arrive in Omaha Saturday morning to remain with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Benolken until he receives orders to report to Camp Dodge.

Mrs. E. G. Horsington left by automobile for Chicago Wednesday morning for a ten days' visit.

Mr. Elmer Campbell, who at the completion of the training camp at Fort Snelling was recommended for the aviation corps, is spending a few days while waiting for orders with his brother, Mr. Erle Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Arterburn in Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Buell have returned from a seven weeks' motor trip through the east. Their trip, after a few days spent in Washington on government business, included a tour of the coast from the southern end of New Jersey to Portsmouth, N. H. From there they drove through the White mountains, climbing Mount Washington in the automobile, returning through the Green mountains, Saratoga Springs, Niagara Falls and Chicago.

In and Out of the Bee Hive.

W. H. Rother and family have returned from Clear Lake, Ia., where they summered.

Miss Margaret Taake of Clear Lake, Ia., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Guy D. Thomas, of Minne Lusa.

Judge Rules Estate of Mrs. Schmidt Goes to State

Acting County Judge Sundblad set aside both wills of the late Mrs. Julia Schmidt, South Side, and ruled the $1,500 estate should go to the state of Nebraska. Mrs. Schmidt, who died May 16, left two wills, one dated May 12 and the other May 4. The principal bequest in one of the wills was made to a German society. The second will left a Catholic institution most of the estate. There were no legal heirs. Judge Sundblad decreed Mrs. Schmidt was mentally incompetent to make either will.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

What is His Side?
Dear Miss Fairfax: I have been married three years and my husband positively refuses to allow me to visit my mother. He says that he will not be sociable. I want to advise you. I am very lonely.

What is your husband's side of the story? He must have one, or else he is such a brutal person that you probably would have left him long ago. I think that no daughter ought to play away from her mother, even to be at peace with her husband, and if you are weak enough to do this and to know of no other way of keeping him satisfied, you really must be a bit of a failure as a wife. I do not mean to be hard, but I want to make you think. Look over the situation carefully. Don't feel like a martyr or an unappreciated wife, but try to figure out how you can make yourself respected. It is absolutely your right to be friendly with your mother, unless she has gravely offended your husband in some matter connected with your married life. If you will give yourself over to working out your seemingly tragic situation, I think you will find yourself too thoroughly occupied with your puzzle to be lonely.

Write to Him.
Dear Miss Fairfax: About four years ago I met a young man with whom I fell in love, and it was reciprocated. A year and a half later we had a quarrel and parted. Since then he has paid attention to another girl.

A year ago February I lost my mother, and the following May my father died. It was 22. The day before my father was buried this young man came and asked me if I would accept his sympathy. All I could do was shake hands with him. Since then I have been friendly with him. Now his father is dying. Would it look forward to write and ask if I can do anything for him?
Of course, you have the natural reticence any fine girl would feel under the circumstances. However, much more you care for the boy, you must hesitate to take him from the other girl, who probably cares too. For the present I think you may dismiss that phase of the situation from your mind and think only of the old friendship, of the fact that the boy's father, who is fond of you, is dying. An offer of sympathy is almost required from you. To fail to make it would mean to show an ugly, cold and selfish indifference. Write him a friendly letter, telling him how deeply you, who have seen a beloved father sick and suffering, sympathize with him now and how happy you would be if it were in your power to help an old friend in time of trouble.

Don't Do It.
Dear Miss Fairfax: I am 18 and know a young doctor five years my senior. My parents are off to Chicago for three months, and my friend has asked me to go to Atlantic City for two months and board in a hotel and go under his name. We are not engaged and I am puzzled as to what I should do. He admits he loves me dearly and desires to make me his wife when my parents return.

My dear child, of course you can't do this. Going under this man's name when you have no right to it would put you in an impossible situation. You must not dream of going to Atlantic City without the full knowledge and consent of your parents. You are too young to be in a hotel unchaperoned. No man who really cared for you would suggest such a thing unless he were so young that he did not realize the enormity of what he was asking. I think you should take your mother into your confidence at once, since your young doctor is a bit of a knave or a good bit of a fool. This isn't the way a man treats a girl he wants for his wife. It would blacken your name and might ruin your character. Remember, it can't be done.

Ancestors Fought in Other Wars.

Ever and anon in these warlike times we hear of a young man whose desire to be of service to his country is strengthened by the example of patriotic forebears. With a little investigation these examples multiply. If one could give an indefinite time to searching the records of all the young soldiers, sailors and army men who have offered their services in Omaha he would doubtless find many descendants of the heroes of other wars or of our sturdy Pilgrim fathers. The lists of the daughters and sons of the American revolution contain the names of many of these Omaha boys, but others who proudly trace their ancestry back to some of history's bravest soldiers are not to be found there. A member of the family in each war which has engaged the people of the United States is the record of some of the present volunteers. How could they do else than follow the example of their ancestors?

Philip and Roger McCullough of the signal corps, sons of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. McCullough, have a record of officer ancestors in Washington's army which would make any young man rally to the flag. Cuthbert and Cedric Potter, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Potter, are descendants from the colonial governors and one of their grandfathers, Dr. John Andrews, was a surgeon for seven years in the revolutionary army.

Major Roger Howard Williams, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, as his name indicates, is descended from the line of colonial governors. He has had a career in the regular army and was one of the first Omaha boys to be of service in the present war.

Dr. B. C. Rasmus, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rasmus, who is waiting an appointment in the medical reserve corps, traces his ancestry back to revolutionary soldiers. Dr. Rasmus, who has been completing his medical course at interne in a Brooklyn hospital, arrived in Omaha Monday for a short visit with his parents before being called to service.

Captain Robert Burns traces his ancestry back to the revolution. Gilbert Stubbs, son of Mrs. J. J. Stubbs of Omaha, is another son of the revolution who has offered his services to the country. He is now in New York awaiting call. Mrs. J. B. Adams and Mrs. F. C. Timm are Daughters of the American revolution whose sons are serving their country in the present war.

The two sons of Mrs. Nancy J. Moore, Claire and Wendell, come from good colonial stock. John Hancock and John Quincy Adams were their progenitors and every generation of the family has had some representative in West Point. Captain James Prentice of the Fort Omaha balloon school is a cousin of Mrs. Moore. Brigadier General Emory Upton is a great uncle of the two boys; another relative, Roy Upton, is now fighting in France and they are also related to General Cadwallader, who is with the troops at the front.

Wedding Announcement.

For Brides-to-Be.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur English will entertain at the Country club dinner-dance Saturday night for Miss Agnes Russell and Miss Helen Scobie, brides-to-be of the near future, and for their two nieces, Misses Marie and Florence Fowler of Lincoln, who have been their guests for a month. The two visitors will leave for their home the latter part of next week. Miss Marie Fowler will return the following week enroute east. She will be accompanied from here by her aunt,
