BALLOON SCHOOL TO MAKE FLIGHT DAILY

Ak-Sar-Ben Visitors to Be Entertained With Kite and Free Balloon Ascensions During Festivities.

Visitors to Omaha this week will find what is probably the most intertieth and Fort streets. There is located Fort Omaha, the only army and hundreds of students from over Christian Association building. the country are training for balloon

Every day during Ak-Sar-Ben week TO GET WHEAT OU observation in the world war. there will be several huge kite ballooms above the fort grounds. In the baskets of these balloons will be young student balloonists, observing the effect of mock trench fire which is going on out in the country miles away. These balloons can be seen easily from the streets.

Visitors Not Allowed.

As has been the rule all summer, no visitors are permitted inside the grounds except those on official business, but a good idea of the work can be gained from a stroll outside the grounds. There are no enclosures to obstruct the view.

There will be a number of free balloon flights made during the week. Some of these balloons will circle the Some of these balloons will circle the no prospect of the prices being any higher than at present.

Interesting Service.

Young men contemplating entering the aviation section of the army, who are in Omaha for Ak-Sar-Ben week, would do well to visit Fort Omaha and get an idea of the most interesting feature of aviation work—balloon observation.

No branch of the service surpasses the balloon work in usefulness in shodern warfare and there is the same demand for skill and daring here as in aeroplane work. On the battle line in Europe now a kite balloon is found to every mile of front. A trained balloonist is the chief treasure of the infantry; he is wrapped up in cotton and kept under glass, figuratively speaking. In actual fact he is guarded with the same tender care that a champion prize fighter is der care that a champion prize fighter is when in training.

Wanted at Front.

Wanted at Front.

The students trained at Fort Omaha will set to the front before most of those at the training camps, for there is great need of them as soon as the American troops start their activities. The infantry and artillery depend largely on balloon observers to direct fire in long-range work, so the artillery must needs wait till the balloonists come over to help. As Fort Omaha is the only army balloon school in the United States, the American troops already in Europe are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the students from Fort Omaha.

dents from Fort Omaha.
Young men interested in this work may get information about Fort Omaha at either the army recruiting station, Fifteenth and Dodge streets, or at Fort Omaha. "There is always room for good men here," said Major Hersey today. "We es-pecially need machinists, men who can drive automobiles, and stenographers."

A strong odor of cough medicine pervades the second floor in the Army building. Major Maher, disbursing officer of the Omaha supply depot, who "disburses" elo-quence as well as Uncle Sam's money, has just returned from a trip over the state. He was commandeered by various towns for

He was commandeered by various towns for patriotic speeches at the gatherings to speed the men for Fort Riley.

In the last week he has made fourteen speeches and also caught cold going from one speaking place to another. He is now trying to regain enough of his voice to speak at Falls City Friday night. He will return in time to pay the men at Fort Omaha Saiurday, so they can enjoy the carnival.

Perishable Food Office to

Be Opened in the City Hall The supervision of perishable foods for Omaha will be carried on from a headquarters office in the rooms of the public welfare board at the city hall. George F. Monro, supervisor of perishables for Omaha, and State Food Administrator Wattles have decided that headquarters are necessary, and through Mayor Dahlman and Mrs. Ohaus, superintendent of the welfare board, it was arranged that the rooms should be used free of charge. The local supervisor will be at these offices every day from 10 to 12 a. m. and Mrs. Ohaus will act as assistant to Mr. Monro. The daily price list issued by this committee, wholesale and retail, in Omaha for the principal articles of perishable food follows:

Railroads Urge Farmers of the West to Move Their Crops of Wheat; Price to Be No Higher.

Local railroad officials are sending appeals to the farmers of Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and South Dakota, urging them to start their wheat to market, with the least possible delay, impressing upon them that there is

The railroad officials are pointing out that within a few weeks, one of the largest corn crops in the history of the country west of the Mississippi river wil: commence to move and that when that time comes, it is possible that there will be something of a freight car shortage, regardless of the efforts that the railroad war board may take to prevent it. In the circular letter being sent out by the railroad officials, attention is called to the fact that May 1, when the pooling of freight equipment commenced, there was a shortage of 148,627 cars apparent, Since then at September, this shortage had been reduced to 31,591 or a reduction of

With the enormous movement of corn that is bound to come in the near future and this added to the vast stores of military supplies that will have to be moved, railroad men fear that while the car shortage will be nothing like what it was last year it will be felt to some extent.

City Dads to Help Harvest

Fine Big Crop of Potatoes Omaha's city commissioners are going to harvest a crop of potatoes. The spuds were planted last spring on park department ground near municipal beach by Commissioner Hummel, or rather Hummel had it done. Now, according to reports received by Hummel, 600 bushels of potatoes are about ready to harvest, so Joe has invited his coworkers in the council to lend a hand. The city dads took the dare and will harvest the spuds some time between October 1 and 10. The commissioners will use the spuds for seed potatoes or will make a Christmas charity distribution of

Amendment to the curfew ordinance to extend the jurisdiction of the police department, under the ordinance, from children under 15 years of age to children under 18 years was introduced as a result of conferences between city dads and the morals committee of the Nebraska Council of Defense in which the women of the committee point d out the necessity of some action to keep young girls off the streets at night.

Chairman Appointed for Women's Bond Committee Mrs. E. N. Fairfield has accepted the chairmanship of the woman's committee for the sale of Liberty bonds in Omaha. Mrs. Fairfield's committee will work in conjunction with the local committee. Other members of this committee will be announced in the near future. Headquarters will be opened in the Saunders-Kennedy building.

WOMEN TO ASSIST ENFORCING CURFEW

Vigilance Committee Will Be Organized at the Court House Saturday Night and Given Police Badges.

Omaha's vigilance committee for the protection of the city's young girls will be organized Saturday night at a meeting at the court house.

The "home guard" is the outcome of a campaign started by the morals committee of the State Council of Defense, of which Dr. Jennie Calfas is chairman. This committee, with the juvenile authorities, will lead in the organization of the vigilance com-

The aim of the movement is to rid the streets of Omaha of young girls at night. Many young girls who should be at home are roaming the streets at night and especially since war was declared has the situation been acute.

The first step in the movement to bring an end to this condition was taken when the city council ordered the enforcement of the present curfew law and agreed to introduce an amendment to it. The present curfew law, however, covers only children under 15 years of age and the staff of the juvenile office is too small to cope with the situation, so the women intend to get together Saturday night, form a vigilance committee and "put a shoulder to the wheel" themselves. The women expect to be especially active during the Ak-Sar-Ben festivi-ties next week. They will be given authority and badges by the police department.

Information Bureau for Ak-Sar-Ben Visitors Opened

An information bureau for Ak-Sar-Ben visitors has again been established at 1414 Farnam street. Omahans who have rooms to let are listing their addresses, together with the number of rooms they have available. Visitors who find the hotels full, or for other reasons want private rooms, can have access to the lists here. The bureau is maintained under the direction of the bureau of publicity of the
