There was no general change of suffi-cient consequence to account for the reces-sion, which seemed to be due to the con-tinuing influence of conditions with which the market has been confronted for some time. The unsettlement in Russia, uncer-tainty as to the effect on accurities of govtainty as to the effect on accurities of governmental price fixing and of financial legislation and the firmness of money rates tended to prevent a revival of buying. The spreading of labor troubles in the shipbuilding industry attracted a good deal of attention in the stocks, but its effect was discounted largely by expectations of a speedy adjustment.

Some of the heaviest professional selling was in the steel group. Bethiehem Steel broke badly to a new low figure with a decline of 7 points to $3%. New low points also were reached by United States Steel, which was depressed 3% to 103% and by Midvale. The coppers also yielded readily to pressure and Utah, Inspiration and Smelting were forced down 2 points or more. Furthermore marked weakness appeared in the shipping shares.

In the railroad list St. Paul was again conspicuously weak, selling off 3% to a new adjustment.
