

CAMP CODY JUST LIKE BEE HIVE; TROOPS THROG

Omaha Corporal Writes The Bee Concerning Doings in New Mexico Town Where the Boys Are Camped.

By CORPORAL M. M. BALSAM.
Camp Cody, Deming, N. M., Sept. 3.—(By Mail.)—This happens to be Labor Day, and the folks are surely living up to it, inasmuch that they are certainly laboring.

Talk about bees in a hive, they have nothing on the swarm of human bees that crawl up, creep and almost hide the framework of the numerous buildings that dot the dusty plain. The hand of the magician seems to be everywhere. At a certain daybreak you may drill on the very spot which at retreat (nightfall) may sustain the weight of a mess hall, regimental hospital, or a Young Men's Christian association building.

The climate seems to affect very few of the boys, the worst instant being a case of nose-bleed, which has a refreshing effect instead of a depressing one. There's one thing that no one can take away from Deming and that is its dust. The dust clouds form spirally and lose themselves in the vast blue overhead.

Answer Muster Call.
Saturday the boys answered to the call of muster, and it's the one formation that is entered into, heart and soul. For muster means to the Sammie what Saturday night generally means to the laborer and mechanic. In other words, muster should be spelled "m-o-n-e-y." And when the actual cash is placed into the hands of the khaki boys, thirty (30) big, round, American iron men loom up before his eyes, and visions of delicacies result in itching palms, and joyous delirium.

And who can blame him? The Sammie has no regrets when it is all spent. The uppermost thought then is the space of time to the next pay-day. Sunday afternoon, the cowboys gave an exhibition at Outlaw park and the fun began when one of the fighting Fourth undertook to ride the famous wild horse Dynamite. When the former deposited himself on the bosom of mother earth, the khaki clad lads let out a yell that would have made the Comanche Indians blush for shame.

Praise Fourth Band.
Right here, let me put in a good word for the boys of the Fourth Nebraska band. The folks at home have something to be proud of. The concert the boys gave at the public square Saturday night was a real treat and the approval of the town folk was shown in the applause and comment.

This afternoon (Labor day) two self-appointed promoters staged a free boxing contest, which resulted in an actual circus, when Italy went into the ring with Bohemia. After pounding each other for about an hour, when both the men were practically exhausted, the bout was declared null and void, and Mr. Referee was declared the winner. The spectators, Companies A, B and C, thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and our mascots, Jack and Gilmore, voiced their approval in no gentle tones. Colonel (our collier) was not in attendance, being a little under the weather.

The prevailing style of headress down here, I'll leave for the folks at home to conjecture. Suffice it to say, that if anyone is in need of some hair for a mattress, their applications can be forwarded to the headquarters of the fighting Fourth and our famed tonsorial artists will attend to their wants.

"To Get Old Bill."
The sentiment of the boys in regard to the kaiser can be summed up in the following chorus, which is a paraphrase of Harvard's foot ball song known as "Our Director":
We have left behind us
To get old Bill,
We've left dear friends behind,
But come back soon we will.
When we get the kaiser
We will be through;
Once more we'll cheer for
The Red, White and Blue.

Tattoo is blowing and the boys outside my window (I am writing this in the mess hall, hence the window) are singing "There's no place like home, sweet home," so I guess I'd better leave off until tomorrow before I get the blues. In closing, readers, let me beg of you not to forget to write to your boys as often as you can. It's the least that you can do for them, and you cannot conceive the disappointment one feels when all around him, he sees smiling faces and shining eyes hungrily devouring the news from home.

Germany Already Feels

Shortage of Fuel Supply
Copenhagen, Sept. 8.—Difficulties with the winter supply of fuel in Germany already are being felt. The era of voluntary or compulsory selection of the fittest establishments for survival in various branches of trade and industry already has opened and business will be concentrated in these, while others will shut down, except those supplying heat and light. Butchers favor keeping their places open late two afternoons a week, otherwise to close with the sun. The jewelers plan to keep open only on those days when artificial light is unnecessary, which during the north German winter are very few. The city of Stettin already has suspended street lighting entirely on account of lack of coal.

Name Board to Find System For Crossing of Transports

Washington, Sept. 8.—A joint board of army and navy officers, headed by Captain William R. Shoemaker of the navy, has been appointed to work out a system to be employed in getting American troop transports across the Atlantic in safety. Necessarily its conclusions and recommendations will be regarded as confidential. Submarines have made an entirely new system of conveyance necessary. Presumably the board will incorporate into new regulations all that has been learned by the French and British navies in three years of actual warfare as to the best way of protecting troop ships.

Prof. P. R. Stevens, who will be head of the department of political science of the University of Omaha.

Omaha Man Elected to Board By Letter Carriers' Convention

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 8.—Election of officers and selection of Philadelphia as the 1919 biennial meeting place of the National Association of Letter Carriers, in convention here, was the principal business disposed of at tonight's session. E. J. Gainer of Muncie, Ind., was re-elected president without opposition.

