

WIRE WASHINGTON TO SAVE FARMERS

Effort is Being Made to Exempt Tillers of the Soil from Training Camp Until Corn is Husked.

"The saving of Nebraska's corn crop lies with the people of Nebraska," say members of the state draft board. "If the young farmers who have planted the corn and cultivated it are to be exempted from draft long enough to allow them to harvest the crop, they must convince the powers that be at Washington that their presence in the fields is vitally necessary now. They and their friends must write to Washington to anyone with influence there. Telegrams to Herbert Hoover and Wilson are suggested."

Many messages have already been sent to Washington in an effort to save the young farmers until the corn crop is husked. Drafted men can accomplish little by protesting to the state board, for that body is helpless, its original plan to exempt farmers having been overruled by Washington.

"Farmers and their friends, patriotic citizens of cities and towns in Nebraska must appeal to Washington, and that quickly, if the farmers are to be kept in the state long enough to harvest their crops," said Frank A. Kennedy of the board.

Many Present Claims.

The board has an enormous number of claims for exemption of farmers who will be taken from their fields at a critical time for the corn crop. "Most of these are legitimate claims," said Frank A. Kennedy. "Personally, I am in favor of exempting these young farmers till December 1, when the corn is safely husked. But the state board has been overruled in this matter and we cannot exempt farmers. The command must come from Washington."

"Those wanting farmers exempted till at least December 1 must act quickly. They must write Washington at once. When once convinced, Washington can settle the matter in an hour, if necessary. There is still time to get the exemption of the farmers to be sent to Fort Riley this week if their friends waste no time."

All Surface Tracks On

The Belt Line Doomed

All surface tracks where the Missouri Pacific belt line crosses Farnam, Douglas and Dodge streets are doomed. The city council passed a resolution ordering that all surface tracks be removed as soon as the elevated main line tracks are in operation.

The resolution was drawn up following receipt of protests from west side property owners and residents. The protests resulted from the installation of temporary surface tracks by the railroad.

The road installed the surface tracks without notifying the city council. When Commissioner Jardine discovered it, he tore up the tracks himself. Then the railroad requested permission to install them for service purposes in erecting the elevations.

This brought the protests from the west side, who feared all might not be well in these new surface tracks. The resolution passed by the city council eliminates any and all surface tracks. They must be removed by the railroad just as soon as the elevated main line tracks are in operation. Spur tracks for industries along the belt line are included. If the industries want spur tracks they, too, must be elevated.

Start Trial of Liquor

Cases in District Court

The first liquor appeal case—the state against James Kahout—was begun Monday morning before a jury in district court. Judge Estelle, presiding, is assigned to hear all appeals from lower court arising out of alleged violations of the liquor laws. There are nearly twenty liquor appeal cases to be tried before a jury. Special Prosecutor McGuire, appointed by Governor Neville to run down bootleggers in Omaha, represents the state in each case.

300 Driven From Homes

By Flood; Three Drowned

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 17.—Property damage reaching several hundred thousand dollars, heavy damage to crops and drowning of three negroes resulted from the heavy rains of the last few days in eastern North Carolina.

At Wallace a dam burst, driving approximately 300 people from their homes.

Society Women Use New Wrinkle Remover

Since the discovery that a solution of ordinary axolite and witch hazel has a peculiar effect upon wrinkled skins, it has been learned that many prominent society women all over the country have used this simple home treatment with great success. The formula is: powdered axolite, one ounce, dissolved in witch hazel, one-half pint. Use daily as a wash lotion.

The beneficial action of this wash is felt at once. There is an agreeable refreshing sensation and feeling of exhilaration. Flabbiness and all wrinkles are immediately affected, and the skin soon becomes firmer and more youthful looking. No one need hesitate to get the ingredients at the drug store and make the remedy herself, for there are no harmful effects whatever.—Adv.

Organization of Lucky Seventh Will Be Completed by Saturday

The Omaha battalion of the Seventh Nebraska National Guard reserve is now at minimum war strength, having passed the mark Saturday night, when every company in the battalion numbered seventy-eight men or over. Major Abbott and the other officers plan to make this a banner week for recruiting and mustering in. Tuesday Major Abbott will go to Springfield to muster in Company T. There will be a mass meeting in the interests of recruiting every night this week. On Friday Company G, the last company in the Omaha battalion, will be mustered in.

On Friday night the order of Stags will hold a recruiting rally in the Swedish auditorium. Saturday there will be a continuous all day recruiting rally at headquarters on Farnam. Fifty prominent Omaha men have offered their services—and voices, and all day there will be someone talking in front of the headquarters office.

Men of the second and third draft who have not yet received their notices to appear for examination may enlist in the Seventh Nebraska reserve guards. Every day men who are ordered to appear before the examining board hurry up to the recruiting office to enlist, but are too late. The time to come is before the notices are received.

