

HE TURNS REAL COP WHEN TAKING STAR

New Officer Arrests Man Who He Says Sold Him Drinks Before His Appointment.

"Don't bite the hand that's feeding you" seems to be an expression unknown to Officer Daniel Morford, appointed to the police force last Friday. Morford, according to his own testimony, has obtained whisky a number of times at the soft drink parlor of Louis Cantoni, 723 South Sixteenth street. Last Sunday he met a friend of his named Emery Ebert from Nebraska City, and asked him if he wanted a drink. Ebert assented and both went to Cantoni's place at 3:30 Sunday afternoon. Morford asked Cantoni if he could get a drink, to which he received the reply that there was no whisky in the building at the time, but that he could get some.

At 5 o'clock Cantoni, ignorant of the fact that Morford had been appointed to the police force, gave him two glasses and one pop bottle of whisky, for which he received $1.15. To Cantoni's intense astonishment Morford then rose up and revealed himself in his true character and arrested him.

At the preliminary hearing in police court Tuesday morning Cantoni pleaded not guilty to the charge of keeping and selling intoxicating liquors. He was fined $100 and costs by Judge Fitzgerald, but appealed, and was bound over to the district court. He was released on $250 bonds.

Union Pacific Builds Costly Track in Utah

At a cost of $3,000,000 the Union Pacific has completed and opened to traffic its new second track between Wasatch and Emerson, Utah, a distance of sixteen miles. Construction work on this stretch of roadbed and track was commenced in April, 1916, under the direction of R. L. Huntley, with Kilpatrick Bros. & Collins of Omaha, general contractors.

While the new second track work on the Union Pacific does not materially shorten the distance between Omaha and the coast, it reduced a grade from 1.77 to 1.14 per cent on this particular portion of the system. In the sixteen miles there is one fill 1,000 feet long and 113 feet high containing 1,000,000 cubic yards of rock and earth. There are four tunnels, one of which is 1,000 feet in length. The new line is on the north side of the old and the grade is easy enough that single engines can pull as much over it as double-headers could over the old. The new grade will be used for eastbound and the old grade for the westbound business.

Freight Car Shortage Solved by Unit System

Railroad men are confident that the unit system of handling freight cars has solved the car shortage and that it has become a thing of the past. All railroad freight men assert that while the freight business moving in all directions is the heaviest in the history of the country, there is no car shortage. Under the pooling system empty freight cars are shunted from one road to another and as a result shippers in any locality are able to get cars on short notice.
