

Society

ONE OF WELLER GIRLS MARRIED WEDNESDAY.

MRS. DEAN DAVIDSON.

By MELLIFICIA—Sept. 19

Color of Yarn Tells Tale.

Did you know that you can tell a patriotic knitter by the color of her yarn?

The pretty young woman who extracts from her poppy strewn knitting bag a nondescript wad of pink wool cannot get away with a reputation for patriotism. They don't wear pink sweaters in the army.

In the army the want gray or khaki colored sweaters. The navy's color is preferably gray, although blue will be accepted. The marines ask for khaki-colored sweaters. So the rainbow-hued wool is outlawed.

Neither does the mere display of one of those billowy, blossomy bags guarantee the owner's undiluted devotion to national duty. They have been known to hide a half-embroidered table cover—even a pair of dancing slippers," says Florence Marshall, director of the women's bureau of the Red Cross. "American women must knit madly these days if our soldiers, sailors and airmen are to be kept warm this winter," she announces.

Here is the code of the army of women knitters:

"Our army and navy need 1,000,000 knitters in the next six months.

"Knitting colors for the army are gray or khaki.

"Knitting colors for the navy are blue or gray.

"Knitting color for the marines is khaki.

"Knitting colors for selfish knitters are pale pink and purple.

"Not to know how to knit argues yourself unknown."

A really accomplished knitter need watch her needles no more than a pianist or a touch typist her keys. She can knit and watch the children, knit and read (Miss Hedwig Rosenstock is an Omaha girl, who has reached this stage of expertise), knit and study law (Miss Mona Cowell can do it)—and, above all, knit and talk!

For Mr. and Mrs. Rogers.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Gifford will entertain at dinner for Mr. and Mrs. William R. Rogers of Trenton, N. J., who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rogers. Thursday evening they will be the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Swobbe. The Princeton luncheon planned for Mr. Rogers has been given up because of their departure Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will spend the week-end in Detroit with their nephew, enroute east.

Army Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grant of Seattle, Wash., arrived Tuesday to visit Mr. Grant's parents, Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Grant.

Captain Taylor Belcher, who has been stationed at Fort Bliss since his departure from Omaha last June, is now stationed at Deming, N. M., with the Nebraska troops. Captain Belcher is written to Omaha friends that there are 11,000 troops there now and soon will be 17,000. He is in charge of seventy-two motor cycles, thirty touring cars, thirty-two trucks and two roadsters, he writes. He traveled overland from Fort Bliss to Deming.

Mr. Robert Wood, son of Mrs. B. B. Wood, who is stationed at Little Silver, N. J., with the signal corps, writes home of the wonderful hospitality of eastern people to the soldiers. He said, "Don't worry, mother, a minute about me. We are treated royally and everything is fine. The wealthy people are continually bringing us good things to eat or furnishing us with entertainment at their homes." Mr. Wood expects to be called to France before long.

At the Field Club.

Twenty-five tables were placed for the bridge tournament at the Field club yesterday afternoon, which was the last one of the season. Mrs. J. S. Hildreth won a picture; Mrs. M. M. Murray, a silver cheese dish; Mrs. J. E. Parsons, a rose picture frame; Mrs. F. Rush, a violet vase; Mrs. R. E. Trapp, a pair of kid gloves; Miss Della Murphy, an electric lamp; and Mrs. H. W. Cowdrey, a rose jar.

At Prettiest Mile Club.

Mrs. Walter Meyer entertained members of the W. D. K. club at a 4 o'clock coffee at the Prettiest Mile club.

At the Field Club.

Mr. Harry Steele will have twelve guests for Saturday evening. F. H. Wilson will have nine, W. B. Buck ten, L. N. Pegau eighteen and eighteen people will have a Dutch treat dinner party.

Informal Entertaining.

A farewell supper party was given last evening in honor of Hegman Gurstein, who leaves tonight, with Ambulance Company 35, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rimmerman.

Mrs. Celia Shelmire of Meridian, Missa, was the honor guest at a luncheon given Tuesday by Mrs. F. B. Palmer. Covers were laid for eight guests and the table was decorated in goldenrod. Mrs. Adrya Locke Kimball gave several readings during the afternoon. Mrs. Palmer will entertain at a Kensington Friday afternoon for Mrs. Shelmire.

Hospital Romance.