Advantage of Volunteering

The advantages of volunteering for the regular army or for the guards instead of being drafted are well known, by now. The volunteer may choose his branch of the service and know just where he is going and what he is going to do. The drafted soldier must take what is given to him.

Married men may enlist in certain branches of the army now, providing their wives are not dependent. Orders to that effect came this morning to the army recruiting office in Omaha.

CORN BETTER AS HARVEST NEARS

Condition is Greatly Improved in Sections of the State Where Majority of Crop is Grown.

The Burlington railroad's crop report for the week ending last Saturday night indicates that corn is rapidly progressing toward maturity and that generally throughout the state it will be out of the way of frost by the last of this or the middle of next week.

Company agents report that in many sections of southern and central Nebraska corn has passed the danger line and that a light frost would be beneficial, stopping the growth and hastening the ripening.

With the exception of the McCook division of the Burlington system, the Nebraska corn crop is satisfactory. On that division that covers the southwestern corner of the state there has been a lack of rain and consequently the crop will fall below the average.

Figures on the condition of corn at the end of last week as compared with the condition at the end of the previous on the basis of 100 per cent for a perfect crop are:

Division	Last Week	Previous Week
Omaha	97	97
Lincoln	75	70
Wymore	88	75
McCook	41	65

The report indicates that in practically all localities where the corn will not make a heavy crop it is being cut and put into silage for feeding to stock.

They may enlist in the quartermasters' division, in the signal corps, in the ordnance, the medical department and the engineers' corps. This will let down the bars to a large number of men previously disqualified because they were married. If the wife will sign an affidavit that she is not dependent, the husband may then join any of the above divisions of the army.

Twenty young men, the last ones on the list at the navy recruiting station, were sent to the Great Lakes training station.

"The navy needs more men and needs them badly," said Ensign Condit, recruiting officer. "In some way an impression has gone abroad throughout the state that the navy has more men than it knows what to do with."

"That is entirely wrong and because of this false impression the Omaha office is falling down on its recruiting. Last week we had five less men to send than required of us, so this week we must make it up. We need men for every department of the navy and all who apply will be sent at once to a training school or to sea."

A group of five young men, all chums, applied for enlistment Saturday at the Seventh recruiting headquarters. The first four were accepted, but when the fifth took off his shirt for examination he disclosed a long scar on his shoulder. He had been cut by a scythe some years ago and, while perfect in every other way, had difficulty in raising his arm, so was rejected. When told he must stay behind while his chums went out to fight for their country, he broke down and cried in the recruiting office.

"I thought what a lesson he was to slackers," said Captain Higginson. "I never saw anyone so disappointed as he when rejected. He was a perfect specimen of manhood otherwise and we all regretted his rejection."

Powell Brings Back Big Tennis Cup Won at Meeting

Clarke G. Powell has returned from French Lick Springs, Ind., where he attended the convention of the National Association of Automobile Accessory Jobbers. This particular meeting was of special interest, as the association has just been indicted by the New York federal grand jury for restraint of trade.

Mr. Powell reports that the indictment was read at the meeting and that the jobbers' association feels that it has been innocent of evil and the fact that thirty-five new members were taken in at this meeting was an indication that those outside of the association and who were conversant with the history of the organization had the same feeling.

Incidentally Mr. Powell brought back with him a big silver cup put up as a trophy in a tennis tournament pulled off at French Lick.

Omaha Seminary Opens For the Year Wednesday

Omaha seminary will open for another year of theological work Wednesday. The special opening exercises will be held at 2 o'clock and the address of the occasion will be delivered by Prof. Charles A. Mitchell on "The Keynote of Christianity."

The new professor, Dr. Charles H. Ridgley, who has been called to succeed Dr. Joseph J. Lampe, retired, has arrived in the city and will take his place in the work of the seminary at once. Mrs. Charles S. Calkins, for several years an instructor in the Northwestern School of Expression, Chicago, will be at the head of the department of elocution this year.

Various repairs have been made on the building during the summer and a new gymnasium and also a refectory are nearing completion and may be viewed by visitors on opening day. The outlook for a large attendance is very encouraging.

SCHMOLLER BUYS HAYDEN'S PIANOS

Stock of Over 200 Pianos Sold for Cash; Also Buys Columbia Graphonolas and Records.

The Schmolter & Mueller Piano company has purchased Hayden Bros' entire stock of pianos, player pianos, band instruments, sheet music, musical merchandise and Columbia graphonolas and records. The deal is by far the largest transaction in the music business ever made in this part of the country.

"Our purchase," said Mr. Schmolter, "includes more than 200 pianos of the most celebrated makes, such as the world-renowned Knabe, standard for more than sixty years; the celebrated Sohmer & Co. piano, the sweet-toned Mehlen, the piano used more than any other in the public schools of New York; the J. & C. Fischer, the time-honored Estey, the Price & Temple and many other instruments handled by the Hayden Bros. firm exclusively."