W. Maher, Omaha, was elected a member of the executive board.

Malone Resigns Customs Job to Aid Cause of Woman's Suffrage

Washington, Sept. 8.—Dudley Field Malone, customs collector at New York, tendered his resignation to President Wilson today in protest against the failure of the president to advocate passage of the federal suffrage amendment and because he permitted the imprisonment of women who have been picketing the White House.

Counsel for Pickets.
Mr. Malone, who as counsel defended the first of the militants arraigned in police court here, told the president in his letter of resignation, that, inasmuch as he had promised the women of the suffrage states that he would exert all his energy to have the national democratic administration endorse suffrage by constitutional amendment, he felt obliged to resign and devote himself to redeeming that promise.

In quitting the office of collector of the port of New York, Mr. Malone leaves one of the best paid places in the government service. He is a son-in-law of former Senator O'Gorman. After detailing his experiences in campaigning for Wilson in the suffrage states, where the democratic party's negative attitude toward suffrage was a most difficult argument to meet, Mr. Malone continues his letter of resignation as follows:

"The present policy of the administration, in permitting splendid American women to be sent to jail in Washington, not for carrying offensive banners nor for picketing, but on the technical charge of obstructing traffic, is a denial even of their constitutional right to petition for, and demand the passage of, the federal suffrage amendment. It therefore, now becomes my profound obligation actively to keep my promise to the women of the west.

Cites England's Example.
"In more than twenty states it is a practical impossibility to amend the constitution, so the women of those states can only be enfranchised by the passage of the federal suffrage amendment. Since England and Russia in the midst of the great war have assured the national enfranchisement of their women, should we not be jealous to maintain our democratic leadership in the world by speedy national enfranchisement of American women?"

Time Men Helped Out.
"It seems a long seven years, Mr. President, since I first campaigned with you when you were running for governor of New Jersey. In every circumstance throughout those years I have served you with the most respectful affection and unshaded devotion. It is no small sacrifice now for me, as a member of your administration to sever our political relationship. But I think it is high time that men in this generation, at some cost to themselves, stood up to battle for the national enfranchisement of American women. So in order effectively to keep my promises made in the west and more freely to go into this larger field of democratic effort, I hereby resign my office as collector of the port of New York, to take effect at once, or at your earliest convenience.

"Yours respectfully,
"DUDLEY FIELD MALONE."

Y. M. C. A. Notes.
N. J. Weston and James Noble, new physical directors, began their work at the association this week. Mr. Weston, comes from Hull House in Chicago, to be head of the physical department, and Mr. Noble from Hastings is his chief assistant. Ed Burdick will be boys' physical director this year.

LABOR LOYALISTS ELECT OFFICERS

Conclude Session at Minneapolis With Choice of Gompers for President and Declaration of Principles.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 8.—The American Alliance for Labor and Democracy, organized three weeks ago with President Wilson's stamp of approval, concluded its big loyalty conference here tonight with the election of officers and the adoption of a declaration of principles.

The alliance, composed of the nation's labor leaders and having as its double purpose the crushing of disloyalty and the solidifying of labor in the war for democracy, elected as its leader Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

A committee was appointed to extend aid and encouragement to new Russia. It is composed of Mr. Gompers, Frank P. Walsh, John Spargo, former member of the executive committee of the socialist party, and James Duncan and Charles Edward Russell.

the latter two members of the American mission to Russia.

Declare Principles.
The declaration of principles of the alliance in part follows:
"The American Alliance of Labor and Democracy, in its first national conference, declares its unwavering adherence to the cause of democracy, now assailed by the forces of autocracy and militarism. As labor unionists, social reformers and socialists, we pledge our loyal support and service to the United States government and its allies in the present world conflict.

"We declare the one overshadowing issue is the preservation of the democracy. Either democracy will endure and men will be free or autocracy will triumph and the race will be enslaved. On this price issue we take our stand. We declare that the great war must be fought to a decisive result, that until autocracy is defeated there can be no hope of an honorable peace, and that to compromise the issue is only to sow the seed for bloodier and more devastating wars in the future.

Denounce Pacifists.
"We strongly denounce the words and actions of those enemies of the republic who falsely assuming to speak in the name of labor and democracy are striving to obstruct the operations of the government.

"Believing that the material interests of the nation's soldiers and sailors and of their dependents should be withdrawn from the realm of charity and chance, and that health and life should be fully insured, we endorse the soldiers' and sailors' insurance bill now before congress.

Endorse Suffrage.
"We declare for universal equal suffrage.

"Inspired by the ideals of liberty and justice herein declared as a fundamental basis or national policies, the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy makes its appeal to the workingmen and women of the United States and calls upon them to unite in unanimous support of the president and the nation for the prosecution of the war and the preservation of democracy."

The alliance elected this executive committee:

Frank P. Walsh, Kansas City; W. P. Ghent, Los Angeles; John Walker, Danville, Ill.; John Spargo, New York; William Edlin, New York; Mathew Wohl, Chicago; J. L. Shepard, Fort Scott, Kan.; James W. Mullen, San Francisco; James P. HOLLAN, New York; David J. Barry, Pittsburgh.