A hospital romance was that of Miss Grace Stadell and Mr. James Leagon, who were secretly married Tuesday morning at the court house. Miss Stadell was a nurse at the Wise Memorial hospital and Mr. Leagon was her patient. She was in the senior class and would have graduated this year.

Miss Viola Barton and Miss Clara Nelson, friends of the bride, were the

Do Hearts Break For Love?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

"I've nothing to live for. I'll never care for any other man. I don't see why I couldn't have had his love—it's the one thing I've ever really wanted," sobbed Mabel.

In the midst of trying to console her, a thought darted through my brain. At least ten times a day I read the same complaint coming from other girls—and almost as many disconsolate men and boys pen the unhappy refrain: "Life isn't worth living without her."

Some people find a delicious sense of luxury in considering themselves the unhappiest beings in all the world. If any who read really enjoy the "luxury" of being miserable and insist on cherishing a blighted affection, a tragically misplaced love, or a mournful memory, let them stop reading now; for I am about to try to dispel the magnificent glory of all "blighted beings."

First of all I will have to confess that there are individuals who pine away and die for lack of the love of a certain other individual. But those individuals will have to make a confession in turn: They are weak, to say the least—spineless and anemic, to say the most.

A healthy, sane, normal individual cannot and does not make the attempt to put all of life on an emotional basis. Such a person knows that living takes in several departments.

There is the need of food and shelter, which you earn and deserve if you expect somebody else to earn them for you. Then there are necessary social relations with family and friends. There is the natural craving to find some expression for your own personality; the human desire to do right; the wish to avoid loneliness; the longing for pleasure and all the lesser social activities.

In a world where you have to eat, sleep, earn your living, select your clothes, get on with your neighbors and make some effort merely to get on, love cannot fill all of life. When love comes the other things are crowded more or less into a corner. If love goes the wise individual gets the other things out of the corner and encourages them to expand.

Recently a friend of mine went to live in a family where there was an only son. It seemed very natural to everybody concerned that Jack should be nice to Leonore. Their families had known each other in the dim days before Leonore's people moved out to Ohio. When she came to New York, friendless and alone, she went to live with the Fletchers, and the Fletchers were delighted at Jack's brotherly interest in their young boarder.

Leonore felt first gratitude, then devotion and then a great surge of very deep and very real love. Jack did nothing in particular to commit himself, but all his kindness and friendliness made Leonore come to care for him with a almost desperate intensity.

When business took him down to Florida for two months, Leonore made a great struggle to hide from his people her longing for him. He wrote to her occasionally, even as to his sisters, and he never forgot her in his letters home. There was always a message for Leonore, and she could not help building for herself a wonderful little romance of hope and happiness.

And then came a telegram from Jack: "Home Wednesday. Bringing Mrs. John Fletcher with me. Letter follows."

And the letter told all about the most wonderful girl in the world, while Leonore—supposing herself the most unhappy girl in the world, sat in tortured silence and listened.

The weeks which followed were an agonizing struggle to hide her grief from the unconscious eyes about her, to have her own pride, and to endure her misery. Jack and his bride did not live at home, but they came in for devotion and then a great surge of very deep and very real love. Jack did nothing in particular to commit himself, but all his kindness and friendliness made Leonore come to care for him with a almost desperate intensity.

When business took him down to Florida for two months, Leonore made a great struggle to hide from his people her longing for him. He wrote to her occasionally, even as to his sisters, and he never forgot her in his letters home. There was always a message for Leonore, and she could not help building for herself a wonderful little romance of hope and happiness.

And then came a telegram from Jack: "Home Wednesday. Bringing Mrs. John Fletcher with me. Letter follows."

And the letter told all about the most wonderful girl in the world, while Leonore—supposing herself the most unhappy girl in the world, sat in tortured silence and listened.

The weeks which followed were an agonizing struggle to hide her grief from the unconscious eyes about her, to have her own pride, and to endure her misery. Jack and his bride did not live at home, but they came in for devotion and then a great surge of very deep and very real love. Jack did nothing in particular to commit himself, but all his kindness and friendliness made Leonore come to care for him with a almost desperate intensity.

When business took him down to Florida for two months, Leonore made a great struggle to hide from his people her longing for him. He wrote to her occasionally, even as to his sisters, and he never forgot her in his letters home. There was always a message for Leonore, and she could not help building for herself a wonderful little romance of hope and happiness.