"Hayden Bros. handled only the best instruments and the agencies they represented will be transferred to us. With our present line of Steinway and other standard pianos we will now show the largest line of standard pianos in the United States."

"The immense stock was bought for spot cash and will be removed to our establishment, 1311 to 1313 Farnam street. The goods will be placed on sale next Thursday morning at prices that lose sight of cost. Piano buyers of Omaha will have the chance of a lifetime to own high-grade instruments at savings of from $150 to $250. Such bargains in pianos have never before been offered in Omaha."

The Schmolter & Mueller company also bought Hayden's entire stock of Columbia graphonolas and records. The company is already the largest western dealer in this line, having more than 700 agencies in Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota. In addition to this wholesale business it has retail stores in Lincoln and Sioux City.

Hayden Bros. Sell to Keep Store on a Cash Basis

"We found that we could not well conduct our large piano department in conformance with our policy to run a strictly cash store in all departments," said Joseph Hayden in commenting on the sale of the Hayden Bros. piano stock. "We had to give up that branch of our business, because Hayden Bros. were the pioneers in the installation of a piano department in connection with a department store."

The room now occupied by the piano department will immediately be used to extend and enlarge the furniture department of Hayden Bros., giving a Douglas street entrance.

Medicated Alcohol Brings Six to Court

"Medicated Alcohol" in various prescription forms and sold at certain drug stores under license, was found to have been the cause of the downfall of six out of the morning's class in police court.

William Hallack said he suffered severe stomach troubles Saturday and secured the antidote in this form at the California Drug store at Sixteenth and California.

James Gillan, colored, "felt queer" all night and said he felt queer this morning and couldn't remember anything. He feared that he might have been "doped." He didn't remember whether it was medicated alcohol or not. The judge suggested that he might have been "camouflaged." Gillan thought that that might be it and the judge fined him $10 and costs.

ONLY A THIRD OF JURYMEN REPORT

Call to War Cuts Down Number Available When Fall Term of Court is Opened Here.

Enlistments in the army and navy and the draft cut down appreciably the number of jurymen available for duty for the fall term of district court, which opened yesterday. Out of the 150 veniremen drawn only ninety-six reported for duty. Several jurymen were excused for a day or so and several were told they would not have to report for duty until next week.

Judge Sears, presiding judge, sent out jurymen to four court rooms. If other district judges had asked for a jury on the opening day of the fall term they would have been disappointed, for there were no more veniremen available after four panels had been sworn in.

A couple of business men drawn for jury duty did not report. One of them left on his vacation after the notice summoning him for jury duty was received, according to Election Commissioner Moorhead. The election commissioner said he would send a telegram notifying this particular business man to report at once and declared he would send the sheriff after him if he failed to do so.

"Unless they are excused by Judge Sears, citizens drawn for jury duty must report, no matter who they are," declared Mr. Moorhead.

Omaha Ambulance Corps To Be Sent to Fort Taylor

Orders have been received by the Omaha ambulance company to get ready to entrain for Fort Taylor, at Louisville, Ky.

"As yet the time of leaving is unknown," said Sergeant Mattson. "We will probably go tomorrow or the next day. We are waiting now for a special train. When we leave we will go by way of St. Louis."

New High Mark is Set For Lambs for Feeders

Feeder lambs sold for $18.35 on the Omaha market, the highest price ever paid anywhere for lambs for the feed lots.

No Home to Fight For; Will Fight for Humanity

A young man from Texas who had been stolen in childhood and knew nothing of his parents, a young man who had no home and no friends to notify if wounded, applied yesterday to Captain Fred Higginson of the Lucky Seventh to enlist.

"He is a fine young fellow and we were glad to take him in," said Captain Higginson, today. "I learned of his unusual history when I asked him whom to notify in case of illness or death, as called for in the recruiting blank."

"I have no relatives," he said, "but I wish you would then notify the governor of the state of Texas and ask him to try to find my parents."

When two years old, Will Medlin, as he thinks his name is, was stolen from home. There are but two incidents of his baby life that he can recall now. One was that he had some defect in speech for which a doctor came and cut his tongue—probably he was tongue-tied. The other is that his father, the day before he was stolen, was brought home on a stretcher.

The next morning the little fellow woke up in a strange place and never again saw his relatives. As soon as he could, he ran away and has knocked around the world alone most of his life. He has little education, though the home he remembers was one of refinement and prosperity. While he is not sure what his name is, he has got an idea in some way that his father's name was Press Medlin and that he was at one time, United States deputy marshal.

"Although he has no home to fight for, he wants to help protect some other boy's home and parents," said Captain Higginson. He has no one to write to him and no one—except the governor of the state of Texas—to notify if killed or wounded."
