"Dandy Sixth" Boys Cheer Themselves In Movies at Strand

The "Dandy Sixth" today made its debut in the movies at the Strand theater, where are being shown moving pictures of the dress parade of the Sixth regiment Sunday afternoon. It was military morning at the Strand, where the Omaha battalion of the Sixth was the guest of Manager Thomas. The Strand special release of the Sixth pictures is the feature and the theater rang with applause as Major Harries and Lieutenant Keunworthy appeared first on the screen. Next came the president and directors of the Commercial club, as natural as life. With a splendid spirit the four companies of the Omaha battalion next swung past, each easily discernible at once by the captain at its head. Captain Brome came first with Company A, then Captains Risch, Keating and Metcalfe led their men in fine form past the Auditorium, followed by the band, while the screen audience waved hats and the real audience out in the theater applauded madly, each man striving to see himself in the marching throng. Following this picture was the Pathe weekly, showing military movements over the country, but in none of them did the men appear more soldier-like than the boys from Nebraska.

Whisky for Lung Trouble Gets Negro Thirty Days

George E. Hill, a negro, arrested for bringing liquor into the state from St. Joseph, was tried in United States district court Tuesday and given thirty days in jail in which time he may repent for his sins. When arrested Hill had fourteen quarts of whisky in his possession. He explained that he had lung trouble and used whisky and eggs to relieve him. When asked what he wanted such a large quantity for the negro said that the saloon men told him that the government would soon close down on the sale of liquor so he had better lay in a good supply. He had only intended to purchase a bottle before that, he asserted.

Negro Cuts Friend After Argument in "Crap" Game

The wave of crime is still progressing. Another negro proceeded to cut things up, with the result that Detectives Brinkman and Barta are hot on his trail and a second colored gentleman lies in the hospital with numerous cuts on his hips and back. The two men were shooting dice in the injured man's room, three doors north of the Midway, and got into an argument over 15 cents. The first negro, known as "Slim," drew a razor and proceeded to butcher his friend up a bit, leaving by the first door in sight and not having been seen since. A bad gash in the right hip severed an artery and the blood was flowing freely when the police surgeon arrived. The injured man was known as Frank Ray.

Fighting Fourth Fed in Texas by Omaha Mess Fund

Sandwiches, coffee, and other good substantial were bought for the Fourth Nebraska troops in the deserts of Texas out of money raised for the mess fund by the Commercial club of Omaha. From Amarilla, Tex., Colonel Baehr yesterday afternoon telegraphed the Commercial club for some of the mess fund. The club immediately telegraphed an order for $350, which went to purchase sandwiches and hot drink until the train reached the mess station.

MAN IN RANKS MAY REACH COMMISSION

After Second Series Men Are Graduated Schools for Candidates for Promotion Start at Divisional Camps.

(By Associated Press.) Washington, Aug. 29.—Enlisted men of the national army, National Guard and regular army will be given every opportunity to fit themselves for commissions, it was learned today. This is in line with the policy of the government to take no more officers from civil life after the second series of officers' training camps, now in progress, has been completed. Therefore all additional officers needed will be found in the ranks of the various branches of the war army. Officers' Schools at Camps. To carry out this plan it has virtually been decided to establish an officers' school at each of the divisional training camps. Men from the ranks, who show special qualifications will be sent to these schools. With staffs of French and British officers of experience on the firing lines on duty at each camp, as advisers, an unusual opportunity for lecture courses will be presented. The divisional officers' camps will make the third series of such camps arranged by the War department to provide men to command the enormous forces being raised for the war. No line commissions will be granted to men from civil life after they are started, except that a few men who were denied admission to the other camps, through loss of their orders, in the mail or some other mischance, may be given an opportunity in the third series. War Army Discontinued. Secretary Baker pointed out today, in reply to a question as to whether the European divisional army organization adopted for the war, would be continued after the restoration of peace, that with the exception of the officers of the regular army and a few men of the old regular enlisted force, whose enlistment may not have expired at that time, the entire war army will pass out of existence. There is no provision of law for continuing it beyond the end of the war. The question of establishing a continuing military policy of universal service has been debated to some extent recently. The impression prevails among many members of congress, however, that it would be unwise to take up this question now. If the war is long, it may become necessary to provide for the registration of new cases, which reach the military age of the selective service bill each year and possibly also to exempt men now registered, but who may pass beyond the maximum age limit before the war ends.

Mayor Dahlgren of Omaha is quoted as saying that the practical results of prohibition had shot his previous wet arguments all to pieces. Seattle and Omaha are both dry.

MEXICO NOT FIELD FOR GERMAN SPIES

Experts Laugh at Possibility of Enemy's Transmitting Information Through Southern Neighbor.

Mexico City, Wednesday, Aug. 29.—The efficiency of any German bureau of information or any German spy system located in Mexico is dependant absolutely on the efficiency of the censorship imposed by the allied powers. This is the conclusion unhesitatingly and unanimously pronounced by cable experts, telegraph men and diplomats of those powers who have been in touch with German activity in Mexico not only since the United States entered the world war, but from the opening hostilities in 1914. In fact, these experts declare that information from the United States to Germany could hardly be transmitted by a more inefficient or longer route, and that those desiring to transmit to the central powers information of troop movements and other valuable news would have far less difficulty in sending it from the United States direct than through Mexico. Strenuous efforts have been made to find alleged wireless stations operated by Germans or for German purposes in Mexico, but without avail. It is noted as a possibility that news might be transmitted to vessels near any of the countries bordering the Atlantic, but it is argued that such messages must soon be noticed when all the coastwise traffic is in the hands of the allied merchant marine, in which each vessel is equipped with wireless.
