

GERMANS EARN ODDIOUS NAME OF 'HUNS,' SAYS T.R.

Barbarous Actions in Belgium and Northern France Merit It; Model for Turks' Brutal Tactics.

(By Associated Press.)
Racine, Wis., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt tonight attacked German militarism in a characteristic speech before an immense audience at the Auditorium. He spoke under the auspices of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities. He said in part:

"We are now at war with a great military despotism. We absolutely failed to prepare for this war, although it seems inconceivable that any man could have been so foolish and so blind as not to perceive its likelihood, at any rate, after February, 1915, when Germany began her submarine war of wholesale murder against noncombatants, including the innocent women and children of our own people. From that time any American who directly or indirectly upheld Germany was a treacherous enemy to this republic, or else the dupe of some treacherous enemy. It is these treacherous enemies of our own household who are responsible for the fact that we are now in danger from the foreign foe. It is the Hun within our own gates from whom we have the most to fear, for he is the tool and ally of the Hun without."

All Aid the Enemy.
"It matters not whether he is a wealthy man who organizes peace societies or fits out peace ships in order to bring about a peace that would be in the interest of the brutal aggressor and would inflict lasting shame and wrong upon us and upon all civilized mankind; or whether he is a foolish pacifist agitator, whose activities are increased and rendered more noxious by the patronage of such a wealthy man; or whether he is an industrial worker of the world leader, who is against all government and all civilization and all orderly liberty and gleefully does the work of Germany against us exactly as he would do the work of the worst tribe of barbarians against us if he got the chance, or whether he is a German socialist, who in this country has helped turn the socialist party machine into a tool of the German autocracy and the enemy not only of American liberty and democracy, but of liberty and democracy throughout the world; or whether he appears at the head of some German-American alliance or similar organization which openly before the war and now more covertly but no less dangerously, works for Germany against America."

Huns Within Our Gates.
"All these men are the foes of our own household. They are the Huns within our gates.
"I ask you to remember that when we use the word Hun to describe the German of the present day who does the bidding of the Hohenzollerns, we are using the term not as one of abuse applied by an enemy, but as a properly descriptive term, quoted from the kaiser himself. When the German troops went to China, the kaiser addressed them as follows: "When you meet the foe you will defeat him. No quarter will be given—no prisoners will be taken. Just as the Huns a thousand years ago under Attila gained a reputation in virtue of which they still live in historical tradition, so may the name of Germany become known in such a manner in China, that no Chinaman will ever again dare to look askance at a German."

"This was an official order from the highest German authority that the German soldiers should behave like Huns. They did so behave. They then earned the name of Huns. They have since earned the right to be called Huns by the way they have since behaved in Belgium and northern France; in the murderous air raids on England, with their deliberately planned butcheries of women, children and noncombatant men; in the murderous slave raids in Belgium, Poland and Serbia."

Model for Turks.
"It furnished the model which the Turk has followed, with the assent and connivance of his German overlord, toward the Armenian and Syrian Christians."

"The German-American press, as has been conclusively proved, was lavishly subsidized by the German government during the early stages of the war; as regards some of the papers the actual sums of money were published. The immense majority of the German-American papers were open advocates of Germany, and ardent defenders of her foulest actions against this country, even defending the sinking of the Lusitania. They now dare not be quite so open, but continue more covertly their anti-American propaganda, attacking and vilifying our allies, and at the same time indirectly praising our brutal enemy."

"Whether or not they are still subsidized the effect is equally bad. They endeavor to keep themselves clear of legal action for treason, but that is all. Recently I saw in the public press a quotation from the editor of one such German-American newspaper, who was arrested for disloyal utterances, and his defense was that he 'thought he had been keeping within the law.' Apparently he did not realize that he was hereby confessing this was all he was trying to do—he wished to be as disloyal as he could be and yet keep out of jail."

Law of Treason.
"About the same time, only a couple of months ago, another German-American paper began an article with these words: 'The provisions of the law of high treason are of general interest just now to German-American editors—surely a significant confession. Yet another German-American paper put the case in a nutshell about a month ago when it said: 'The problem of the German press is to save Germanism in the United States.'"

