Opening of World War Compels England to Provide for Previously Unheard of Contingencies.

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.) London, Aug. 25 .- The British army has undergone changes of a far-reaching character since the outbreak of war in 1914, and it now possesses many branches unheard of in pre-war days. Every resource afforded by the manifold capacity of this great industrial community has been harnessed to the war chariot, says a British statement from official sources.

There are certain respects in which the problem by which the British army is faced is unique; and one of the most striking of these is that it must be capable of campaigning in any part of the world and in any climate. In the case of armies like that of Germany, on the other hand, the problem of preparation for war was relatively simple. The ground on which the army was destined to fight was known; it was an army designed to do battle in a particular theater—Europe. In consequence everything could be, and was, planned along certain well-defined lines.

Field Works Important.

In the present war the importance of field works was apparent at a very early stage, partly owing to modern artillery and partly to the confirmed entrenching habit of the Germans. One of the cardinal instructions given by the German commanders to their troops on first invading France and Belgium was-"Make trenches everywhere." In fact all the continental powers had in addition to their corps of engineers, very large numbers of trained pioneers, organized in bat-talions, and suitable for use either as fighting troops or in the construction and maintenance of field works and communications. The absolute importance of the last named can perhaps only be realized by one who has seen the roads during an advance.

But, while the continent was to this extent prepared for trench warfare, as was natural in the circumstances, it was otherwise with Great Britain. In the British service only the Indian army possessed pioneer regiments, troops being always necessary in conducting campaigns in the hill country. When the need for this class of troops became evident, steps were taken to form pioneer battalions for the expeditionary force. From the first they proved their value. Ready to Fight or Work.

Pioneers are prepared to fight or work as may be required. They perform such services as the construction and repair of communication trenches, ire-trenches and dug-outs, the digging of trenches and wiring. Their duties are manifold, and there is no form pioneer does not at one time or an- of marriage from everywhere. himself called upon to undertake. His activities range from carrying up ammunition to retrieving the wounded or holding a fiercely disputed trench or sap.

In the great advance on the Som-me and in Artois the pioneers performed work of the greatest importance. Ivanoff, governors of Odessa and described with advance as infantry, in others they wastes of Yakutsk. Smirnoff levied kept the advancing lines supplied with ammunition and water, and beat off counter attacks. Their losses have been heavy, but they have accomplished their tasks in the face of every As a rule, the pioneers remain in the vicinity of the trenches all the had been e time their division is in the line, and thorities . do not go back for rest, except at long intervals.

The pioneer is as yet a new type in the British army, but he has long since passed the trial stage, and has proved his worth and steadfastness. His metal has been tried in the crucible of war and very thoroughly it has stood the test.

Americans Somewhere In France Boom Prices

Americans are turning loose somewhere in France a stream of money surpassing that of the Britishers in another section of the republic. The Paris reports that the natives of cities near the American camp say the Americans—especially the sailors—being well paid in gold, never ask the price of anything before buying and often do not ask for their change. This has ruined the situation for the common people and if it were to continue would be sure to give rise to friction. It is always hard to realize the value of money in a new country the value of money in a new country and the United States government would do well to warn those going

Realtors Want Change In Loan Valuations There are realtors who believe that the time has come for a change in the method of valuations in making mortgage loans. A realtor in discussing with a large loan company a loan upon a prominent corner in the inside business district of Omaha found the company disposed to go on the old methods and turned down a perfectly good loan because the rules of the insurance company represented were those of twenty-five or fifty years ago. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.) The Hague, Netherlands, Aug. 15. -Interesting admissions regarding Alsace-Lorraine are made by the German professor Laband in an article in the Deutsche Revue.

"The higher influential and educated native population," says this protessor of political law, "is just as foreign as ever after having lived for forty-five years with the German population. With only one or two insignificant exceptions, there is no intimate intercourse, except insofar as this is rendered necessary by urgent business or professional interests. DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE. Working Conditions Better With Drop in Temperature; Draft Brings New Problems.

New York, Sept. 7.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

Waiting is still the rule in not a few quarters, though in the main business is rather less hesitant and the advancing season is calculated to stimulate those branches which have experienced the usual summer halting. With lower temperatures working conditions are also better, but the enlargement of manufacturing capacity does not in all cases assure augmented outputs, for the labor problem grows more difficult with the draft in operation and even where supplies of raw materials are adequate, the obstacles in transportation not infrequently impede their movement to points of destination. That many of the mills and factories continue to run actively on previous nation. That many of the mills and tac-tories continue to run actively on previous orders and will be thus engaged for some time to come is generally known, yet of new contracts from regular channels there are fewer on the whole, and purchasing as the necessity arises stands out as a most prominent feature, not only in the east, but also in the west and south.

Cattle Close Fifty Cents Lower Price of Corn Continues High Price of Bethlehem Force Down, Due to Reports of Payment on Contract

With Russia. New York, Sept. 8 .- Speculation favored the long side of the account during the greater part of today's brief stock market session, with an urgent inquiry for shares which have recently been targets for bear raids. Gains ran from 1 to 3 points in recognized favorites like the steels, oils, tobaccos and general motors.

raids. Gains ran from 1 to 3 points in recognized favorites like the steels, oils, tobaccos and general motors.

Pool operations were resumed with some confidence and the shorts were sufficiently impressed with the character of the buying to cover freely in various quarters. A successful bear raid later against Bethlehem Steel, together with liquidation of investment issues such as General Electric, Pullman and American Telephone caused the market to relapse below the previous close in many cases. General Electric scored an exceptional decline of nearly 8 points, while Pullman gave way frim.

Large amounts of Bethlehem were included forcing the price down 4½ to 100, with selling apparently inspired by reports that the company had taken $50,000,000 in rubles in payment for its contract with the Russian government. This was denied and it was stated that payment had been made in British securities and guaranteed by the British government. The stock, nevertheless, closed at a 3-point loss.

Support from the orders and a drive against the short interest caused a vigorous raily in the final dealings. Total sales amounted to 285,000 shares. Drillers and Refinery Men Are Now Buying BIG BEAR Oil Stock

BIG BEAR Oil Stock

Over $30,000.00 worth of Big Bear Oil
Co. stock has been purchased by Casper, Wyoming, people. Our two rigs are only 10 miles from Casper, so these men know how fast we are drilling and how close we are to a big production. The Big Bear Oil Co., though only five months old, is drilling two oil wells in the Big Muddy field. This rapid financing is due to the fact that it is a cooperative company, no officer receiving any salary or commission. Your money goes for actual drilling. Officers are efficient and recliable men. Because of the rapid sale of this stock, we offer it now at 12½ cents per share, reserving the right to reject your subscription and return your money if your subscription comes in after 100,000 shares are sold at this price. Stocks now selling for $40, at the start sold for 10 cents a share.
Capitalization is only $500,000; stock full paid and non-assessable. Sold on monthly payment plan if desired. Drilling in the famous Big Muddy field, where all wells drilled to Wall Creek sands are over, 500 barrels daily capacity. One 500-barrel well should make this stock sell in the dollars.
If you want some stock at the 12½-cent
price, write at once. Get literature, bank