And then came a telegram from Jack: "Home Wednesday. Bringing Mrs. John Fletcher with me. Letter follows."

And the letter told all about the most wonderful girl in the world, while Leonore—supposing herself the most unhappy girl in the world, sat in tortured silence and listened.

The weeks which followed were an agonizing struggle to hide her grief from the unconscious eyes about her, to have her own pride, and to endure her misery. Jack and his bride did not live at home, but they came in for devotion and then a great surge of very deep and very real love. Jack did nothing in particular to commit himself, but all his kindness and friendliness made Leonore come to care for him with a almost desperate intensity.

When business took him down to Florida for two months, Leonore made a great struggle to hide from his people her longing for him. He wrote to her occasionally, even as to his sisters, and he never forgot her in his letters home. There was always a message for Leonore, and she could not help building for herself a wonderful little romance of hope and happiness.

And then came a telegram from Jack: "Home Wednesday. Bringing Mrs. John Fletcher with me. Letter follows."

And the letter told all about the most wonderful girl in the world, while Leonore—supposing herself the most unhappy girl in the world, sat in tortured silence and listened.

The weeks which followed were an agonizing struggle to hide her grief from the unconscious eyes about her, to have her own pride, and to endure her misery. Jack and his bride did not live at home, but they came in for

Smart, Stylish, Satisfying

BLACK panne velvet—a pair of scissors to slash it, gold braid to deck it, deft fingers to curve it smartly—and you have this simple, but good-looking hat.

LINE upon line, precept upon precept, go the rows of black gros-grain—and surmounting the turban is a little mass of dashing coque feathers. All of which tend to show how far a turban can go.

for Sunday dinners and for two or three meals a week.

Leonore grew daily more miserable. She contemplated all sorts of desperate deeds, going to Jack and telling him of her love; disappearing and never being found again; starting up an affair with the first man she met; and just pinning away and dying were among them.

When she could endure the situation no longer, Leonore honored me with her confidence. And together we worked out a plan. This was it, environment. It is easy enough to remember your troubles without putting yourself in a position where everything forces you to think of them and where nothing allows you to forget.

So we looked up a pleasant boarding place for Leonore—one nearer her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

Then Leonora, who had been "studying art," went around to the various shops and kept merrily at her work. In order to avoid any hurt feelings, we took Mother Fletcher into our confidence and she helped out the situation by deciding that Jack and Elsie ought to keep down expenses by living at home. So, of course, "with much regret, etc.," she had to tell Leonore that much as they all loved her, there really wasn't room for her in the household.

always something left to live for. Hearts do not break. No one can wreck our lives. We ourselves can utterly ruin them if we choose. But what possible object is there in making a choice like that?

Waiting for Returns.

"How is that woman bill collector we hired getting along?" "Hain't turned in anything yet. She called on several of our customers once, and now I guess she's waiting until her calls are returned."—Boston Transcript.

Chambers' School

OF DANCING. HOTEL CASTLE, REOPENS. Adult, advanced, Tues. Sept. 25, 8 p. m. Adult, beginners, Thurs. Sept. 27, 8 p. m. High School, Sat. Sept. 29, 10 a. m. Children's Social Class, Sat. Sept. 29, 2 p. m. Children's Class, Sat. Sept. 29, 10 a. m. Ladies Class, Wed. Sept. 26, 10:30 a. m.—Circulars, Studio, Doug. 1871. Res. Walnut 521

Persistent Advertising Is the Road to Success.

Big Values In Our Huge CLOTHING SECTION

DUE to our inexpensive location, we are able to offer the Men and Women of Omaha classy apparel at less money than any other store. Our buying power and ability to take advantage of market conditions is another big item to consider when purchasing your Fall togs.

DRESSES

Serges, in colors—blue, gray and brown..... $9.95
Extra Fine Values in Groups, at—$14.95 to $24.50

LADIES' ONYX FIBER SILK HOSIERY—In all colors, 50c 29c values

Pay Only $1.00 or so a Week on Any Purchase You Make.

New Suits for the Ladies, Exceptional Values at—$15, $18.50, $22.50 and up

NEW FALL SUITS AND OVERCOATS

Priced at—
$15.00, $18.50, $20.00, $22.50 and $25.00.