"This last statement contains the crux of the situation. It shows that the man making it, and all the men who defend it, are not Americans, and have no business to remain longer in America. They are German and belong in Germany; they are aliens here, and perilously near traitors. The time has come to make short shift of all men who take such views."

"The men who follow such a course are endeavoring to weaken and embarrass the United States in the conduct of the war in which the nation is engaged. This is treason. The time for silence about these men has passed; the hour for action in the name of loyalty to America has struck."

"Any man who acts as the agent or partisan of Germany at this time is a traitor to this country; just as much a traitor as the copperhead who opposed Lincoln in the civil war or the Tory who in the interest of England opposed Washington in the revolutionary war."

"As I said before, I have German blood in my veins—I am a child of the crucible, as so many Americans of the present are and as all Americans of the future will ultimately be. But all of us who come out of the melting pot of this nation must be cast in the American mold. Very, very many of my staunchest friends in public and private life are in whole or in part of German blood. They include men fit to fill every civil office in our country, from the president down, and to fill every military office from general and admiral down. They are fit to direct our councils in peace and to lead our army and navy in war. They are thus fit because they are Americans, and nothing else!"

"All these men without a single exception stand as solidly against Germany now as the signers of the Declaration of Independence, the immense majority of whom were of English blood, stood against the British in 1776."

"In this country we must have but one flag, the flag that floats over all of us; and but one language, the language of Washington's farewell address and of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech and second inaugural; and, above all, we must have but one loyalty, an absolute and undivided loyalty to this great republic, which holds in its hand the golden hopes for the future of all mankind."

U. S. Grand Jury Indicts Many in Real Record Time

erature" and that the lots are worthless. Held on White Slave Charges. For violation of the Mann white slave act, Charles Briggs, W. T. Brothers, Charles A. Neal and Lee L. Donovan were indicted. John Bowman was indicted on three counts for having in his possession counterfeit silver dollars and trying to pass them.

Goldie Butler and Belle Alexander were indicted for stealing six sacks of sugar from a freight car in the Omaha yards. Charles Dixon of Grand Island was indicted for having opium in his possession. Harry Collins of Omaha was indicted for selling opium as a dealer without registering, securing a license and paying the fee.

Effect of Dry State. The coming of prohibition to Nebraska had a remarkable effect on grand jury indictments. Federal officials remarked the fact that not a single Indian witness was present to testify about liquor violations in the Indian reservations. At some previous grand juries the corridors of the federal building have been crowded with Indian braves, squaws and papooses. Once a court order was made compelling the Indians to remain on the fourth floor so as not to interfere with business in the rest of the building.

The present grand jury returned only three indictments for introducing liquor among the Indians. One of these was against Hazen Rouillard, Louis Walker and George Lawrence; one against John Bear and Hattie Jones, and the other against Iowa Crow and Louis Baker.

Selling Liquor to Soldiers. Four Omahans were indicted for selling liquor to soldiers in uniform. They are James Noonan, Emmett Lindsay, Lawrence Dorsey and Peter Burke.

For violation of the Reed amendment, which prohibits bringing liquor into "dry" territory, five persons were indicted. David Gard and his wife are charged with bringing four gallons of whiskey from St. Joseph to Omaha; George Brisco is alleged to have transported five gallons from St. Joseph to Omaha; Mary Such is charged with bringing three gallons here from St. Joseph, and Joseph Belohlavek must answer to bringing five gallons from Kansas City to Omaha. Harold Johnson was indicted for breaking into the postoffice station at Twenty-fourth and Cuming streets and stealing postage stamps to the value of $14.17.

ber of block houses, which turned a vicious machine gun and rifle fire against them. Among the troops opposing them were Poles. The men made a good start in getting over the top and swept through the eastern portion of Polygon wood. The Germans in re-doubts on the eastern slopes of this wood surrendered and within a comparatively short time the Australians were surging across the race course on the level below.

North of Polygon wood the Australians covered the ground assigned to them in two hours and twenty minutes, the average depth of their advance being 1,200 yards. The entire Australian operation was accomplished with exceedingly small casualties.

