Lee Groves Named to Aid Coach Schulte at Missouri

J. Lee Groves, former Tiger tackle and track man, has been given the position of assistant to Coach Harry F. Schult of the University of Missouri for this football season. Groves was selected as a member of the "All-Missouri Valley" team in both 1915-16.

Rejected as a Soldier, He Goes to France Anyway in Y. M. C. A. Work

He wanted Uncle Sam to place the sword in his hand—that is what Fred B. Walrath wanted. He tried every way to get his big Uncle Samuel to accept him in the capacity of an officer of the line, for he is a born military man. But the army thought him a little too young.

Fred B. Walrath

Then he tried to get into the Red Cross organization in a position of importance, but this did not materialize just as he had hoped. He began to wonder if he ever would get to France in any capacity at all.

The other day he was playing golf with Rev. Titus Lowe, who has recently been appointed for Young Men's Christian association field work in France.

"When you go to France let me know," said the boy, "and I'll go along."

Knowing the boy's capacity for work, the Rev. Mr. Lowe immediately wired Washington and soon a telegram came through appointing young Walrath as the Young Men's Christian association secretary for field service and assigning him to France.

He is now a happy lad—not as happy as if Uncle Sam had let him lead a company of Sammies over a trench—but happy just the same. He is to leave Omaha the evening of October 9. He will join Titus Lowe in New York and together the two will go to France to take care of the Sammies in camp as only the Young Men's Christian association knows how to take care of them.

Fred B. Walrath is a son of C. H. Walrath of Omaha. He is a graduate of the Omaha High school. He was captain of a company of cadets in the high school, and at the University of Nebraska, where he is now enrolled, he is first sergeant of a company and in line for a commission in the cadet battalion.

Even his father admits the boy always had the "military bug," and says the lad was greatly disappointed when he could not be admitted to the officers' reserve corps training camp at Fort Snelling. He is only 20 years old, and the War department thought that a trifle young. He was only 19 when he applied to be admitted to the Fort Snelling training camp. He was rejected on account of youth, and now that he has reached his twentieth birthday, the training camps have raised the age limit and are looking for older and more mature men as officers to lead the American forces in the field.

In France young Walrath expects to be closely associated with Dr. Lowe in the Young Men's Christian association work. He had considerable experience in this line of work in Nebraska, and according to Dr. Lowe is highly qualified to perform the service that will be required of him in the field. He is a good mixer, gets along well with men—in fact he is a man's man—and his friends are looking for good work from him.

NEW APARTMENTS NEAR COMPLETION

Splendid Apartment Building is of Beautiful Architecture and Has All the Modern Conveniences Desired.

The St. Regis apartments at Thirty-seventh and Jones streets, the heart of one of Omaha's best residence districts, are nearing completion. A large list of tenants are waiting for the time when it will open.

The old Spanish renaissance style of architecture shows up to its very best advantage and conforms in a most artistic way with the many beautiful homes which surround it.

From the time one first sees its beautiful front court, the upper portion being divided from the lower by a beautifully carved balustrade with broad steps in the center until he steps in the rear court yard with its driveways and garage, he cannot but be struck with each successive step, by the many beautiful details of the building, by the immense rooms, all well lighted, and by the kitchens, whose equipment of stoves and cupboards and refrigerators and modern plumbing, innovations, conclusively mark this as Omaha's very finest and very best. All apartments in the St. Regis have baths and many have three baths and rooms for servants separated from the suites themselves. There is also an immense cafe which has a modern hotel kitchen and dining room, so that the lady who lives in the St. Regis may cook in her apartment if she wishes, but she doesn't have to if she doesn't want to. The servant problem will not necessarily embarrass her. She can have all her foods prepared in the cafe kitchen and served in her private dining room if she wishes. The cafe will be run so as to attract outside as well as inside patronage.

Ordered Into Service For Failure to Report

Angelo Randoni, 1117 Briggs street, was brought before the Fourth district exemption board Saturday for failure to appear for physical examination. He forfeited all right to claim exemption and will be sent to Camp Funston with the first lot of drafted men October 6. Whether he will be subjected to physical examination before leaving will be determined later.

Mothers' Day Feature at The Omaha City Mission

Thursday was gala day at the Omaha City Mission for the mothers who attend there, many of whom are charter members and having attended since its organization fifteen years ago. Many were made happy, as they had finished their work, and were permitted to take the garments home. After the devotional exercises the mothers were invited to a long table, where they partook of a luncheon prepared by some of Omaha's most prominent philanthropic women.

One little frail mother, a widow with eight children, brought three little ones under school age. Children played while the mothers sewed and chatted with neighbors and friends. These meetings, to which all mothers are welcome, are held every Thursday at 2 o'clock. Many mothers come from 1 to 2 to consult with Dr. Newell Jones about their children.

Small Fines Given for Violating the Reed Law

Mrs. Mary Such pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Woodrough to violation of the Reed amendment and was fined $25. She brought liquor here from St. Joseph.

Thurman McConnell Made Coach at School of Mines

Thurman T. McConnell, former Perdue university star and last year coach of the University of Arkansas, has been appointed athletic director for the School of Mines at Rolla. McConnell has been appointed director of athletics for Drury college at Springfield, but resigned this position to lead the miners. Frank Denny, former miner director, has been commissioned in the army.

Counties Organize for Sale of Liberty Bonds

Douglas, Sarpy and Washington counties have been organized for work in the sale of the next issue of Liberty bonds. W. H. Rhoades, chairman of the Second congressional district, which comprises these three counties, and O. T. Eastman, treasurer of the state liberty loan executive committee, made the rounds of these counties and helped in the organization. They held meetings in Valley, Waterloo, Elkhorn, Bennington, Gretna, Springfield, Papillion and Blair.

"We were greatly impressed with the ready response received everywhere," said Chairman Rhoades. "There seems to be a greater realization than ever of the importance of floating this bond issue and furnishing money to carry on the war to a successful conclusion. One banker at Waterloo subscribed $32,000 for the first issue and he assured us that he would very materially increase that subscription this time."

E. F. Foida, secretary of the state executive committee, finds the same ready spirit existing all over the state. He is in constant communication with district and county chairmen in regard to their organization work.

Thirty-Nine Days in Jail For Failure to Register

Harry Walters pleaded guilty to failing to register for the selective draft and was sentenced by Federal Judge Woodrough to thirty-nine days in jail, dating from August 25. The sentence was made thirty-nine days so that Walters will be released in time to go with the next contingent of the selective army on October 3.