UNION OUTFITTING CO

S. E. COR. SIXTEENTH AND JACKSON STREETS

THE PEOPLE'S STORE. OPPOSITE HOTEL ROME.

Armour's STAR

THE HAM WHAT AM

The Domestic Science Teacher Says:
"And when you buy ham, specify Armour's Star in the Stockinet Covering. For its rich, natural juices are all conserved and it cooks better and comes to your table with a better flavor."
"Here, in this Stockinet Covering, you have the principle of conservation applied to a single food product. Because, due to the Stockinet, there is no waste of meat or taste."
Buy a whole Star Ham. It's economical.
ARMOUR'S COMPANY
Robt. Budatz, Mgr., 13th & Jones, Omaha, Doug. 1055
H. F. Lefferts, 29th and Q Sts. South 1740.
Armour's Star is a mark of highest food quality. It appears on a full line of first-class package foods.

NEW HEAD OF DOUGLAS COUNTY W. C. T. U.

Mrs. J. M. Taliaferro

Mrs. J. M. Taliaferro was elected president of the Douglas county Women's Christian Temperance union at the annual convention, which was held here yesterday at the Young Men's Christian association. Mrs. Horace G. Claggett was chosen vice president, Mrs. L. C. Banner of the South Side corresponding secretary, Mrs. Daisy Dunlop recording secretary and Mrs. Anna Whitney of Valley, Neb., treasurer.

More than 100 delegates were present, every chapter in the county being represented but Valley.

EAT SKINNER'S

THE BEST MACARONI

Coat fresh eggs now with Egg-o-Latum, a soft, white anti-septic wax, and they'll remain fresh all winter.
No evaporation, no air-cell, no contracted odors, no deterioration: yolk remains whole and in center; poaching, boiling, frying and heating as if under a week. Coating easily removed—disappears in boiling. 50-cent jar coats 50 dozen eggs.
At most drugists or direct from us.
GEO. H. LEE CO., 1115 Harney.

Safe Milk

for Infants and Invalids

HORLICK'S

THE ORIGINAL MALTED MILK

Rich milk, malted grain, in powder form. For infants, invalids and growing children. Pure nutrition, upbuilding the whole body. Invigorates nursing mothers and the aged. More nutritious than tea, coffee, etc. Instantly prepared. Requires no cooking. Substitutes Cost YOU Same Price

Winter Eggs at Summer Prices

Records for twenty years show December and January eggs at least twice the price of those of the previous summer. That means 80c to $1.00 eggs next winter.

Save 100%

Coat fresh eggs now with Egg-o-Latum, a soft, white anti-septic wax, and they'll remain fresh all winter.

No evaporation, no air-cell, no contracted odors, no deterioration: yolk remains whole and in center; poaching, boiling, frying and heating as if under a week. Coating easily removed—disappears in boiling. 50-cent jar coats 50 dozen eggs.

At most drugists or direct from us.

GEO. H. LEE CO., 1115 Harney.

AK-SAR-BEN

The One Big Patriotic Fun Feature of the Season

To Be Held in Omaha for the Twenty-Third Consecutive Season.

FROM
September 26 to October 6

Ten Days of Innocent Hilarity in Which Every Loyal Citizen Is Interested.

WORTHAM'S BIG CARNIVAL

Continuous shows daily from 11 to 11. No let up. Something doing all the time. Confetti, too.

THE BIG ELECTRIC PARADE WEDNESDAY EVENING

October Third
The Theme:
"TRIUMPH OF DEMOCRACY"
The most wonderful scheme ever worked out during all the years of these great parades.

AN AFTERNOON PARADE THURSDAY

October Fourth
Will Be Known as
"WORLD'S LIBERTY PARADE"
Including floats of spectacular design, marchers of the different Allies, and last but not least, UNCLE SAM and his boys.

THURSDAY EVENING FROM 8 to 10 AT ROURKE'S PARK

One of the greatest Fireworks Spectacles this country has ever known will be shown:
AK-SAR-BEN'S BIG MILITARY FIREWORKS SPECTACLE

GRAND CORONATION BALL FRIDAY

October Fifth
Ak-Sar-Ben never wears; its joys are always new. The snappy Fall days are Nature's tribute to the festival spirit which SAMSON decrees shall reign once each year for this short time.
Information Bureau for Hotel Accommodations.