It was a proud day for those English troops who forced their way into the western end of Zonnebeke village. Not since the bitter period of April, 1915, when the British were compelled to withdraw from this place, had an allied soldier entered it. The wound of this defeat was healed largely today. In the sector north of Zonnebeke the offensive proceeded systematically until the final line was crushed.

The Germans were active throughout last night and put down a heavy barrage fire before this morning's attack, but it did little damage. Much machine gun fire and sniping was encountered at many places, but for the most part the Germans did not make a determined stand.

Artillery Performs Well. The British artillery fire here had been exceedingly good and the ground was strewn with enemy dead. Serious but brief fighting occurred at a few of the fortified farms and near the railway the Germans delivered an immediate counter attack, but this was broken quickly.

Among the prisoners in this sector were a number of Prussians who were coming in all along the line of the offensive, but it was impossible to estimate the total further than that several hundred had been accounted for at an early hour.

The British are maintaining their new line strongly. The main battle today was in the neighborhood of Cameron house, south of the eastern extremity of Polygon wood, where the Australians are pressing the Germans hard. The situation as a whole is virtually unchanged. Northwest of Zonnebeke heavy fighting continues in the region of the elevations which dominate a considerable extent of territory. From the British standpoint the situation resulting from the offensive is exceedingly satisfactory.

us," I replied, and then I showed by maps our commanding position. Dewey Receives Orders. "When he retired I sent word to Dewey to be ready to sail on an hour's notice. About a week later the ambassador called on me and talked about the weather and tennis, and when I asked about the Venezuelan answer, he admitted that he had not wavered send the message. "I then told him that instead of allowing three days that remained for an answer, I would order Dewey to sail in forty-eight hours. He told me it would be an awful thing for this country."

Germany Comes Round. "Yes, but it will be more awful for your country," I replied. "Inside of thirty-six hours he came back smiling, and said he had received instructions from the German government that they would arbitrate."

KELLY JURY IN DEADLOCK; MAY BE DISMISSED

if I can't return to the ministry. I am proficient at shorthand and typewriting. Of many invitations to go into homes here when acquitted I appreciate most the invitation from Joseph Stullinger. I am positively innocent and sane and do not want to go to any asylum or hospital.

"Shall you return to ministry?" "Naturally I still lean towards the ministry, as all my life I have looked forward to it. This ordeal through which I am passing, however, may have shattered belief in me so that I may not be acceptable any more. My physical strength is at low ebb. I am not an insane man or an idiot, as some would make me out.

"Detectives have simply hounded the life out of me. For months they have been working on me by suggestions. They broke me down. The most exquisite means of torture were used. Case Without Parallel. "The people of Montgomery county have been very good to me. I doubt if the world ever saw the parallel of a man accused of doing what I have been accused of, wherein the parents, brothers and sisters of those murdered have stepped forward to defend the accused. If I am declared guilty, the action of those people in standing by me will go down to the grave with me. I probably shall remain here for a few weeks, where I have so many friends. But whether declared guilty or innocent, sane or insane, I repeat, that I am a sane man and innocent."

Kelly's interview was given this morning soon after Sheriff Dunn told of Kelly sobbing to his wife last night that he wanted to be sent to Anamosa, and that he was insane.

Stand Eleven to One. His wife, who stood by him during the trial stayed with him at the jail till midnight. At the headquarters of Kelly's adherents the information was given that the jury stands eleven to one for acquittal. C. I. Miller, secretary of Kelly's defense committee, claims to have information that several jurors were observed through a window discussing with T. C. Brown, the juror who was accepted over the challenge of the defense when the jury was selected.

You Can Speak English Over Phone Now in Paris

Paris, Sept. 27.—English now may be spoken over the telephone in Paris for the first time since the war began. The presence here of several thousand and newly arrived Americans, who have not been able to master the French vernacular induced authorities to modify the rule laid down at the beginning of hostilities that no language but French could be used over the telephone.

Power Plant Believed Dynamited by Enemy

Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 27.—The spillway at the lower dam of the Boardman River Light and Power company's plant, near here, was dynamited early today. The loss was estimated at $50,000. It is believed that enemies of the government are responsible.
