Stars Who Will Shine on Screen for Omaha This Week

Bills for Current Week

Muse—"The Ten of Diamonds" with Dorothy Dalton, "Idolaters" with Louise Glauum and "Babbling Tongues" with an all-star cast, are the three extraordinary photoplays at the Muse this week. Today and Monday "The Ten of Diamonds" will be the attraction. A woman's life is often radically changed by a change of companionship and environment and on this fact this story is built. "Idolaters" will be screened on Tuesday and Wednesday. The story tells of two girls who leave Chicago for New York on an equal footing, both determined to have their names emblazoned on Broadway in electric lights. Thursday, Friday and Saturday a super photoplay on modern society "Babbling Tongues" with Grace Valentine and James Morrison in a cast that has been chosen for each part. In this photoplay a happy home is seen broken up, even murder is committed, ruin is brought upon many through the gossip of two people.

GRAND THEATER BEAUTIFUL
Today
LITTLE MADGE EVANS in THE LITTLE DUCHESS
Thursday
DUSTIN FARNUM in 'Durand of the Bad Lands'

Mme. Petrova appears in a rich colorful story of historic Corsica. Mme. Petrova has the part of a woman of mystery and in this story of love and vengeance she has a part that is well fitted to her foreign type of beauty and acting. The Drews are on this program in their latest comic comedy "Music Hath Charms." "When False Tongues Speak"—a William Fox production, starring Virginia Pearson is the feature attraction for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Strand—Two unusually well known plays and players hold forth at the Strand this week, commencing today, when Mae Marsh will be seen in Edna Mayo's classic of the white tops, "Polly of the Circus," for which Manager Thomas has provided a special stage setting, as well as musical program. This is the first of the Golden features shown in Omaha, and is said to be unusually entertaining, interesting and novel. Thursday till Saturday comes the Yankee Doodle boy, George M. Cohan himself, in his great stage success, "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Next week's stars are George M. Cohan in "Lost in Transit," and Mary Pickford in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

Empress—The feature photoplay to be presented at the Empress theater for the first half of the week is "An Alabaster Boy" from the novel by Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, featuring Alice Joyce and Marc MacDermott. The story is quaint and quaintly told of a woman's devotion to a man under conditions that arouse suspicion of curious villagers. And out of that grow many interesting and dramatic situations. It has been well staged and gives splendid opportunity for the stars and the company supporting them.

Hipp—A good comedy drama, featuring Herbert Rawlinson and Ruth Clifford "Flirting with Death" will be the photoplay offering at this theater today and Monday. It is a Bluebird production and tells a delightful story of the circus, and particularly of two "starkers" who were finally arrested. Tuesday and Wednesday will be seen Alice Joyce and Harry Morey in a Greater Vitaphone production "Richard the Lion Heart." Thursday, Antonio Moreno in "A Son of the Hills," and the eleventh chapter of "The Gray Ghost," featuring Eddy Polo and Priscilla Dean. Friday and Saturday is Butterfly day, with Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber in "The Spindle of Life." The scenes are laid in a beautiful country, and the story is one that is promised to hold the attention throughout.

Boulevard—"The Clodhopper," starring Charles Ray, will be here today. This star in the role of a country boy, who goes to the city and makes good. A two-reel feature is also shown, "Her Circus Knight," which stars Ora Carew. Monday Gail Kane in "Souls in Pawn." Tuesday, Mary Pickford in "The Pride of the Clan." Wednesday, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in a Metro play, "In the Diplomatic Service." Thursday, Marie Osborne in "Captain Kiddo." Friday, William Desmond in "The Paws of the Bear." Saturday, Enid Bennett in "Happiness."

Apello—Two well worth while productions will be shown here today. Antonio Moreno and Mary Anderson will be seen in "By Right of Possession," a comedy drama with scenes laid in the far west. Fatty Arbuckle will appear in his latest offering, "His Wedding Night." Jack Pickford and Vivian Martin appear in "What Money Can't Buy." Friday, Baby Marie Osborne in "Tears and Smiles."

Grand—A picture that should please is "The Little Duchess," the attraction here today, featuring Little Madge Evans. A good comedy will also be on the bill. Monday Gladys Hulette in "Pots and Pans Peggy," a human story with many comedy touches.

