PROETZ WRITES FROM THE BASE HOSPITAL

Tells Friends That Candy Is One of the Things Men in Europe Appreciate Coming From Home.

From Rouen, France, where American base hospital No. 21 is located, comes a letter to Mr. and Mrs. William F. Baxter, from their cousin, Lieutenant Arthur W. Proetz, St. Louis, who numbers many Omahans among his friends. Young Proetz went abroad in May. He is a graduate of Washington university and has written two light operas in collaboration with Hugh Ferriss. Lieutenant Proetz is using his talent, too, in getting up entertainments for the soldiers and in his letters to his family in St. Louis has asked them to send on his scores and music, since any one able to entertain is enrolled to do his share. The Baxters' letter is an acknowledgment of a box of goodies sent from here. It follows: Package From Home a Joy. "The package from home is one of the greatest institutions in the army. Really you have no idea what joy a box of candy can spread over here. You may think you have, but it's even more than you think. A shout went up when the can of coffee appeared. Eat! Eat! Eat! nothing to boast of. The only reason why no shout went up for the teeth was that everybody's teeth were deep in the candy, for ration tea is, if anything, worse than the coffee. But it's all in the game as we don't mind. "Everything over here is going exceptionally well, for it didn't take long to get into the routine here. What please us most is that I'm getting most of the ear, nose and throat work in this immediate district, which, of course, is what I expect to do 'après la guerre.' I'm not permitted to tell you how many patients I'm looking after. This is the coldest, wettest summer resort I have ever visited. We sleep under two and three blankets always, and it rains perhaps a third of the time. Meets All Kinds of People. "We're constantly meeting all kinds of people—colonels with Indian stories right out of Kipling-Philippine veterans; nobility and quite the reverse; Tommies, Jacks, Hindoos, Russians, Belgians, Sikhs and Gurkas—opera singers entertaining troops, and college professors running Y. M. C. A.'s. Ours is a Cambridge professor of Arabic, Sanscrit and theology), dukes and demimondaines, doctors, diplomats and deck hands. "The mails are irregular and often parcels arrive ahead of letters of the same date. I was surprised to see your parcel come through without any sort of a customs ticket. Of course, we pay no duty, but there is usually a ticket attached, nevertheless. It was fortunate for me that your parcel was put up in tin, etc., for other packages in the same mail were badly crushed. I have had no mail from home for almost three weeks, but no doubt it will come in a bunch one of these days. "Of course detailed information is barred and our kodaks are temporarily locked up, but I can say that we are as happy as people upon this kind of errand can be. I wouldn't have stayed home for anything. Write when you can, letters help a lot."

Mrs. Clark's Recital.

Mrs. Frederick J. Clark had the distinction of giving the first recital of the season, when she appeared last evening at the Happy Hollow club in a song recital, the proceeds of which were divided between the Ladies' society of the First Congregational church, for the building fund and the Red Cross. Mrs. Clark, wife of the pastor of the First Congregational church, is a newcomer to Omaha and this is the first time she has appeared in recital here. She possesses a lovely contralto voice of both range and resonance. Her low tones, especially are full of depth and richness. She presented a program which contained a fair share of old favorites as well as several novelties. Among the latter and one of the most attractive songs on the program was an old fourteenth century gem, which was interpolated before a group of lullabies. Two Franz songs at the beginning of the program and "The Dove," by Landon Ronald, contained much good tone work, and were especially remembered by the writer. Among the favorites presented were "His Lullaby," by Carrie Jacobs Bond, sung with rhythmic abandon, and Nevin's "Rosary." A patriotic note was struck in the last group, which contained the "Marseillaise" and "The Star-Spangled Banner," every one joining in the chorus of the last verse. Mrs. Clark was received with cordiality and responded to applause and flowers with several encores. Mme. Borglum accompanied in her customary pleasurable manner. There was no admission fee charged for the recital, but a voluntary offering was contributed, which, owing to the large audience present and the worthiness of the benefit, undoubtedly brought a neat sum to the treasury of each organization. Upon their return home, the chief noticed lights in the house and with revolver in hand, proceeded to investigate, thinking burglars had invaded his home. To his surprise, he discovered a large number of his friends to celebrate the anniversary. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames—A. C. Kugel, L. A. DeLanney, M. Grand Army Men to Attend The Reunion in Vicksburg

Omaha Grand Army men will attend the National memorial reunion and peace jubilee to be held in the Vicksburg National military park, October 16-19. During the reunion it is proposed to dedicate the naval monument recently erected in the park and if the plans are matured, it is likely that President Wilson or Secretary of War Baker or Josephus Daniels secretary of the navy, will attend. During the reunion the veterans will live in tents the government will erect in the park. They will be provided with cots, mattresses, pillows and blankets, but to meet emergencies each veteran is advised to provide himself with an extra blanket. The thousands of tents that are to be put up in the park will be heated by salamanders. The reunion of the veterans will be informal and no set program has been prepared. There will be orations, music and the old army campfire gatherings, where the veterans will recall the events of more than half a century ago. The park is adjacent to the National cemetery, where 17,000 of the boys who fought during the war of 1860 to 1865 are buried.

The principals of Omaha schools to this end. "We hope a plan of education in dress reform which will reach all women and girls can be evolved," said one of the members. How girls dress has a great deal to do with the girl question, which Dr. Callias and her morals committee are trying to solve, the women opine. The Omaha union offered its assistance to this committee, the city commissioners and the juvenile court in its efforts to take care of wayward girls.

Allege Omaha Men Are Infringing on Patent

John E. Russell, Le Grande Hawkes and Carl E. Balthach of Omaha are made defendants in a suit filed in federal court by Frank J. Trippensee and William F. Trippensee of Detroit. They ask an injunction to stop them from selling the planetariums, an accounting and damages.

Henry Wegworth, known to the police as "Frisco Pete," was arrested at Eighteenth and Corby streets Friday afternoon by Detectives Murphy, Dolan and Pznowski and is held with his partner, Ray Smith, 1808 Corby, for investigation in connection with numerous thefts of auto tires. The arrest of Wegworth is a follow-up of the arrest of Nathan H. Cohn, 2406 Davenport. URSULA DIETRICH

The noted Pianist of New York and Chicago, will appear in a series of unique concerts with the Apollo Reproducing Piano, which is handled exclusively by the

A. HOSPE CO.

Watch the papers for announcement.

Miss Ursula Dietrich, concert pianist, has been appearing with marked success in a number of cities throughout the United States, including New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, Detroit, Toledo, Louisville, Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Los Angeles, etc., before the leading clubs and organizations of these cities.

Miss Dietrich appears in connection with the Artapallo, and in addition to displaying her own artistry and charming personality, shows the wonderful possibility of this latest improvement for the reproduction of piano music. Alternating with the Artapallo, Miss Dietrich has conclusively demonstrated that it is impossible to distinguish between the hand playing of a finished artist and the Artapallo's reproduction.

Playing "duets with herself," this dainty artist is appearing in the first numbers ever written for two pianos played by one artist, for the Artapallo's reproduction of Miss Dietrich's playing is just as much "her own" as the actual hand playing on the second instrument.

Miss Dietrich will give daily recitals from 2 to 5 daily at our warerooms where a complete line of Apollos and Artapallos are on display. Public cordially invited.
