Asks Restraining Order

To Save Law Library John E. Von Dorn, Omaha lawyer who burst into the limelight recently when Judge Day, sitting in divorce court, ruled Mrs. Louise E. Von Dorn, who divorced him in 1911, was his legal wife, has begun court action against wife No. 1 and her attorney, J. M. McFarland.

He asks an injunction restraining them from taking possession of his law library, which he says is highly necessary in his law practice. He alleges wife No. I and her attorney are "trying to humiliate him and put him out of business." Von Dorn says he already has turned over to his first wife property and alimony totaling $10,000.

He has remarried.

Will File Information

Against Slacker Suspects Deputy United States Attorney Saxton is preparing to file "informations" against fifty alleged slackers now under arrest in various parts of Nebraska north of the Platte river.

This is a procedure taking the place of the complaints issued before the meeting of the federal grand jury which will indict these men. They will be arraigned before the federal judge. If they plead guilty they will be sentenced. The law provides a prison term of one year. Those who are drawn in the draft before their terms expire will be released to the army. Those who plead not guilty will be given a trial.

Artistic Picture Will Be Shown on Carnival Grounds

"Stella," one of the features at the world's fair in San Francisco, will undoubtedly be a center of attractin at the Ak-Sar-Ben carnival.

Mr. Wortham has secured this phenomenon of realistic art, which critics have classed among the wonders of the century. Thousands who saw the picture at San Francisco declared it to be a living woman and some of them were so positive in their skepticism that they refused to be convinced of their error.

"Stella" is the ideal of a poet's dream; an inspiration which comes of one artist in a million, and once in life time only.

BEFORE CONFEREES Result of Hearing in Washington is That Acceptance of Contract Will Be Probably Recommended

(From a Staff Correspondent.) Washington, Sept. 25 .- (Special Telegrain.)-In a conference lasting two hours yesterday the representatives of farmers holding under the canal in Scottsbluff and Harlan counties, Nebraska, and the attorneys for the bondholders endeavored to iron out their differences. Mr. Wright, the resident representative of the bondholders, was present, associated with Judge J. J. Sullivan of Omaha, who was instrumental in working out the so-called Omaha agreement which is now the bone of contention on the part of the bondholders. Attorneys Hawkins and Donham of New York, together with Mr. Alexander, one of the largest bondholders, completed the New York end of the controversy. The bearing was before Mr. Bradley, assistant to Secretary Lane of the Department of the Interior, the department being still further represented by Messrs. King and David of the Reclamation Service and Solicitors Finney and Mehaffey.

The main contention of the at-torneys for the bondholders was that the Nebraska statute passed for the express purpose of permitting the district to enter into a contract with the bondholders was unconstitutional. Later it developed that even though the act was declared constitutional, NO WAGE REDUCTION the bondholders were seeking better terms than contained in the Omaha Congressman Reavis agreement. contended that it was the duty of the secretary of the interior to approve the contract, which position Representative Sloan amplified by having a good natured "run in" with Judge Sullivan.

As a result of the hearing it is believed that Assistant Secretary Bradley will recommend to the secretary the contract be accepted unless in the meantime the representatives of the several interests get together and formulate a contract that will be acceptable to everybody.