Alhambra—A big double show will be presented here today. Dorothy Dalton will be shown in the Triangle play, "The Flame of the Yukon," the setting of which is in Alaska, country of romance and thrills. Then for the comedy portion will be Billy West, who makes his initial debut at this theater in "The Hero." It is made for laughing purposes only. Monday William Desmond in "Time Locks and Diamonds."

Suburban—A play based on an international spy system will be the photoplay attraction here today. It is "Souls in Pawn," starring Gail Kane. The locale is in France and is laid just before the outbreak of the war.

TRIXIE FRIGANZA's visit to Balboa studio the other day recalled to Molly McConnell, Balboa's grand dame, an incident that happened at her home in New York City ten years ago. Miss McConnell was giving a chicken dinner to Marie Dressler and a few friends. Miss Friganza was Miss Dressler's guest and went along. She had never met Miss McConnell, and arriving at the McConnell apartment introduced herself: "I just had to have some of that chicken and here I am, Trixie Friganza in person. Throw me out on my feed me chicken." Trixie was fed. After dinner Trixie said to Miss Dressler: "Well, Marie, I've been irritating you for years, but you have me beating at eating I can't imitate you." "No," answered Marie, "and you can't do this either," and the Dressler tucked her skirts tightly between her knees and turned six wagon wheels around the room. Did Trixie imitate her? She didn't.

Reports show that at every theater where the William Fox play, "The Spy," is shown which stars Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, there is always a large percentage of soldiers in the audience. The motion picture revelation of German secret service methods appeals especially to the men in uniform.

The Vitaphone company denies the rumor that Helen Holmes visited their new serial starring William Duncan and Carol Holloway, will be extended from fifteen to twenty episodes, as they have already started on a new serial with these same two players.

On September 14 Helen Holmes visited the state fair at Sacramento, it being Helen Holmes day, and the daring young actress received a great reception. Director P. McDonough staged a terrific wreck between two engines and a camera recorded the scene. The party autoed over from Merced, where Holmes are being taken for "The Lost Express."

Herbert Rawlinson is acting in his fourth big starring vehicle, "All in the Row." The picture, "The Flash of Fate," is a strong melodramatic offering with powerful acting, and few of the lighter touches which are associated with this young actor's work. The other day a stranger asked him what he done for a living. "Work," said Herbert.

"They're either good or rotten." That's the way a certain director grades the motion picture actor body. This same director used to be an actor once and he ought to know. He also formerly was a cotton buyer and he says: Cotton is graded as ordinary, good ordinary, low middling, middling, good middling, middling fair. In my opinion movie actors ought to be graded like cotton, but the public has graded them good or rotten, and I suppose that'll have to stand. "How should directors be graded?" inquired the fan-faced boob.

The King Bee Film company, which has heretofore confined itself to the making of two-reel comedies starring Eddy Polo, is making ready for the production of a five-reel with West, based on the story of King Solomon. It is also reported that he has written the book music of musical comedy, "Well I'll Be Darned," described in three knots.

If permission can be obtained, the forthcoming world's series base ball games will figure prominently in a big contribution reported under way at the crucial point attached to some of the main incidents of the game to be the dominating sensational either at bat or in the field. There is talk that Bonnie Kauff will be chosen.

present world war. Special attention is called to the attraction billed for Wednesday, George Walsh in "Some Boy."
Bohlf—A play that should appeal especially to women is "The Exhilaration." Governor offered here today with Wilfred Lucas and Alida Miller as the stars. Monday Edna Mayo in "The Return of Eve." Tuesday, George Walsh, Wednesday, Ethel Barrymore in "The Call of Her People." Thursday, Mary Pickford in "The Little American." Friday, Louise Glauum. Saturday, Gladys Hulette in "Pots and Pans Peggy," with the eleventh chapter of "The Fatal Ring."

ARE you interested in comparisons? Every person is. Here is one that is significant. "The Iron Claw" has held the record as the most successful serial. Up to date "THE FATAL RING" is a better box office attraction than "The Iron Claw." "THE FATAL RING" stands at the head of the list, overshadowing all other serials. Almost everyone is following this thrilling, absorbing motion picture drama, in which Pearl White and Warner Oland are repeating their former great successes. You can't afford to miss it.
