

FURLOUGH FARMERS UNTIL DECEMBER 1

District Board Will Give Opportunity for Harvesting Crops Before Entering Military Service.

"Farmers certified on the draft lists should be given all possible help in the harvest," is the way the district board looks at the matter.

Many of the younger farmers are claiming exemption because of the crops that have not been harvested as yet. These men are given a furlough by the district board until December 1 when they will be called for service.

Threshing outfits and farm hands should work for these men first, that they may get their work finished sooner," stated Chairman Cones. "The farmers are not looking for charity to get their work done but are willing to pay good wages. The question is to get men to do the work."

In cases where a man owns a farm, does the work on it and is supporting a wife or children the appeal board has not hesitated for a minute in accepting his claims for exemption. The majority of the claims are coming from farm hands, however, and the board that they do can be done by someone else as well as not.

No appeals for dependents have come before the board in any of the counties that have been certified, but in some of the districts these appeals will be heavy.

Wednesday noon the board had certified the men for service from Dodge, Howard, Arthur, Madison, Kimball, Knox and Garfield counties and had acted on the appeals from Platte, Kimball and Valley counties.

Five farmers were allowed exemptions in the appeals from Platte county. These are men that own their own farms and are invaluable in the work.

In the lists of appeals gone over in Valley county one man's claim was made permanent because of ownership of a farm, while two men were given the allotted time, December 1, in which to dispose of their work. Eight claims in this county were refused.

Two claims were filed by men who had been married since war was declared, thus hoping to evade the draft. Both claims were rejected.

In the appeals from Platte county, Matthew A. Schaeffer, M. J. Glaser, Frank Tlustos and Joseph E. Stec were exempted on agricultural grounds. In the case of Joseph Stec two brothers were drafted, so it was up to the board to decide which would stay at home and keep up the farm. The other brother was chosen for service.

Peter J. Foltz and Harry Larson were given until December 1 to finish all work on their farms, after which time they are drafted into the service. The claims of fourteen men in Platte county were not allowed.

Four appeals came before the board in the lists gone over Wednesday from Kimball county. The claims of fourteen men in Platte county were not allowed.

Four appeals came before the board in the lists gone over Wednesday from Kimball county. The claims of Thomas Anderson, Clarence L. Snyder and Glen Osborn were not allowed. R. E. Holland was exempted on the grounds of owning a farm and having a family to support.

POLICE SAY THEY ARE POSITIVE OF GUILT OF NEGRO

Smith asserts he was not in that vicinity, but was half a mile west.

Directions Vague. Chief Dempsey then led Smith to the road he insisted he had taken, but his ideas of direction were so vague, police say, and his answers positive he was not in that locality.

Majority hope the new levy—almost doubled—will command sufficient support to cause rejection of the more drastic proposals.

Work on Tax Bill. The senate worked on the war tax bill today under an agreement to dispose of the publishers' tax provisions before night, while finance committee leaders perfect their proposed compromise on the war profits taxation.

There remained today for disposal the proposed 5 per cent special tax on publishers' incomes and increases in second class mail rates, with prospects that both would be stricken out.

The senate yesterday, by a vote of 39 to 29, eliminated the provisions for a 1-cent increase in letter postage, but retained a provision for free postage on letters mailed by American soldiers abroad.

The man directed him to go straight down Davenport street, but after walking as far as Thirty-ninth street Smith declared that he did not think he went down Davenport street but thought he saw streets cars somewhere around.

Farnam street also proved to be totally unfamiliar to him and after standing a few moments there he finally asserted that he didn't know what direction he walked, but that he got down town somehow and was at the Midway Saturday night.

Because of his alleged inability to remember the line of travel, detectives say they are positive that Smith is guilty of the Nethaway murder and perhaps of the murder of Mrs. Catherine Anderson because of the similarity of the methods employed in both crimes.

A dozen negroes have said they saw Smith at the Midway Saturday night, but at what particular hour they are unable to tell.

Information has been received that Smith is an ex-convict from a Kansas penitentiary.

Inquest Delayed. Inquest and investigation in the murder of Mrs. C. L. Nethaway, will not be held until Sheriff Clark's forces and the police have gathered every bit of evidence available.

County Attorney Magney announced this afternoon that the inquest will be unusually thorough and will not begin until both county and city authorities have made exhaustive investigations for clues that will help solve the second of the two worst murder horrors in Omaha's history.

The inquest was set for this afternoon at 2 o'clock, but it is not likely it will be held for several days.

Charles Smith, negro suspect, against whom both police and sheriff's force are trying to make a case, is in close confinement in county jail.

The announcement in an afternoon paper that Smith was about to make a "complete confession" was branded as a fake by Sheriff Clark's men.

So The People May Know

A plain statement of the evils I hope to correct and the reforms I mean to inaugurate in the practice of Dentistry.

I doubt if there ever was a professional man who has excited comment, both good and bad, in so short a time, as has been my lot since coming to Omaha to open The Painless Withers Dental Office.

When people stop and shake hands with a comparative stranger and commend him for his frank and fearless statements, and the broad-minded, square dealing members of the Profession approve and applaud without attempting to conceal their satisfaction at the stand I have taken, I FEEL THAT I HAVE THE RIGHT KIND OF PEOPLE BACK OF ME AND CARE LITTLE WHAT THE OTHER KIND THINK, SAY OR DO.

I came to Omaha for a specific purpose, and because of that purpose I have been met with a storm of disapproval in certain quarters where reforms are not desired.

I HOLD IT IS WRONG TO CHARGE EXTORTIONATE FEES FOR DENTAL SERVICES. I DEEM IT BARBAROUS TO INFLICT UNNECESSARY PAIN. I DEEM IT ESSENTIAL THAT THE PUBLIC KNOW BEFORE GOING TO A DENTAL OFFICE, WHO THE DENTIST IS AND WHAT HIS CREDENTIALS ARE.

That in brief—is "MY CODE OF ETHICS." Is there anything wrong or unethical in demanding that dentists measure up to that standard? That is all I have asked—all I intend to ask, yet from the day I opened my offices in the Securities building (formerly Rose building) in this city I have been the object of attack and ridicule by those who for some reason or other bitterly oppose reforms.

I do not pose as a philanthropist—nor do I offer charity work to people who are able, willing and glad to pay a reasonable fee for first class dental services, BUT I DO CLAIM THAT CHARGING PEOPLE $500 TO $1,000 FOR SERVICES WORTH AT BEST NOT TO EXCEED $50 TO $100 IS NEITHER HONEST NOR CREDITABLE.

I have never made the claim that ALL dental operations are absolutely painless, BUT I DO CLAIM AND DAILY PROVE THAT MUCH OF THE PAIN INFLICTED IN THE DENTAL CHAIR IS UNNECESSARY AND BRUTAL AND THAT BY MEANS OF MY PERFECTED LOCAL ANESTHETIC I AM ABLE TO ABSOLUTELY ELIMINATE UNNECESSARY PAIN AND TO MINIMIZE SUFFERING IN ALL OPERATIONS. In my next article I am going to tell you WHO I AM and what success I have made elsewhere. Painless Withers, Dentist 16th and Farnam Sts. 423-428 Securities Bldg. Douglas 4604 or Rose Office Hours: 8:30 to 8 p. m.—Sunday, 9 to 1
